STATE REFUSES TO INCREASE FARES; GIVES FREIGHT RISE

Public Service Commission Declines to Meet Grant on Intrastate Tickets.

REJECTS MILK RATE ALSO

Roads Must Show Present Fares Inadequate, Not Merely Discriminatory, Decision Says.

NEW JERSEY GRANTS ALL

Its Commission Decides State Should Not Restrict Federal Action on Rates.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 19.—Railroads in this State will be permitted to charge the increased freight rates, except on milk and cream, granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission, but the increase in passenger rates asked for by the roads will not be granted just now, according to the decision of the Public Service Commission, announced today.

The ground for this denial is that the passenger rates are substantially all fixed by statute, the steam roads in excess of forty miles in length being limited to three cents a mile, with the statutory rates of two cents a mile for mileage books and a two-cent rate between Albany and Buffalo on the New York Central.

The commission, in a lengthy opinion, rules that such statutory rates cannot be increased by it except upon evidence showing them to be insufficient to yield a fair return. The railroads did not apply for a higher rate of fare on any ground except that of discrimination.

While the power of suspension is limited, complaints against the increased rates may be made at any time before or after the thirty-day period.

In its opinion denying the request to increase passenger rates the commission says:

"The steam railroads subject to the jurisdiction of this commission ask the authority to file tariffs effective on short notice whereby passenger rates will be increased 20 per cent., a surcharge made up on passengers in sleeping and parlor cars amounting to 50 per cent. of the charge of space in such cars and an increase of 20 per cent. made in excess baggage rates.

"The petition is informal and very general in its terms, but at the hearing held in Albany Aug. 17, 1920, it was stated on behalf of the petitioners that the object was to make intrastate rates within the State of New York correspond to the increased interstate rates authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission in the general rate increase case Ex Parte 74. Concurrently with this application there was made by the same carriers an application to file, effective on short notice, increases in freight rates. Such permission was granted in case No. 7,693 for reasons stated in a memorandum accompanying the order. The instant case presents entirely different legal questions.

Federal Rates in Effect.

"The passenger rates now in effect are those imposed by the United States Railroad Administration during Federal control and continued in effect with certain qualifications by the Transportation act of 1920. The basic rate is 3 cents a mile and the proposed increase for ordinary transportation results in a rate of 3.6 cents a mile. The proposed surcharge on passengers in sleeping and parlor cars still further increases the rate for that class of passengers.

"Subdivision 1, not quoted, provides for roads propelled by rope or cable. The other portions omitted relate to narrow gauge roads, those with grades of two hundred feet to the mile.

"It was held in People ex rel. U. & D. R. R. Co. v. Pub. Ser. Commission 171 App. Div. 607, affirmed 218, N. Y. 642, that Section 60 of the railroad law establishing mileage book rates as amended and revised, together with Section 57, with reference to each other and to the public service commissions law, and further that under Section 49 of the public service commissions law, the commission is authorized to permit a rate in excess of that fixed by statute when after an investigation it appears that the statutory rate is insufficient, that the limitations of the statute remain on the railroads but not on the power of the commission. It quite clearly appears that the court was of the opinion that the carrier could not of its own volition file tariffs and put into effect rates in excess of those fixed by statute, and that to effect this purpose it must invoke the power of the commission under Section 49.

State Provision for Increases.

"This section as originally enacted did not contain the clause beginning 'or the maximum rates, fares or charges chargeable by any such common carrier, railroad or street railroad corporation, are insufficient to yield sufficient compensation, &c.,' originally the section referred to excessive, unjust or unreasonable rates or practices. The provision last quoted permitting the carrier to complain when rates are insufficient was added by amendment by Chapter 546 of the Laws of 1911, and is the only provision directly applicable.

"It is not claimed that the present rates are unjustly discriminatory or unduly preferential as between points wholly within the State of New York. The discrimination claimed relates to discrimination between persons or localities in intrastate commerce on the

Falling Mountain Top Buries Igorote Village, Killing 70

MANILA, Aug. 17.—The collapse of a mountain top on this island in a recent storm buried an entire Igorote village under hundreds of feet of earth, blotting out the lives of seventy natives, according to official advices received here today.

The village was in the mountain province, within 200 miles of Manila.

The top of the mountain slid down upon the village at midnight. No bodies have been recovered.

American Star Finishes Eighth in 1,500-Meter Run—A. G. Hill of England Is First.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ANTWERP, Aug. 19.—Today was not America's lucky one in the Olympic Stadium. Of the final events Pat Ryan was the only winner with a great hammer throw, by no means his best, but big enough to beat all his competitors. In the only other final of the day, the 1,500-metre run, both first and second places were taken by Englishmen, Albert Hill and P. J. Baker, with Lawrence Shields, representing the United States, third.

It was in this race that Joie Ray of the Illinois Athletic Club, generally regarded as a sure winner for the United States, not only was beaten but failed to finish better than eighth. Ray set a sizzling pace at the start and carried the runners over the rain-soaked track to such purpose that Hill finally flashed across the finish within six seconds of equalling the world's record for the distance.

Shields made a strong bid for second place, but a hundred yards from the tape the two Englishmen left the others behind and sprinted for the finishing line in tremendous style. There were only a few inches between them, the time of the winner being four minutes, one and one-fifth seconds.

The defeats Americans are receiving in the long-distance races is causing some apprehension, and though, as I wrote yesterday, the trip across the ocean and the short stay here has not given them time to get back into form, it is a disadvantage from which the Australians and others suffer even more.

Pole Vaulters in Form.

In the pole vault and hop, step and jump trials the Americans fared better, and did as well as was expected. In the pole vault all four American competitors, Edwin Myers, Frank Ross, Elden Jenne and Edward Knourek, qualified for the final with three Swedes and one Dane by clearing the three meters, sixty centimeters mark.

They all showed well and justified all hopes in them, but the final is likely to find weak spots in the team. In the hop, step and jump only two of the four Americans survived. The greatest distance was made by the Finlander, Funlos, with fourteen meters, fifty and a half centimeters. The next two were Swedes, and Landers took fourth place with fourteen meters. Dan Ahearn failed to catch up on the Swede in front of him and got sixth place with thirteen meters, seventy-five centimeters.

Many Trial Heats Decided.

Most of the day was taken up by the elimination heats in the 10,000, 400 and 200 meter races. The sodden cinders made the going heavy, for rain had fallen all night and continued to fall all day. There were virtually no surprises, the American and other teams running well to form.

In the first ten heats in the 400-meter race all the Americans, Shea, Meredith, Emery and Schiller, won their heats. In the quarter-final, however, Emery and Meredith were beaten for places and Schiller took second place behind the South African Dafel. Shea, in the last of four heats, beat B. G. D. Rudd in the longest time taken. In the finals England will have two representatives, America two, South Africa two and France one.

The quarter finals of the 200-meter race were more satisfactory. Loren Murchison and M. M. Kirksey both won their heats and Paddock and Woodring took second places, the former behind the English favorite, Edward, who did the fastest time, twenty-two seconds flat, and Paddock behind the New Zealander, Davidson.

Guillemot a Marvel.

Three heats were run in the 10,000-meter race, and the winners of each were Wilson, England, Guillemot, France, and Lumatainen, Finland. The only American to qualify for the final was I. W. Faller, who ran in a heat with the French 5,000-meter champion, Guillemot, and took fourth place.

Guillemot's race was one of the most extraordinary performances yet seen here. He is a born runner and, in spite of having been gassed at the front and paying little attention to his trainers' instructions, he appears unbeatable. All the way he kept altering his step and running out and in for a lead over the Swede, Bachman, who took second place, but at the end Guillemot finished the freshest man and in the fastest.

HARDING DEFENDS SENATE AS SAVING OUR NATIONALITY

He Warmly Commends Its Record in Curbing Executive "Arrogation of Power."

WILL TRUST IT, IF ELECTED

Prefers the Advice of "96 Leading Men of the Republic" to That of Party Bosses.

MEETS OHIO LEGISLATORS

Candidate Also Makes Front Porch Speech to Forty Veterans of the Civil War.

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 19.—The safeguards of the Senate exercising its constitutional authority insure the security of America, Senator Harding said to a front porch pilgrimage of past and present members of the Ohio Legislature this afternoon.

In the longest and most vigorous utterance he has made since his acceptance speech, the Republican Presidential candidate, unmoved by Governor Cox's accusations that he was backed by a "senate ring," launched into an exhaustive defense of the Senate, its powers, privileges and procedure. Mr. Harding was in a defiant mood and made his points with vigorous gestures.

His nearest answer to recent attacks was a reference to cartoon, editorial and platform suggestions "that in case of a Republican victory the incoming President proposes to permit the Senate to have some say in determining the policy of Government."

The Senator paused, drew himself together and then said with considerable force:

"I gladly proclaim all these suggestions to be literally correct.

"I rejoice that the United States Senate is functioning again. We need it to save America," and he promised that a Republican Administration would allow "ninety-six leading men of the Republic to have something to say about foreign relations as the Constitution contemplates."

Again, with an appearance of defiant emphasis, he said:

"I would rather have the counsel of the Senate than of all the political bosses of any party in America."

"Momentary clamor" about eliminating the Senate from responsibility, Senator Harding was inclined to ascribe either to imported ideas from the Paris Peace Conference or to a "reflex of mob mentality which has broken out in revolution in various parts of Europe."

Charges Ignorance by Critics.

Senator Harding opened his address by referring to his experiences in the Ohio Legislature. He said:

"For a vast majority of our public men the General Assembly has been the training ground for public service. Probably in no State in all the Union has the General Assembly been more jealous of its powers than has our own Ohio Legislature.

"Not a few of the most progressive and effective reforms brought about in the State of Ohio had their origin in the General Assembly, quite without recommendation or influence on the part of the Executive, and all our boasted progression has come from the hands of the General Assembly.

"Much is said from time to time concerning the progressive policies of the State of Ohio, and very frequently credit has been unduly claimed by the Executive who happened to be in power at the time the reforms were registered. As a mere matter of justice, the fact ought to be stated that most of the reforms have come through the leadership of House and Senate.

"A Republican General Assembly, with an Executive quite without sympathy with its general program, perfected the Workmen's Compensation act and gave to the workmen of the State probably the most nearly ideal law of any State in the Union.

"Some of us have been witnesses to the work of the Federal Senate during the last five years, and I confess amazement at the ignorance of some who cry out against the Senate, or the contempt of others for the Senate's very proper and constitutional part in Federal Government. In our own State it has been the practice, though not without exception, to send our most eminent men to the United States Senate. In easy memory, there were Sherman and Garfield and Thurman and Pendleton and Hanna and Foraker.

"I am not disparaging the House of Congress. Indeed, I could entertain no such thought. There has ever been genius and statesmanship, and high ability and lofty purpose in the membership of that body, but with rare exceptions, like that of Reed and Cannon and McKinley and Giddings, the House was ever the training school for eminent activities in the Senate.

"I do not hesitate to say that the Senate saved American nationality in 1919 and 1920, when the Executive proposed to surrender it. The Senate preserved our independence of action when the Executive insisted that a foreign council should decide our future place in the activities of the world and call us to war and our destiny.

"It has become quite the fashion among unheeding partisans of Democratic faith to cry out against the Senate and the part it plays in the Fed-

Ball Game Spectator Dies When Ruth Gets Home Run

During the excitement following Babe Ruth's forty-third home run at the Polo Grounds yesterday a man seated in a box near the third base foul line died from heart disease.

Theodore Sturm of Ontario Road, Bellrose, Queens, had joined with the 18,000 other spectators in giving Ruth a rousing ovation. He had stood up in the box and was wildly waving his arms and shouting when he suddenly sank back in his seat and began to gasp. He was taken to a retiring room, where, before medical attendance could be summoned, he died.

Mr. Sturm was the New York representative of the Toledo Scales Company. There were few among the thousands of spectators who knew that for the second time in four days death had cast its shadow in the big amphitheatre.

COX SAYS OPPONENTS SEEK $15,000,000

Declares $700,000 Was Raised in One Place in One Day.

OPENS INDIANA CAMPAIGN

Asserts Bankers Are Plotting Against Federal Reserve Act—Names Senate "Oligarchy."

Special to The New York Times.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 19. — A declaration that the Republican Party was raising a campaign fund of not less than $15,000,000 and that its leaders had made "the sky the limit" was made tonight by Governor Cox, in addressing a public meeting at the Tabernacle here. The merest fraction of this vast sum, he said, was being subscribed by workers in factory and field.

In one place on one day $700,000 had been raised by the Republicans, the Governor asserted. He knew, he said, because they were doing it openly. Later, he declared, he would make public the names of persons who in the names of themselves and nineteen clerks had put in $20,000.

The Governor added that the Democratic Party had no such sum with which to finance its campaign; that he personally would scrutinize every contribution and would not accept one cent of "tainted money."

He named Senators Lodge, Smoot, Penrose and Watson as the leaders who brought about the nomination of Senator Harding and now were with the Republican nominee for the destruction of the League of Nations and the advancement of certain special interests. They were, he added, of the same crowd who always were blocking progress, appearing at every corner of the road.

Governor Cox also asserted a plot was being hatched to destroy or render impotent as a public instrument the Federal Reserve banking system and to refuse membership in it to any but members of the banking group who were in control of the Senate clique which was responsible for Senator Harding's nomination.

Recognizing the prominent part which the women of America will play in the election because of the action of the Tennessee Legislature in ratifying the Federal Suffrage Amendment, Governor Cox also put the League of Nations issue into the forefront and attacked the Republican Party as at present constituted for the stand which he said it had taken for the destruction of the League and the making of a separate peace with Germany. His words on the League never failed to bring a hearty response.

Addresses Two Meetings.

The Governor addressed an open air meeting this afternoon and in the evening dined with the Indiana Democratic Editorial Associaton. He made a short after-dinner speech and then addressed a large mass meeting in the tabernacle.

In the afternoon address when Governor Cox pledged himself to obtain legislation which would stop profiteering, should a Democratic Congress be elected to support him, a man in the crowd shouted:

"How about Wilson? Why didn't he do this?"

"My friend," said the Governor, "if you will let me answer, you will get an earful. Your party was in control of Congress and that's the reason nothing could be done."

Cheering interrupted the Governor's answer. When the heckler could make himself heard, he replied:

"But I'm not a Republican, I'm a Democrat."

This sally was greeted with laughter and applause.

"You'll have lots of company this year," replied the Governor.

Leaders such as Thomas Taggart and Mayor Bosse of Evansville, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, expressed confidence that half a dozen speeches of the kind Governor Cox made today would assure victory for the party in the State.

There was a large crowd at both afternoon and evening meetings, and cries of "Give it to 'em, Jimmie," accompanied the applause which greeted him. Governor Cox treated the same subects in both addresses.

"I bring to you the cause of progress and humanity," he said. "I do not ask you to come to Ohio to see me: I come to you because our cause needs no defense.

"There is no necessity to have guards on every side of me, guarding my every word. It is the pride of my cause which brings me here. The Presidency belongs to the people of the United

CHARGES OF FRAUD IN SUFFRAGE FIGHT MADE IN TENNESSEE

ASSERT OFFER OF $10,000

Affidavits Allege That Big Promises Were Made to Win Burn's Vote.

HE AND FRIENDS DENY IT

Declares His Mother Was the Only Influence to Cause Him to Change His Vote.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 19.—Failure of anti-suffrage leaders today to attempt to force the lower house of the Legislature to reconsider its action of yesterday in ratifying the Woman Suffrage Amendment was overshadowed in interest by the launching of a County Grand Jury investigation into charges that improper influences had been brought to bear on members of the Legislature in their consideration of the measure.

Publication by the Nashville Tennessean and the Nashville Banner of two affidavits attributed to C. C. Wallace, Judge of the City Court of Lewisburg, Tenn., and Ennis E. Murray of Nashville, general agent for the Federal Land Bank of Louisville, Ky., alleging that an attempt had been made by a suffrage leader to bribe Representative Harry T. Burn, Republican, of McMinn County, was a feature of the day's developments.

Forty-seven members of the Tennessee Lower House have already signed a pledge to vote to reconsider ratification of the woman suffrage amendment, Speaker Walker of the House declared tonight, speaking at a mass meeting called by those opposed to women suffrage. Others will sign the pledge tonight or tomorrow, Mr. Walker said, declaring that the ratification vote would be reconsidered. Mr. Walker was leader of the anti-suffrage forces in the fight in the House, and changed his vote to "aye" in order to move for reconsideration.

Judge Debow's Charge to Jury.

The Grand Jury, charged by Judge U. D. B. Debow, of the Davidson County Criminal Court, lost no time in getting to work and before noon had summoned J. T. Eichelberger of Washington, D. C., a publicity man in charge of headquarters here of the anti-ratification forces. Mr. Eichelberger was before the jury two hours and it was said additional witnesses would probably appear tomorrow.

Judge Debow's charge was directed at alleged special interests which it has been charged have representatives here working against ratification.

"It has been and it is being currently reported by some of the friends and advocates supporting the ratification of the proposed Federal amendment," Judge Debow told the jury, "that forces of corruption and representatives of special interests have come into this State from beyond our borders and that lobbyists, or in any event individuals bearing the reputation of lobbyists, have been and are present in this city and county, invading and infesting the rooms of our State Capitol and the lobbies and public assembling places in our hotels, and other places in our county."

After quoting and explaining the State statutes relating to lobbying the Court instructed the jury to return indictments promptly if an investigation developed that the laws had been violated.

Charges of the attempted bribery of Representative Burn were not regarded seriously by suffrage leaders and many anti-ratificationists were frank to say that their views were similar. Mr. Burn was recorded as voting with the suffrage opponents on both roll calls on a motion to table the ratification resolution, which was lost on a tie vote, and a few minutes later cast his vote for the amendment.

One vote decided the issue in favor of suffrage.

The affidavits charged that he was approached during the interval between the vote on the motion to table and the vote to concur with the Senate in ratifying the amendment.

Hanover Denies Corruption.

Representative Joe Hanover of Shelby County, alleged in the affidavit attributed to Murray as having told Burn that if he would vote in favor of ratification he would be given "anything in the world he wanted" and that "it would be worth $10,000 to him," characterized the charge as "no more than a clumsy effort to blackmail or embarrass friends and supporters of the rights of our women."

Mr. Hanover said his conversation was confined to an appeal to Burn to vote for suffrage.

Major C. L. Daughtry, Secretary to Governor Roberts, named in both affidavits as urging with Hanover that Burn vote for ratification, declared Hanover did not intimate to Burn that he would be paid any amount of money or that he would be given any other consideration for his vote.

Representative Burn, in a communication to the House today, which was ordered spread on the journal, declared that he had changed his vote in favor of suffrage because of his conviction that justice demanded it.

"I know that a mother's advice is always safest for her boy to follow," he declared, "and my mother wanted me to vote for ratification.

"I desired that my party in both State and nation might say that it was

Four Cossack Groups in Alliance With Wrangel Acknowledge the General as Military Chief

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Information was received in an authoritative quarter here today that a treaty has been signed between General Baron Wrangel, anti-Bolshevist leader in the Crimea, and representatives of the Don, Kuban, Terek and Astrakhan Cossacks, according to which the Cossacks acknowledge the authority of Wrangel in military affairs and foreign relations, with domestic administration in Cossack territories to remain completely in the hands of the Cossack Governments.

The importance of this step consists chiefly in placing under the authority of Wrangel's Government the fertile Cossack regions covering an extended territory to the north and east of the Crimea. Wrangel, it was known, had effected an accord with the neighboring Cossack leaders, but, according to authorities here, the present information is the first intimation that this accord amounts virtually to a union of the Cossacks with General Wrangel.

The agreement is of further importance as indicating the extent to which Wrangel has been able to unite elements in South Russia which, under the régime of General Denikin, were continually involved in internal disputes which hampered military operations and contributed largely to the failure of Denikin's effort.

HUGE DISASTER FACED BY REDS

Entire Force Before Warsaw May Be Cut Off and Compelled to Surrender.

EFFORTS TO HOLD IT THERE

Polish Armies Southeast of the Capital Unite and Push North to Prevent Foe's Retreat.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 19.—The Polish counter-offensive is proceeding with great success. One Polish army has advanced no less than ninety kilometers in three days, and a dispatch from Warsaw published in tonight's Temps states: "The Bolshevist retreat is being transformed into a disaster without precedent since the beginning of the war."

It is now possible to form a clear idea of the Polish manoeuvre which, except for the general circumstance of the victorious enemy being defeated before the defenders' capital, does not resemble the first battle of the Marne as much as has been suggested. On Aug. 14 the Reds had swung their right wing along the German frontier to the gates of Thorn. Their centre was within ten miles of Warsaw and their left, based on Brest-Litovsk, had crossed the East Galician frontier, occupied Brody and was threatening Lemberg.

Unlike the first Marne defeat, where Gallieni sent Maneury's army to try to envelope the German right wing, while the rest of the French army had orders to die where it stood rather than retreat, the Poles attacked at three points simultaneously. The Bolshevist right was driven back along the frontier by a direct stroke of the new Posnian army from Thorn, which was supported by a move northeastward of the troops defending Warsaw so as to threaten the enemy's rear.

In front of Warsaw itself where the principal enemy forces were massed the Poles made scant progress during the fifteenth and sixteenth. Their main attack was in the centre, under direct command of Pilsudski, striking due eastwards from the line of the Vistula some twenty miles south of Warsaw. Unlike the battle of the Marne, where Foch's break through the German centre was rendered possible by the thinning of the German line to counter Manoury's envelopment, Pilsudski's forward drive met immediate success, and by noon yesterday his vanguard had reached the station of Miendzyrzec on line from Ivangorod to Brest-Litovsk, a gain of ninety kilometers in three days.

The third Polish drive from the region of Cholm pushed due north on the left bank of the Bug River in the direction of Brest-Litovsk. These two armies effected a junction yesterday at a point southeast of Miendyrzec, netting several thousand prisoners and much material. Their aim is now to push straight up north to cut the railroad running eastward from Siedlce. If this manoeuvre can be effected, the whole mass of Red troops before Warsaw will be cut off and forced to surrender. To "nail" them to their present positions and prevent precipitate retreat before Pilsudski can cut their communications, the whole Polish force defending Warsaw was ordered to attack frontally in an easterly direction last night.

It will be seen that complete victory is not yet assured, but that the Poles have gained enough to warrant the statement that the Bolsheviki are on the verge of unprecedented disaster. Already the Poles have completely severed the Bolshevist left wing from its centre and are threatening the latter most seriously. The Red wing has been rolled up and can give no assistance. The left wing may attempt a flanking movement against the combined forces of Pilsudski and the army from Cholm, but the latter should be quite able to parry anything of that kind.

Of paramount importance in fighting where the majority of the forces engaged are raw and undisciplined is the

POLES REJECT ONE PEACE DEMAND

Refuse to Disarm Unless Russians Do Likewise, Berlin Hears from Minsk.

REDS COMPLAIN OF DELAY

Assert They Desire Only Restoration of "Solid, Friendly and Neighborly Relations."

LONDON, Aug. 19 (Associated Press.)—The Polish delegates at the Minsk conference have refused to accept a peace condition advanced by the Soviet for the disarmament of the Polish Army unless the Russians themselves disarm, says a wireless dispatch from Berlin, quoting a report received from Minsk.

The peace negotiations at Minsk were not continued Wednesday as agreed, owing to the fault of the Polish delegation, according to a message dispatched from Moscow Wednesday by George Tchitcherin, Soviet Foreign Minister, to Leo Kamaneff, the Soviet representative in London.

M. Tchitcherin's message follows:

"Yesterday, at the first sitting of the Minsk conference, the Russo-Ukrainian delegates had insisted that the second sitting should occur today, and should not be delayed until the 19th, as the Polish delegation desired. Nevertheless, through the fault of the Polish delegation today, the sitting did not occur. The Russo-Ukrainian delegation sent, through its Secretary, an official protest to the Polish delegation."

MOSCOW, Aug. 19 (Associated Press)—"We are not conquerors and shall evacuate Polish territory immediately. Poland gives us guarantees that the Polish Republic has abandoned its aggressive policy and is resolved to commence peaceful, constructive work."

This was one of the statements made by M. Danishevsky, Chairman of the Soviet armistice delegation at the opening of the Russo-Polish conference at Minsk, according to details of his speech just received here.

"Soviet Russia and Ukraine," M. Danishevsky declared, "are regarding with full sincerity and a brotherly feeling of solidarity the workers and peasants of Poland, and desire only one thing, restoration with Poland of solid, friendly and neighborly relations."

After going into details concerning the attitude of his country, M. Danishevsky continued:

"We consider that the representatives of the Polish Government have appeared here ready to abandon their former policy of aggression, and that the Polish Government will afford the Polish people the possibility of entering into peaceful, constructive work and cease senseless bloodshed."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The opinion is expressed in well-informed quarters here that the strength of the Red armies operating against Poland, despite undoubted Nationalist support, has been exaggerated.

It is further believed that the Soviet forces have advanced so far beyond the terminals of their communication and supply systems that a concerted counter-attack by the Polish troops at the present time must result in a general retirement along the entire front.

In this event, it is argued, the allied nations must make clear to Poland, and, if possible, cause a statement to be made by the Polish Government, that Poland must and will refrain from undertaking such provocative enterprises as the joint Polish-Ukrainian offensive which brought about the present crisis. Further, it is declared Poland must consent to keep within her ethnographic limits and renounce efforts to re-establish the "frontier of 1772."

Trotzky Said to be in Prussia Consulting German Army Staff

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevist Minister of War, has arrived in Prosken, on the East Prussian frontier, about ten miles southeast of Lyck secretly from Bialystok to negotiate political and strategic questions with German staff officers.

This report is conveyed in a dispatch to the London Times from Danzig, and the correspondent adds that a preliminary conference of Soviet and German officers occurred Aug. 12 in East Prussia.

It is asserted also by the correspondent that German volunteers from East Prussia are forming an army near Vilna to march ostensibly as a revolutionary army into East Prussia and bring about joint action by East Prussia and the Soviets against Poland.

WARSAW, Aug. 19 (Associated Press).—The Polish offensive is now in full swing. More than 10,000 prisoners, 30 cannon, 300 machine guns and thousands of supply carts have been captured from the Bolsheviki.

The Poles have occupied Plansk, Pultusk and Wyskow, through which the Reds drove in their sweep towards the capital.

Owing to the Polish pressure from the northeast, it is reported that the Bolsheviki are withdrawing their forces which reached the Vistula south of the Prussian border and to the northwest of Warsaw.

The Warsaw sector is rapidly being cleared of the Bolsheviki. North and northeast of the capital, the Reds are being shoved back by the Poles, who are following them up all along the front, using artillery in such quantities as to cause great confusion among the invaders, who now are on the run.

To the east the Bolsheviki are reported to be making their way across the Bug at various points.

Sledice was taken by the Poles early on Wednesday.

According to last night's official communique reporting the successes of yesterday the Fifty-seventh, Fifty-eighth and Eighth Bolshevist Divisions on the Warsaw front were annihilated and thousands of Soviet soldiers made prisoners.

The Russians lost their bearings in trying to meet attacks on all sides from the Polish columns on their flanks, the statement said. The Poles, continuing their advance occupied Kamuszyn, thirty-five miles east of Warsaw, Siedlce, fifty-seven miles east of the capital, Milzyrzec, twenty miles southeast of Siedlce, and Wlodawa, on the Bug River, 125 miles southeast of Warsaw.

Massing Now to Save Lemberg.

The Poles were reported to be regrouping before Lemberg for a counterstroke against the Bolsheviki, who were less than thirty kilometres from the city.

In the region of Thorn, about 105 miles northwest of Warsaw, the same communiqué said, the Poles launched a counteraction in the direction of Brodnica, which still was occupied by the Bolshevist forces. In the region of Lipno, about twenty-five miles southeast of Thorn, and at Siedlce, the Bolsheviki started an eastward movement, aviators reported.

North of the fortress Novo Georgievsk the Red forces were dislodged after stubborn resistance, a Polish cavalry charge smashing a Bolshevist brigade. The Bolsheviki leaving Pultusk, thirty miles north of Warshaw, took with them the town Mayor and all of the clergy as hostages, the communiqué stated, adding that 1,500 prisoners were gathered in in this engagement alone.

General Pilsudski has been with the troops east of Warsaw and under shell fire, but escaped uninjured. On various parts of the front where the Poles are advancing, Bolshevist troops are reported to have been cut off from their main forces in great numbers, thousands surrendering daily when they realize they have been cut off.

Along the Bug, south of Brest-Litovsk, heavy fighting has been under way. A Soviet division is said to have been cut off from retreat in the region of Wlodawa and to have suffered heavy casualties, among them a brigade commander, Seven hundred prisoners, including many officers, were taken.

Among the incidents of yesterday mentioned in the communique was a Bolshevist advance into parts of former East Prussia which are now in Poland, northwest of Mlawa. The Bolsheviki reached the towns of Lidzbark and Dzialdow and met with co-operation from the German population everywhere, according to the communique. The statement added that it had been ascertained that Bolshevist infantry have been forced to fight by the Communists, who, it said, have applied a system of merciless terror.

The Kosciuszko squadron and Major P. Cedric Fauntleroy of Chicago have received special mention for bombing and observation raids Monday on the southern front, effecting their forty-ninth flight and stopping the Soviet advance.

An official communique issued Tuesday reported that at Novo-Minsk, east of here, and Serock, to the northeast, 3,000 prisoners, seven cannon, hundreds of wagons and vast quantities of supplies were captured from the Bolsheviki.

The Bolshevist retreat north and west of Warsaw, where the Soviet forces were closely driven by the Poles, took the semblance of a rout at some places, the communique reports. Northwest of Warsaw the Russian troops, who met resistance at Wloclawek, where they had designed to cross the Vistula, bombarded Wloclawek for hours, the shells damaging the cathedral and the bishop's palace.

Pilsudski in Big Manoeuvre.

PARIS, Aug. 19 (Associated Press).—Polish forces are advancing with undiminished speed along the line running from north of Warsaw to Wlodawa, about 110 miles southeast of Warsaw. Principal interest, however, attaches to the manoeuvres of General Pilsudski's forces.

Massed reserves which he had concentrated at Ivangorod, southeast of the capital, have advanced sixty miles in three days and effected a junction with another army operating from Cholm. United, these armies were within eighteen miles of the strongly fortified Brest-Litovsk, 120 miles east of Warsaw, at noon Wednesday, and have now probably reoccupied that important centre of communication, which the Reds late Wednesday night were reported to be hurriedly evacuating.

The initial tactical aim of this manoeuvre, say military experts, is already more than attained, as the left wing of the Bolshevist army, based on Brest-Litovsk, has become separated, the Red centre is being held before the forts of Warsaw and on the right they are reported in a critical situation.

According to the latest news, the Poles have almost reached their next objective in the course of the middle Bug, below Brest-Litovsk. Once this is attained, it is believed the retreat of the Bolsheviki concentrated in the Seidlce region will be cut off, and they will be left with only one way to retire beyond the Bug. This is by way of the Warsaw-Bialystok road.

North of the Narew River the Polish left wing is continuing to advance, and is now well up in the fork between the Narew and Bug Rivers, making a converging attack on the Pultusk bridgehead.

In the centre the Poles are rapidly driving the Reds back on the Upper Bug between Chechanovo and Drohiczyn.

In the region of Thorn, in the Danzig corridor northeast of Warsaw, fresh troops have appeared on the scene. They surrounded the Red detachments which reached the Vistula River and removed all danger to communication between Warsaw and Danzig by the Vistula and also cleared the railroad from Danzig to Soldau.

Moscow Reports Fierce Fighting.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Fierce fighting is continuing in the region of Warsaw and Novo-Georgievsk, the strong fortress about nineteen miles northwest of Warsaw at the confluence of the Vistula and Bug Rivers, according to Wednesday's official statement issued by the Soviet Government at Moscow. Subjoined is the text:

"Our troops have crossed the river Visla and have occupied Sotslavsk. In the Novo Georgievsk and Warsaw regions, the same fierce fighting continues. In the Lemberg region, we forced the Bug and occupied Busk and Zlochoff. In the Buczacz region, fighting continues with alternating success along the Strypa.

"In the Crimean sector, in the Orlekhoff region, we engaged the enemy with alternating success along the river Karachekray."

SOVIET ORDERED PAY FOR LONDON HERALD

British Labor Organ Mentioned as Recipient of Subsidy in Bolshevist Messages.

LONDON, Aug. 18.—A series of wireless messages between George Tchitcherin, Russian Bolshevist Foreign Minister, and Maxim Litvinoff, Bolshevist representative in Copenhagen, during February, March and July, dealing with financial transactions between the Russian Soviet Government and The London Daily Herald was officially made public here tonight.

These messages, which were intercepted in several European countries, seem incomplete. Some of them refer to a commercial deal in newsprint paper. Others, so far as can be judged from the apparently curtailed text, show that Litvinoff was urging Tchitcherin to subsidize The Herald.

A message sent in February declared that the newspaper was losing £1,000 a week, and in another, sent in July, Litvinoff said the paper was again in financial difficulties and needed 50,000 francs for six months.

"I consider The Herald's work especially important for us," said this message. "It acts as if it were our organ."

Later the Bolshevist Foreign Minister telegraphed to Litvinoff directing him to tell the management of The Herald that a "subsidy would be paid," and that he had ordered certain Chinese bonds to be handed over to the newspaper.

In one of Tchitcherin's messages, sent on Feb. 29, Litvinoff was instructed to consult the editor of The Herald regarding details of publication in England, adding: "Point out to him who will give him orders and regulate the number of copies. Isn't he now able to send legal pamphlets to America?"

This isolated reference to America is not explained.

The Herald prints the official statement, together with a statement by its editor, George Lansbury, declaring that all the newspaper's dealings with the Russian Government were legitimate business transactions and concerned the purchase of newsprint paper, which, however, was not obtained. It is denied the Russian Government, directly or indirectly, had the slightest control of The Herald, and also that the newspaper ever received Chinese bonds from the Russian Government. Mr. Lansbury does not refer specifically to the alleged subsidy, but asserts:

"The sources from which The Herald receives its money are open to public inspection and it has nothing to hide."

BELGIUM NEUTRAL AT PRESENT

DERBY LETS PARLEY ON WRANGEL DROP

Ambassador, After Seeing Lloyd George, Discontinues Efforts at Foreign Office.

ALLIES UNABLE TO AGREE

Lloyd George Pleased with Soviet's First Peace Proposals—Premier Reaches Switzerland.

PARIS, Aug. 19 (Associated Press).—The Earl of Derby, British Ambassador to France, tomorrow will resume his vacation, interrupted so that he might confer with Maurice Paleologue, General Secretary of the French Foreign Office, on questions arising out of recognition by France of General Wrangel, the anti-Bolshevist leader in South Russia.

Official circles interpret Lord Derby's withdrawal from conversations with M. Paleologue, after the Ambassador's conference with Premier Lloyd George on board the train taking the Premier to Switzerland yesterday, as not necessarily meaning the French and British Governments have reached an agreement on the subject. On the contrary, the opinion was expressed today that the point of view of the two Governments is so different that it was decided to abandon discussion for the time being.

Reds' Terms Please Lloyd George.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—Premier Lloyd George passed through Paris this afternoon on his way to Lucerne. As his train was merely switched from one station to another his presence here was quite informal and he neither made nor received official visits.

The British Ambassador, Lord Derby, joined the train at Chantilly and talked with the Premier during the three-quarters of an hour run to Paris. Afterward Lord Derby paid his second visit of the day to Foreign Office Director Paleologue.

Mr. Lloyd George was much gratified by the news received in London in an official message from Moscow that at the meeting of Russo-Polish armistice delegates yesterday the President of the Russian delegation—Danishevsky, and not Radek or the redoubtable Trotzky, as had been reported—declared that the Reds would give Poland a better frontier than that proposed by the Allies and make no attempt to interfere with the internal Government of Poland. Lord Derby is understood to have emphasized this point in his subsequent conversation with M. Paleologue.

If there is no joker to be revealed later, as the French fear in the Bolshevist program, his moderation is a distinct score for Lloyd George, although the French are inclined to ascribe it more to the recent successes of the Polish arms than to Red magnanimity.

It is felt here that if the Bolsheviki take that line the pressure on the British Premier to recognize the Soviet Government will be irresistible, which would make the French position difficult. On the other hand, there is the possibility that the Polish recovery may develop into a victory on a big scale, which may once more alter the situation.

It is considered unlikely that the French will oppose reasonable peace terms very much. What they have really been anxious about is Germany rather than Poland. Poland is a vital factor in the French foreign policy simply because it is a counterpoise to Germany, and the apparent breakdown of the Russo-German scheme to establish a common frontier, which the French believe was on the verge of completion, has eased their minds to a very great degree.

It is now possible to state that the matter was judged to be grave only last week that the question of striking sudden blow from the Rhine bridgeheads at Germany was seriously considered. It was that which led to the war rumors about which the French Socialists have been making so much fuss, but which they themselves believe, or profess to believe, referred to a military expedition to help Poland.

The Socialists are now making a great outcry about the expulsion of the British labor leaders, which was so little rigorous that they were allowed to take a train also a full day in Paris. The Socialist clamor is contrasted with their silence when their own Deputy, Lafont, was hunted out of Russia a short while ago by Lenin. The fact is that Millerand, as an ex-Socialist himself, knows how hopelessly divided the party here is and how weak it is.

Lloyd George Reaches Lucerne.

LUCERNE, Aug. 19.—David Lloyd George, the British Prime Minister, arrived in Lucerne this afternoon. To the correspondent of The Associated Press Mr. Lloyd George said that up to the present the only official meeting that had been arranged was one with Signor Giolitti, the Italian Premier, this would probably take place on next Monday.

No visits from Dr. Walter Simons, the German Foreign Minister, or Prince Feisal, King of Syria, had as yet been arranged, he added.

BERNE, Aug. 19.—Asked by Swiss newspapermen for his opinion on Germany's attitude toward the peace treaty, while passing through Basel on his way to Lucerne, Premier Lloyd George replied:

"Well, when the Germans have to choose between Bolshevism and the Treaty of Versailles they certainly will choose the latter as the lesser evil."

SILESIANS INVADE PLEBISCITE OFFICES

Documents Strewn About Streets in New Disorders—Two More Lynchings Reported.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—Despite the fact that a state of reinforced siege was proclaimed by the Interallied Commission at Kattawitz, fighting and anti-Polish rioting were resumed yesterday, it is stated in Berlin newspapers. These newspaper accounts say that late in the day virtually the entire populace poured into the streets and formed an enormous assemblage, marching to the hotel, which is the headquarters of the Polish Plebiscite Committee.

When security police arrived to disperse the crowds, the newspaper dispatches say, shots were suddenly fired from the hotel. These were replied to and heavy firing ensued. At 9 P. M. the inmates of the hotel surrendered, and about seventeen persons are reported to have been arrested by the security police. One of those arrested, it is said, was summarily shot as he was alleged to have attempted resistance. The others were lynched by the angry crowd.

Documents of the Plebiscite Committee were strewn about the streets after the disorder ceased.

Occupation troops, according to reports reaching Berlin, were confined to their barracks, which were barricaded.

The crowds wrecked the plant of a Polish newspaper and numerous other Polish establishments.

French officers attached to the Interallied Commission left their headquarters, and, the newspaper dispatches say, their French songs as they marched away were drowned by the crowds who sang out, "Victorious, we will beat France."

Advices received from Kattowitz up to 3 o'clock this afternoon indicate that the tension of the German population on the one side, and of the French troops and Polish elements on the other, is not relaxing and that fresh outbreaks are likely. Two thousand Italian troops have arrived in Kattowitz.

The advices say that desultory firing is in progress in various parts of the city which are policed by the Security Police and that lynch law is freely being resorted to by the enraged German workers.

A force of security police, accompanied by armed civilians, has been sent from Kattowitz to intercept a Polish "shock" force which is marching on the town, according to a press dispatch today.

The dispatch adds that there are indications of a Polish counter-action being prepared, not only in Kattowitz, but in other towns of Upper Silesia as a result of the recent grave fighting between the contending factions in this region.

Negotiations were begun some time ago by the German Government with the Allied Commission at Oppeln regarding the maintenance of the neutrality of the plebiscite districts of Upper Silesia, says a semi-official statement issued here tonight. It is declared the commission has given assurances that henceforth it will prevent any assistance being sent to warring powers through those territories.

FRENCH SAY RIOTS ARE BOLSHIVISTIC

Foreign Office Denies French Commander Was Forced to Disarm Troops.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Aug. 19.—The Foreign Office has received a report from the inter-Allied Commission in Upper Silesia where serious rioting occurred on Tuesday. Not only were French soldiers and German Security Police and civilians killed and wounded but what renders the incident specially grave is that it is only one of three similar outbreaks in ex-German or plebiscite area during the past ten days. The two others were at Mezl on Aug. 11 and at Danzig during the past week.

The Upper Silesian Commission states that the successes of the Red army against the Poles had produced an agitation among the workers for some time past, which culminated when a detachment of French troops was moved in from Teschen to replace Italians a few days ago. The centre of the agitation was the town of Kattowitz, where on Tuesday a deputation of workers demanded from the French commander, Colonel Blanchard, that the troops be disarmed. On his refusal rioting began which, says the report, "rapidly developed into an organized outbreak of a distinctly Bolshevist character."

The French troops were attacked, two being killed and eight wounded. Ten Germans were killed and ninety wounded. The large German figure is due to the fact that the troops intervened against the rioters and received and inflicted losses. One of their officers and two men were killed and several wounded.

A Wolf telegram dated at 1 o'clock yesterday morning went so far as to declare that the colonel Blanchard had been intimidated by the "terrible" situation into agreeing to the disarmament of his men. This is denied here. The Commission's report declares, on the contrary, that a state of siege was proclaimed at Kattowitz and more French troops called in from the adjoining areas. Calm had been restored yesterday, but popular feeling still ran very high and it was uncertain whether the trouble had ended.

An affair at Memel also began with a Communist demonstration before the house of the French General, Odry, who was accused of pro-Lithuanian conduct. A collision followed between the police and the manifestants, with the consequence that a general strike was proclaimed. A Wolff telegram the next day stated that General Odry had made certain concessions to the strikers, who resumed work.

At Danzig the cause of the disturbance was the expectation of disembarkation of munitions for Poland. The Allied Commissioner, Sir Reginald Tower, refused to allow the munitions ship to enter the harbor on the grounds that he had not a sufficient force at his disposal to insure disembarkation and prevent the arms being seized by the protesting workers' organizations.

I am informed tonight by the Foreign Office that the French take a very serious view of the Danzig question as involving not only Poland's safety but the inviolability of the Treaty of Versailles and that they will insist that if necessary an adequate allied force be landed at Danzig to ensure free traffic with Poland.

Regarding the Kattowitz affair a strong protest will be addressed immediately to Berlin.

AMERICAN WORKERS UNDER FIRE IN ADANA

RELIEF FOUND IMPOSSIBLE

Eighteen Persons in the American Colony Giving Aid to 10,000 Armenian Refugees.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 16 (Associated Press).—Showered nightly with Turkish bullets and facing famine, eighteen American workers of the American Commission for Relief in the Near East have been besieged in Adna, Asia Minor, since June 20. Twice the French troops holding Adana have fought their way to Mersina, the nearest port, and have returned with heavy losses.

A flour cargo of the American Relief Commission for beleaguered Adana is waiting at Mersina. The railway has been demolished and supplies can reach Adana only by motor trucks, heavily convoyed, with great loss of life, through the sixty-mile stretch controlled by the followers of Mustapha Kemal Pasna, the Turkish Nationalist leader, who are determined to starve out the French in Adana.

The siege of the city was described to the correspondent by Webster Anderson of Crawfordsville, Ind., who has arrived in Constantinople after escaping from Adana on Aug. 7 and walking southeast to the Mediterranean. The Turks encircling Adana have little artillery, according to Anderson, and consequently make raids chiefly at night, when the entire town is raked. Thus far the Americans have not been injured, but their buildings have been peppered and they have not been able to leave the compounds at night.

The French artillery in Adana kills many Turks and affords cover for the troops, which make frequent sallies into the surrounding farms and vineyards for food. The Americans are maintaining soup kitchens and work shops for 10,000 Armenian refugees. All the orphans of Adana with the exception of 300 have been sent to Cyprus.

The Americans are Doris Nevin of the Colony Club of New York, daughter of the composer, Ethelbert Nevin; Mrs. Emily R. Block of New York; Miss Adelaide Crane of Quincy, Ill.; Miss Ruth W. Henry of Amherst, Mass.; Miss Nan Lowe of Avis, Pa.; Dr. and Mrs. William Dodd of Montclair, N. J.; Phillip Anson Ilfors of Springfield, Mass.; Wilson Fowle of Woburn, Mass.; George W. Patterson of Randolph, Vt.; William Rambo and his wife of Philadelphia; Earl H. Seeley of San Angelo, Texas; the Misses Mary and Elizabeth Webb of Boston, Mass., and the Misses Clara Bisson and Margaret A. Owens. The two last named are members of the Young Women's Christian Association.

Bolshevist Invaders Thus Seek to Curry Favor in Occupied Poland.

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—The Bolsheviki in the occupied districts are carrying on active communistic propaganda, but neutral observers report that they are only successful with a few industrial workers. The peasants, who form the great mass of Poland, are skeptical and demand positive guarantees. The Bolsheviki are striving hard to win their favor, and their methods are illustrated by the following account of a correspondent who visited one of the large estates.

"I saw here Russian Commissioners and their assistants presiding over the distribution of harvest crops. All the peasants on the estate received wheat free in proportion to the size of their families. One Commissioner opened the stable door and brought out a dozen fine horses, half of which were consigned to the Russian artillery and the others divided among the peasants. When they asked the Commissioner about the land itself, he replied:

"'My orders are only to distribute goods, but Moscow's promise to divide the land among the peasants will be respected later.'

"I went to Miava, where I found the Bolshevist Commissioners buying out the clothing stores. They paid with Soviet roubles and distributed the clothes free to the working men."

question of morale. Victory is now with the Poles and it is the Reds' turn to be outflanked and in danger of being surrounded. German officers with whom I talked in the Baltic who had fought on the eastern front insisted that when once the Russian troops knew they were outflanked in a small action or great it took the heart right out of them. I personally saw several cases of this in the Letto-Bolshevist campaign, and it may well prove the decisive factor.

BOLSHEVIKI IN PANIC ABANDON THEIR GUNS

Retreat Is as Rapid as Was Their Advance, Allied Observers Assert.

By A. A. DAVIDSON.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WARSAW, Aug. 17.—We are all busy rushing our little flags back on the map and Warsaw is breathing more deeply as the Russian grip on her is becoming relaxed. A communiqué issued tonight shows many important places recaptured in the north—Nasielsk, Serock and Pultusk—and in the southern sector of the defensive line are Novominsk, Kaluszyn, Lukow and probably by this time also the railway junction of Sedletz.

The speed of the Bolshevist retirement is comparable only with that of their advance, and all observers agree that panic prevail among the Russian troops.

One allied military observer who was at the front informs me that guns are now being left in the woods, the gun teams being so demoralized that they make no effort to get them away.

One Russian prisoner promised his captors that he could show where five batteries of artillery had been left. A horse was given to him and he duly conducted his captors to a wood and produced the batteries.

Altogether, things have become very rosy, and none are talking now of the occupation of Warsaw. Already luggage may be seen being taken back to the hotels, with the owner behind it looking rather sheepish that he ever went away.

It certainly was a near thing. Three weeks ago Warsaw was almost indifferent to the war, which seemed so far away, and the capital was rather more heartless and unfeeling than capitals usually are. But as the danger became real one could feel the city gathering itself together, and it was a fine psychological study to see the people preparing for a last desperate resistance.

The Bolshevist flood came up against a hardened wall on the Vistula and struck it, only to be forced to the west, which is why we all are pushing our flags back and referring to the "Second Battle of the Marne." Those who made bets on Warsaw's fate are now paying them off.

No flag waving as yet has taken place, however, but the streets are beginning to appear more joyous and the people are hoping that neither side will commit any foolishness at Minsk, but will talk reasonably and be willing to settle a satisfactory peace.

REDS LEAVING LITHUANIA.

Evacuate Vilna in Accordance with Terms of Agreement.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Evacuation of Vilna by the Bolsheviki, under the terms of the recent Russo-Lithuanian agreement, is reported in official dispatches. Troops are being slowly withdrawn to Grodno, where the military staff has also moved, the despatches say, and schools, hospitals and waterworks have been returned to the Lithuanians.

Oppose American Aid to Poland.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—American intervention "of any character" against Russia in the war with Poland was opposed by San Francisco Lodge No. 68 of the International Association of Machinists, a resolution unanimously adopted. The resolution, which was made public today, also binds the union members to give no aid "in the manufacture or handling of materials intended for use against Russia."

CHURCH CONCLAVE SUPPORTS LEAGUE

World Conference on Faith and Order Urges That All Nations Join.

GENEVA, Aug. 19.—The World Christian Conference on Faith and Order closed today after having passed the following resolution:

"This conference, assembled in Geneva, representing eighty churches and forty countries, rejoices in the formation of the League of Nations for the prevention of war and the protection of small nationalities. It earnestly desires that those nations not yet within the League will soon become or be admitted as members thereof. The conference urges the ministers of all churches to impress upon their people the duty of promising in every way the objects of the League of Nations and of praying that the Holy Spirit may guide its operations and that the Holy Spirit may so influence the hearts of the rulers and the peoples that disputes between nations may be peaceably settled, and that the time may be hastened when wars shall end."

The Patriarch of Jerusalem invited the conference to meet next year in Jerusalem.

Robert Gardiner of Gardiner, Me., Honorary General Secretary of the conference, was presented with a gold fountain pen in recognition of his valuable services.

There is much speculation concerning the object of the visit of Herr von Simons, the German Foreign Minister, to Switzerland. I learn that the visit is connected with the final effort for Germany's joining the League of Nations in order to participate at its first assembly, to take place at Geneva on Nov. 15.

Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary of the League, has prolonged his stay in Switzerland in order to facilitate von Simons's mission.

The number of delegates and representatives announced for Nov. 15 is so great that many will have to be accommodated in Lausanne, one hour's journey from Geneva by rail, because the Geneva hotels cannot find room for them.

The League will meet in Reformation Hall in Geneva. In the hall forty divisions are being arranged for the different nations represented.

GENEVA, Aug. 19 (Associated Press).—The headquarters of the League of Nations has informed the League of Red Cross Societies that the Governments composing the League are ready to provide essential supplies and transportation necessary to deal with distress and epidemics in Eastern Europe. It was learned here today.

The action is said to be in accordance with correspondence between the two Leagues and also with a resolution adopted at the General Council of the League of Red Cross Societies last March. The Red Cross League is sending out an appeal to member societies to take immediate action.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 19.—The French Socialist, Jouhaix, who arrived in Amsterdam last night from Paris, came with the idea of arranging for international action on the line of the British Council against the transport of arms and munitions to Poland.

He has been conferring with representatives of England and Belgium and with the Dutch President of the International Trades Union and President of the International Federation of Transport, Edo Fimmen.

"We are still conferring," said Fimmen today, but No decision has been reached as yet, but we hope to be able to communicate a decision tomorrow."

Fimmen spoke optimistically of the work in hand. He also stated that Germany was not represented in the conference.

SAYS HARDING IS CHOICE OF GERMAN-AMERICANS

Milwaukee Paper Declares Convention in Chicago Decided to Back Him to Beat League.

Special to The New York Times.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 19.—The Milwaukee Journal today prints the following dispatch from a staff representative in Chicago:

"Warren G. Harding, candidate of the Republican Party, was chosen by the convention of the German-American Citizens League as its candidate for President. Mr. Harding was indorsed in a resolution to which the delegates, in session at the Chicago Lincoln Club, agreed Wednesday afternoon. The resolution, which will be given to the public later, is understood to embody the policy of the German League and the reason which led it to choose the Republican nominee.

"Opposition to the League of Nations was the factor which determined the conference to throw its support to Senator Harding. The conference held that the League of Nations is by all odds the paramount issue of the campaign, and the Republican stand against the covenant meets the views of the conference.

"The delegates were in session Tuesday and Wednesday. Their deliberations were closely guarded. All sessions were executive. It was agreed before adjournment that nothing should be disclosed in advance of the formal statement and resolutions.

"In addition to German League delegates the conference included men who are identified with the Committee of Ninety-three, of which George Sylvester Viereck of "Fatherland" fame, is a leading sponsor.

"Dr. Gehard, the Secretary, stated that his correspondence in recent months had shown that Senator La Follette is the overwhelming choice of the league members for President, and undoubtedly Senator LaFollette would have received its indorsement had he become a candidate for President.

"Observations dropped by those who attended the conference indicated that the members were aware of Senator La Follette's limitations.

"One member declared the Senator could not carry any State outside of Wisconsin. The sentiment that Lafollette would not win seemed to pervade the conference. The delegates want to defeat Governor Cox and the League of Nations, and they subordinated all other considerations to that aim.

"This feeling was evidenced by Dr. Gehard's reply to an inquiry as to what the conference did with respect to prohibition.

"'Nothing,' Dr. Gehard replied promptly. 'We are against the Eighteenth Amendment, and we say so.'

"Dr. Gehard went on to state that while he is believed in beer and light wines he would do without them if the price to be paid for them was his becoming a subject of Great Britain. He said he meant by this that the League of Nations would subject America to England.

"The conference was in reality a continuation of the convention of the German League held in Chicago May 2 and 3, before the national conventions. This convention in its platform denounced the League of Nations, with or without reservations, claiming its adoption would be contrary to the counsel of Washington, and that it would violate the Monroe Doctrine."

IRISH MODERATES CALL DOMINION CONFERENCE

To Meet in Dublin Next Week—Battle on Country Road—Deport Hunger Strikers.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Irishmen of moderate views concerning the problem of dominion home rule will gather at Dublin from all parts of Ireland next Tuesday for a conference.

This meeting, says a Dublin dispatch to The Daily Mail, has "been endowed with considerable importance by the change in policy in Downing Street.

"Although the Premier's statement in the House of Commons last Monday puzzled Irish politicians," the dispatch says, "it is wrong to take a pessimistic view of the situation, as the way to peace is by no means closed."

Cauture Troops and Lorry.

DUBLIN, Aug. 19.—A military escort of one non-commissioned officer and eight private soldiers was disarmed last evening by thirty Irish volunteers near Annascaul, West Kerry, and the motor lorry in which they were traveling was destroyed by fire.

The party had conveyed provisions from Tralee to a detachment in Dingle and on the return journey they were ambushed by civilians, who threw a bomb into the car. This stopped the engine and immediately a sustained fusillade was directed on the lorry at close range from concealed positions by the roadside.

The soldiers replied until all their ammunition was exhausted. Then the attacking force seized their arms and the lorry was set on fire. Four of the soldiers were seriously wounded and seven of the attackers were also wounded.

The raiding force commandeered a passing motor car, placed the military casualties in it, and after their injuries had been dressed on the spot conveyed them to the Dingle hospital.

Waiting for the return of the motor car, the other members of the escort were marched under guard to a neighboring farmhouse and given tea, after which they were driven in a second car to within easy walking distance of Dingle and there released.

Later, at night, there was considerable military and police activity in Tralee, from which two lorries, an abandoned car and a motor ambulance went out in the direction of Dingle. Police patrolled the Tralee streets and warned the inhabitants to be within doors at an early hour. After midnight rifle firing was heard, but the cause has not been ascertained.

At Loughmore, three miles from Templemore, just before dawn the police barracks was invested by armed men, who used bombs and rifles. The attack was defeated, the police sustaining no casualties, although the barracks was slightly damaged.

Armed and masked men captured an entire consignment of mail as it was being transferred from a train at Bunerana to the mail van this morning. On its previous journey the train had been held up at Damfries, and Government letters were seized.

Lord Belew's residence at Jenkinstown Park, near Kilkenny, was raided yesterday by masked men, who removed sporting rifles, shotguns and ammunition.

MACROOM, Aug. 19. — Lieutenant Sharmen, commanding a military patrol, was killed and four of his men were badly wounded last evening near Ballyvourney in a pitched battle with armed civilians, who delivered a surprise attack.

DUBLIN, Aug. 19.—The holding up and robbing of mail trains and mail motors by armed and masked gangs is continuing apace. A party boarded a Dublin Southeastern train at Ferns last night, holding up the officials and taking all the official mail.

Twenty raiders held up a mail car near Kilbrittain and seized six bags of mail.

CORK, Aug. 19.—Eighteen hunger strikers were deported this morning. They were removed on stretchers to heavily guarded lorries, and taken to a Government vessel, which put to sea for an unnamed destination. The prisoners had abstained from food for seven days.

BELFAST, Aug. 19.—A resolution advocating a general boycott of Belfast farms, owing to alleged persecution of Catholics, has just been adopted by the Leitrim County Council.

Cheerful Aspect and Healthful Complexion Marked by Observers on His Recent Drives.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The improvement in President Wilson's physical condition has become so marked that those who are daily associated with him are now willing to tell some details concerning his "come-back."

Heretofore there has been a pronounced reticence in regard to the President's illness, which some of his friends thought an unwise policy as it resulted in the circulation of sensational reports as to his state of health. No authoritative statement has come from the White House but enough is now told to give a clearer idea of how the President is getting along.

The fact that stands out in the disclosure about the President is that he now weighs 179 pounds. This was his normal weight when in the best of health. In the early part of his Administration, the President made a trip in the Mayflower to Yorktown, Va., and while there was weighed on a public scale. He tipped the beam at 180 pounds. Some surprise was expressed over this by people who knew the President, as it was not supposed that he weighed so much, but it was stated at the time that it was his normal weight.

THE TIMES correspondent saw the President as he started on a motor ride on Tuesday afternoon. It was noticeable that his face looked fat and inquiry brought the information that he had gained back all the weight that he had lost during his illness of nearly a year. The President had a better color than at any time since he was stricken and he seemed altogether cheerful.

Less Trouble by Lameness.

Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, the President's physician, confirms the statements that the President is back to normal weight and is making steady progress. The President is endeavoring to overcome the lameness due to paralysis of the cerebellum in the left arm and by walking up and down stairs to exercise the muscles of his left leg. He uses a cane in walking and is gradually coming to depend less and less on it.

Cabinet officers and others who have conferred with him have been encouraged to see him get up when he is particularly interested in some subject under discussion and walk up and down while giving his views. Cabinet meetings are held weekly, and at these the President, according to statements made, has shown a remarkable mental vigor. His associates have been struck particularly by his ability to get at the kernel of any problem right off, to his strength.

The President rises now much earlier than he did in the early stages of his convalescence. He is usually up at 7 o'clock. Sometimes he shaves himself, using a safety razor. He is at breakfast at 8 o'clock and eats heartily.

He glances over the newspapers, or has them read to him, and at 9 starts in on official business. It is asserted that the President works as a rule for the entire forenoon, signing official papers, dictating, writing shorthand notes and otherwise strictly attending to public affairs. He dictates without hesitation and manages to do a large amount of work.

From about noon until 1 o'clock the President usually reads on the sunny south portico of the White House. Then he gets luncheon and afterward takes a rest. Nearly every afternoon he goes for a motor ride with Mrs. Wilson.

On several occasions he has gone for a drive in a horse-drawn victoria, and this has given people in the streets a chance to get a better look at him than is afforded when he is in his motor car. It is suspected here that the President was used in order to impress upon those who saw him in it that there had been a remarkable improvement in his physical condition, perhaps with the idea of contradicting the sensational stories that have been in circulation, concerning the state of his health and his appearance.

The President's Diversion.

In addition to his motor car rides, the President finds diversion in seeing motion picture films displayed in the big East Room. This practice was begun before the President was taken ill and resumed when his condition permitted. Heart-throb film stories do not interest the President. He likes plenty of action in the movies and is most partial to cowboy thrillers. He finds enjoyment in reading and is being read to.

His interest in everything that goes on around him was shown the other day when three small boys, who took off their caps to him as he was passing them in his motor car, so pleased the President by their politeness that he invited them to take a ride with him. They all accepted.

He goes to bed early and from all accounts is getting plenty of sleep. Inability to get enough sleep was one of his difficulties in the earlier stages of his illness.

Rear Admiral Grayson recently left Washington for a vacation at the urgent solicitation of the President. It was realized then that Dr. Grayson considered the President out of danger and his confidence that the critical period of the President's illness had passed was emphasized by the fact that he did not regard it as necessary to leave any other physician in charge of the patient. Dr. Grayson has been constant in his attendance on the President, during most of whose illness he slept every night in the White House.

It is not likely that the President will leave Washington this Summer, it is said. He has shown an aversion to doing so, as he finds that he is as comfortable there as he could be anywhere. The intensely hot weather here for the last several weeks does not seem to have retarded the progress he is making in health.

The story of the President's illness has never been told in any authoritative way. That he had suffered a cerebral stroke was disclosed by one of the medical specialists called in to attend him, but no confirmation has ever come from those at the White House privileged to speak on the subject.

It is believed that when the full story is told it will be found that the President was desperately ill for a considerable period, and that when his physicians announced in an official bulletin, shortly after his return to the White House from his Western speech-making tour in behalf of the League of Nations covenant, that "the President is a very sick man" his condition was critical.

LLOYD GEORGE NOT COMING.

Report of October Trip Here Denied —Hopes to Visit Us Next Year.

LUCERNE, Aug. 19.—The private secretary of Mr. Lloyd George asserted today that there was no truth in the report widely circulated in America that the Premier intended to visit the United States and Canada in October.

He said, however, that Mr. Lloyd George hoped to make a visit there next year if the European political situation is improved.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Premier Lloyd George does not contemplate any trip to Canada or the United States, as had been reported, it was announced officially today. The conference he was asserted to be expecting to attend is to be held in London.

STATE REFUSES TO INCREASE FARES

one hand and interstate or foreign commerce on the other. A discrimination may, however, as well result from interstate rates that are too high or too low as from intrastate rates that are too high or too low, and the proper correction may be in the interstate rates over which this commission has no control. There is no express authority given to the commission to grant rates in excess of those authorized by statute except under Section 49, which has to do only with rates insufficient in themselves. We should not in the absence of legislative authority arrogate to the commission power to authorize a rate in excess of the statutory maximum merely to enforce a recent act of Congress which contains within itself a special remedy."

Decision on Freight Rates.

In granting the increase of freight rates the commission declared:

"The steam railroad carriers subject to the jurisdiction of this commission ask the commission to issue a special permission order authorizing such carriers to issue and file with the commission, effective Aug. 26, 1920, tariffs or supplements to tariffs providing for an increase of 40 per cent. in all existing freight rates, except rates on fluid milk, cream and articles taking same rates, whether transported in ordinary freight trains or special milk trains; an increase of 20 per cent. in rates on fluid milk, cream and articles taking same rates, and an increase of 40 per cent. in charges for switching, transit, weighing, diversion, reconsignment, lighterage, floatage, storage (not including track storage) and transfer, where the carriers provide separate charges against shippers for such service; also the revision of switching absorption tariffs so as to provide for the revision of switching absorptions in accordance with the increased switching charges petitioned for, subject to the rules and conditions prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission as to interstate rates and charges contained in its opinion in the matter of the applications of carriers for authority to increase rates.

"It is inevidence on the application, and, indeed, it is a matter of common knowledge, that the Interstate Commerce Commission in the case above referred to authorized such increases in interstate traffic in what was designated as the Eastern group, including, roughly speaking, the northeastern part of the United States and extending southerly to lines in Virginia and West Virginia and westerly to lines in Illinois.

"The application to this commission is based not only upon the alleged revenue necessities of the petitioners but also upon established relationship between intrastate and interstate rates and a necessity of avoiding undue preferences or unjust discriminations, which would result should there be a substantial difference in rate structures and bases as between traffic wholly within the State of New York and traffic moving interstate.

Many Support Increase.

"The evidence submitted consists of the entire record, including the evidence, opinion and order in the proceeding before the Interstate Commerce Commission, known as Ex Parte No. 74, the testimony of Mr. Daniel Willard as to the general situation and needs of the carriers and certain formal documentary proof. At a hearing held at Albany Aug. 17, 1920, after general notice given to the press and special notice to municipal officers, Chambers of Commerce and other commercial bodies, a large number of persons attended and no one voiced opposition to the general purpose of the petition.

"A large number of letters and telegrams have also been received from commercial bodies and shippers, nearly all of them urging the commission to grant the petition on the hearing. However, objection was made to extending the proposed increase to certain particular classes of traffic. The Corporation Counsel of the City of New York was represented for the purpose of asking an adjournment in order to afford time to make a thorough investigation of the subject.

"The disposition we are about to make of the case amply protects all these interests. That the evidence before the Interstate Commerce Comm

PRESIDENT HAILS SUFFRAGE VICTORY

He Sends a Telgram to Gov. Roberts Expressing Satisfaction at Tennessee's Action.

WAR ON SENATORS TO START

Women Expect to Fight Wadsworth, Moses and Brandegee—Lady Astor Sends Congratulations.

Text of Wilson's Telegram On Tennessee Suffrage Vote

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 19.—Governor Roberts tonight received telegrams from President Wilson and Franklin D. Roosevelt expressing felicitations on the ratification of the suffrage amendment by the Legislature.

President Wilson's message read:

"If you deem it proper, will you not be kind enough to convey to the Legislature of Tennessee my sincerest congratulations on their concurrence in the Nineteenth Amendment? I believe that in sending this message I am, in fact, speaking the voice of the country at large."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—President Wilson sent a telegram to Governor Roberts of Tennessee today expressing his satisfaction over the ratification of the suffrage amendment by the Tennessee Legislature. The text of the message was not made public at the White House, where it was said that the President preferred that Governor Roberts should make known its contents.

Miss Alice Paul and other leaders of the National Woman's Party, while elated over the result in Tennessee, are instructing their representatives in Nashville to be on the alert to prevent any defections in the ranks of the legislators who voted for the suffrage amendment in the Tennessee House of Representatives yesterday when the House tomorrow reconsiders the vote.

Miss Paul has also communicated with Mrs. Abby Scott Baker of Washington, the Woman's Party representative at Marion and Dayton, urging her to obtain renewed assurances from Senator Harding and Governor Cox that they would use additional efforts to keep members of their respective parties in the Tennessee Legislature in line for suffrage.

Mrs. Baker reported that she had seen Governor Cox and had been assured that he would leave nothing undone to hold Democratic votes for the amendment. She said that she would motor to Marion to interview Senator Harding.

With the Federal amendment apparently ratified by the requisite number of States, Miss Paul has communicated with members of the party's Executive Committee to ascertain what is the earliest date that a meeting of the committee can be held in Washington to determine plans for the party's national convention. Tentative plans were made today to have a four days' session of the convention in Washington within the next two months.

On the first day memorial busts of Susan B. Anthony, Lucretia Mott and Elizabeth Cady Stanton will be presented to the United States Government to be placed in the rounda of the Capitol, if the busts arrive in time from Italy, where they are being completed by Mrs. Adelaide Johnson, a lifelong friend of Miss Anthony.

Messages by cable and telegraph came to Miss Paul today, congratulating her on the ratification of the amendment.

From Ellen Key of Sweden, author and feminist leader, came the first message:

"Sisters, use your enfranchisement in the noble spirit which made Susan B. Anthony great in the struggle."

Olive Schreiner of South Africa, the writer, cabled:

"Hearty congratulations. May all women unite to labor for peace and universal international brotherhood."

Lady Astor, first woman member of the British Parliament, sent this message:

"Women's quality of moral courage is essential in public life to help the growth of better social and international relations."

Lady Constance Lytton, sister of the Earl of Lytton, and one of the militant suffragists of England who served prison sentences, cabled:

"Congratulate the American States on the overwhelming victory for women's enfranchisement. The world power women hold will greatly strengthen them internationally."

Madame de Witt Schlumberger, President of the French Woman Suffrage Organization, now working for political equality for the women of their country, sent this message:

"Enthusiastic congratulations from the French Union for woman suffrage to their American sisters upon their enfranchisement so well merited."

Countess Maria Loschi of Rome, Italy, cabled:

"American women have already good will, splendid preparation, and great power. May their final enfranchisement be blessed. May all roads be open to this new wonderful army. Be united, dear friends, especially after this deserved victory, and accept greetings from an Italian woman who has known, loved and appreciated you."

Among the telegrams received by Miss Paul from people in this country were messages from the forty-eight State branches of the Woman's Party.

Opinion here differs as to what bearing the granting of universal suffrage will have on the national elections in November. A disposition has been shown by organizations of women suffragists to let their members follow their own inclinations instead of urging party action for or against this or that candidate for political office. It is expected, however, that women who have been active in the suffrage movement will work as individuals against the reelection of candidates who have been opposed to the adoption of the suffrage amendment.

Considerable opposition to the renomination of Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., of New York, has already developed on account of his opposition to the amendment. Senator Frank B. Brandegee of Connecticut, another Republican candidate for renomination and re-election, is also on the blacklist of the suffrage leaders. He is accused of being responsible for the refusal of Governor Holcomb to call a special session of the Connecticut Legislature to consider the amendment. Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire, also a Republican, will be opposed in his campaign for re-election. Women already have the vote in New York and New Hampshire, but not in Connecticut.

HARDING WELCOMES WOMEN TO HIS PARTY

Says They Are Needed, as Democrats Menace a 'Moral and Social Reform Recently Achieved.'

Special to The New York Times.

MARION, Ohio, Aug. 19.—Elaborating upon yesterday's short statement hailing ratification of the Federal suffrage amendment by the Tennessee State Legislature, Senator Harding, in a statement issued today, ranked the achievement of woman suffrage with the preservation of the Union and the emancipation of the slaves. Senator Harding said:

"However much some of us may be pleased with the congratulations which today assure us that we helped bring about this result, the fact remains that the women won their own victory. Their long struggle against many discouragements has been a splendid preparation for the duties now imposed on them. They will be full partners in shaping national programs and policies. However they may divide politically, their finer moral sense, their social instincts, their primary concern for home and family and health and education, will be a constant inspiration to and insistence upon higher and better aims in our national life.

"Whoever will consider the practical contributions of women to national advancement, especially in the quarter century since the woman's club movement became a driving force, must recognize what it means to enlist now the full power of womanhood in public affairs. I look upon the enfranchisement of women as an accomplishment to be rated along with our achievement of independence, our preservation of the Union, our emancipation of the slaves, and our contribution in the World War to the rescue of civilization itself.

"As to immediate political effects, we Republicans may, and do, feel secure. In this campaign we face issues on which we may be confident that the voice of womanhood will pronounce for us. Once more the real independence of our nation is involved. A great moral and social reform recently achieved is menaced by the covert purpose of our opponents to attack it. Enfranchised women will make no mistake in choosing between the Republican Party, which has been the very movement for social and industrial betterment, and the Democratic Party, which has notoriously refused to force these enlightened policies in the South, where it completely dominates. Nor will women forget that more than four-fifths of the ratifying States are Republican States."

CAROLINA HOUSE REJECTS.

Concurs, 71 to 41, in Senate Postponement of Suffrage Ratification.

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 19.—The Federal Suffrage Amendment was defeated by the North Carolina House of Representatives today by a vote of 71 to 41.

The Senate having already voted to postpone consideration of the amendment until the regular session of the Legislature next January, the action of the House today virtually ends the ratification fight in this State until that time.

A straight-out rejection resolution reported by the Constitutional Amendment Committee was tabled by the House without a dissenting vote, immediately after the ratification resolution had been defeated.

Vote upon the ratification resolution was forced by the anti-suffrage forces without debate.

REVIVE FUSION MOVE AGAINST SOCIALISTS

Democrats and Republicans Hope Yet to Defeat Ousted Assemblymen.

GLYNN URGES SACRIFICES

State Chairman Favors the Withdrawal of All G. O. P. Candidates.

Although the matter apparently had been closed by the failure to reach agreements before the expiration of the time for filing designating petitions, renewed efforts were made yesterday to bring about complete fusion against the Socialist candidates for the Assembly who were expelled last Spring, particularly against Samuel Orr and Samuel A. De Witt, in the Third and Fourth Districts in the Bronx.

The election law gives a certain leeway in this direction, making it possible for candidates to decline designations before midnight on Aug. 27 and giving five days additional for the filling of vacancies. As a result of the renewed negotiations, fusion in the two Bronx districts was said to be likely, but little or no progress was made toward fusion against Charles Solomon, the Socialist candidate in the Twenty-third Brooklyn district, although George A. Glynn, Republican State Chairman, stated that he favored the withdrawal of all Republican candidates in the districts where their candidacy made the election of a Socialist probable.

Arthur H. Murphy, the Bronx Democratic leader, notified Richard W. Lawrence, the Bronx Republican County Chairman, yesterday that the Democrats would accept any Republican except Senator Peter A. Abeles as a candidate in the Twenty-second Senatorial District. The insistence of the Republican leaders upon the renomination of Senator Abeles blocked fusion in the Bronx, as the Democrats, who accepted Republican indorsement of three Democratic candidates for the Assembly in consideration of the Democratic indorsement of Senator Abeles two years ago, refused to continue this arrangement because Senator Abeles voted for ratification of the prohibition amendment.

Democrats Bar Only Abeles.

"The Democrats will gladly indorse any man the Republicans may want to name except Senator Abeles," said Mr. Murphy. "We could not be consistent with the Democratic platform if we indorsed Senator Abeles.

"If the Republicans want fusion this shows a very easy way to bring it about. The Democratic Party cannot accept Senator Abeles in view of his record on prohibition. He is an absolute prohibitionist. Not only did he vote for it, but he was mainly instrumental in having the ratification resolution passed. It seems to me that the Republicans ought to find it a simple matter to select some one else."

Mr. Murphy said he made this statement concerning the situation so that the people of the city might know where to place the responsibility for the failure of fusion. He declared that, if there should be no fusion, the responsibility would be upon the Republican leaders. The best information obtainable in Republican circles was that Senator Abeles, who cannot hope for re-election running only as a Republican, probably would withdraw and that fusion would be effected in the Bronx district and the danger of the election of a Socialist Senator from the Twenty-second District averted.

Fusion in Remaining Districts.

Fusion has been effected against the two remaining expelled Socialists, Louis Waldman of the Eighth Manhattan District, and August Claessens of the Seventeenth Manhattan District, both of whom are candidates for re-election. There is a likelihood of their re-election, despite fusion. The designating arrangements so far are made refer only to nominations for the general election, but whatever fusion arrangements made for nominations for the regular term also will apply to the nominations for the special elections on Sept. 15, which will be made by the respective party committees.

George A. Glynn, chairman of the Republican State Committee, said he favored complete fusion. "I think that the Republican leaders do not care who occupy the seats so long as they are held by loyal Americans," he said. "The Republican leaders I have spoken to have advised that the Republican candidates be withdrawn and the Democratic candidates indorsed, if that is essential for fusion."

Mr. Glynn, when asked what action the Legislature would be likely to take in the event of the re-election of some or all the expelled Socialists to the Assembly, said that he understood that the members of the Socialist Party were now voting in a referendum upon certain proposed changes to their constitution. These proposed changes are understood to provide for the cessation of the practice of each Socialist office holder filling a blank resignation with his local organization, for making aliens noneligible for members of party committees or as delegates to nominating conventions and for less stringent planks concerning votes by Socialist members of legislative bodies for military and naval appropriations.

"Socialists Must Purge Themselves."

"If the Socialists by changes in their party constitution meet all objections raised last year in the Assembly, I assume that there will be no objection to their candidates being seated," said Mr. Glynn. "If the Socialists do not purge themselves, I assume their candidates will receive the same treatment that was meted out at last Spring."

Charles D. Orth, President of the National Security League, made an appeal yesterday to the Democratic and Republican State Chairmen and the legislative leaders of both parties for assistance in bringing about fusion. Mr. Orth declared that a move to keep the Socialists out of the New York State Legislature or to reduce their representation was more than a local question, it was of State and national importance. In urging fusion while there is yet time in every district where there is a chance of the election of a Socialist Mr. Orth said:

"I have pointed out in a letter to the County Chairmen the fact that the bulk of the voters would prefer to vote for fusion candidates rather than see Socialists elected.

"It is the duty of the old parties to give full expression to this desire of the voters by combining to defeat the enemy. A contest between two political parties is proper and necessary in a democracy, but whenever the form of government is threatened it is also proper and necessary that these parties combine against a common enemy.

If fusion can be brought about in all the districts which have heretofore elected Socialist candidates and if a proper and thorough campaign is made, I feel certain that all the fusion candidates will be elected in November.

"It would be a very patriotic act for one of the candidates in each of these doubtful districts to resign, so as to leave a clear field for the defeat of the common enemy. There would be more glory in doing this than in being defeated on Election Day.

"The National Security League, through its speakers' bureau and its membership, will do its level best to cooperate with you to bring about the election of fusion candidates.

"'Internationalism,' as the Socialists call it, is very much alive. We must not let patriotism simmer down to the minimum, just because the war is over.

"Vigilance is said to be the eternal price which must be paid for liberty, and vigilance against the election of Socialist candidates certainly should be part of the price."

HAYS AND PENROSE CONFER ON CAMPAIGN

Agree on "Decentralized" Plan for Collecting Funds and Lay Future Course.

PUT STRESS ON SENATE

Both Declare That a Republican Majority There Is Especially Important.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—Senator Penrose and Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, in a joint interview today outlined the financial plans of the campaign managers and charted the course of the campaign from now until November. It was the first meeting of the National Chairman and Senator Penrose since before the Chicago Convention. The conference was held at the Penrose home.

As set forth by Mr. Hays and Senator Penrose the "decentralized" financial program agreed upon is a decided departure from previous methods of collecting funds. Mr. Hays said it had been received everywhere with enthusiasm.

"The plan," said Mr. Hays, "is an innovation. It has been established in all States and is moving successfully. Its advantages are obvious. Its decentralized character and the fact that contributions are limited to a maximum of $1,000 are creating interest among thousands of people who were never before interested.

"Senator Penrose, Mr. Folwell and myself have discussed the plan in all details this afternoon and we are agreed that it should be successful everywhere.

"I have been able to inform the Senator that the campaign is going ahead with speed and satisfaction. The election of Harding and Coolidge is certain. We are therefore interesting ourselves in the fight for the Senate and House. It is necessary, in the interest of good government, economy in administration and the reduction of taxation that the co-ordinated branches of the Government be in sympathy with the Executive. It is especially important that the Senate be Republican by a safe majority. We have good assurances that the Senate will be Republican.

"There has been a great deal of loose talk about the so-called 'front porch campaign.' No change in the plan of campaign or Senator Harding's participation in the speaking campaign is contemplated. His participation will largely be built around the home campaign at Marion. That is his desire and the wish of the managers of the campaign. However, it has always been intended, and is now planned that there will be speeches outside of Marion by the candidate on important national issues at nationally important places and on nationally important occasions."

Senator Penrose, who sat opposite Mr. Hays nodding approval of his statements, emphasized the importance of the financial plan, and said he heartily approved it.

MEETING CALLED BY HAYS.

Republican State Chairmen to Confer Here Next Week.

A call for the Republican State chairmen from the New England and North Atlantic States and Virginia, West Virginia and North Carolina to meet here on August 24 and 25 was issued yesterday by Will H. Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee.

This conference will be the first of a series. Mr. Hays issued a call for a similar meeting at Chicago on September 1 and 2, when the State chairmen and their aides will assemble from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Mississippi Arkansas and Kentucky. Other conferences will be held for the party chairmen from the Far Western and Southern States.

ROOSEVELT FINDS CONVERTS

Says Republicans Will Vote for Cox, but Democrats Are Loyal.

MISSOULA, Mon., Aug. 19.—Greater naval development on the Pacific Coast was promised by Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic nominee for Vice President, in a rear-platform speech he made here today on route to Spokane.

"Facilities at present available are not large enough to care for even half of the freight business on the Pacific Coast," he declared.

Mr. Roosevelt said that it was extraordinary "that in traveling the last ten days in seven States we have yet to find the first Democrat who is to vote for Harding, while literally hundreds of progressive Republicans have told us they will vote for Cox."

HELENA, Mon., Aug. 19.—Franklin D. Roosevelt was en route today to Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, to continue his speaking tour, after having crossed the Rocky Mountains yesterday three times, twice in an automobile, to keep engagements in Montana.

JOHNSON TO TAKE STUMP.

Anti-League Senator Will Speak for Harding in the East.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 18.—Senator Hiram W. Johnson will make a speaking tour through Eastern States in behalf of the candidacy of Senator Warren G. Harding, according to announcement tonight at the Western headquarters of the Republican National Committee. The committee quoted a letter from Senator Johnson in which he said:

"My hope and expectation are to spend October in intensive work in behalf of our candidate in the doubtful States in the East."

CHARGES OF FRAUD IN SUFFRAGE FIGHT

a Republican from the mountains of East Tennessee who made national woman suffrage possible at this date."

Speaker Walker did not attempt today to move for re-consideration but must do so before adjournment tomorrow if he would reserve the sole right of taking such action.

The House has a membership of ninety-nine and the vote of the ninety-six present yesterday gave the Suffragists a majority of only two. They claimed, however, that two of the absent members were Suffrage advocates and their presence tomorrow, if the opposition failed to mail to their strength, would afford them a majority of four.

If, as Mr. Walker declared, three additional members join the forty-seven pledged to rescind ratification, the opposition would have a safe majority to rescind the ratification.

WOMEN KEEPING UP FIGHT AT NASHVILLE

Suffragists Maintain Guard on Friendly Legislators to Check "Anti's" Strategy.

By LOUISE GRAHAM.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 19.—Woman ratificationists organized into a vigilance committee are signing congratulatory telegrams with one hand while the other is firmly planted upon the sleeve of a doubtful legislator.

Although morally certain that the women of America are enfranchised, they are nevertheless keeping under their eye all lukewarm proponents of the Susan B. Anthony Federal suffrage amendment.

With still another day for the reconsideration of the vote which stood fifty to forty-six in the Lower House of the Legislature, some of the members are wobbling. Some have eleventh-hour qualms of conscience about ratifying when there are still Tennesseans unwilling to State's rights. Those seeking re-election in November are taking a long look.

Points of view in Nashville tonight continue to be as much alike as a blind Venetian and a Venetian blind. Women, who were organized yesterday into a vigilance committee, declare that reconsideration will be moved the first time the ratificationists are without a quorum, hence the imperative duty of every Vigilante is to report her charge present or accounted for, each having her assignment of passive Legislators. These lawmakers are sometimes easily nettled. They fatten upon the attentions being showered upon them by the tactful women who, in this case, are not unlike those first girl graduates from Oberlin College who were not allowed to read their own essays at commencement. The boys attended to that for them.

Long before it was time for the House to reconvene this morning the Vigilantes were at the hotels to gather up their charges. Some one suggested similarity between them and birds. But of course, without continuing the allusion, there is still time for the worm to turn. So up Capitol Hill the women trudged again in the humidity, and up the long flights of steps they escorted their representatives in Government. In the corridors were more Vigilantes, who pinned to lapels the golden glow of hope. Then into the chamber filed the men, towed by the women, who felt the responsibility of some 26,000,000 other women resting upon them. There must be a quorum.

Some white-haired suffragists sat beside the men and fanned them, for the air was stifling. There could be no chances taken on fainting away, and some of the Solons are fatigued from social functions at which they have been guests of honor.

The clerk droned away from his marble desk throughout the session. The Speaker continued to rock in his chair. Endless bills were passed or referred to committees, but not one word about the suffrage resolution. Things were hopelessly dull. Mild applause fell on the ears. Finally came adjournment until tomorrow at 12 o'clock, daylight saving time. Again the women patiently waited for the men to receive congratulations upon their efforts of yesterday when they voted political freedom to women.

After all had been said and every sticky hand had been shaken again by the women ratificationists, everybody filed down the steps, some of the lawmakers blandly clinging to the marble balustrades, and out to waiting automobiles.

A motor squad had been organized yesterday subsidiary to the Vigilance Committee, and smiling young women were walking to drive the suffragists and the solons into the country for an hour or two before luncheon.

Little luncheon parties were scattered in hotels and tea rooms. But it was a long afternoon ahead, so the food was ordered in courses, and Perfectos topped the feast.

More motoring followed for those who felt the need of air, more air. Others chose the taxiyes. Still others wanted to tell about the Civil War and the women listened with the enthusiasm of children hearing a fairy story.

The loggia of political headquarters looked like the porch of a country club and cool drinks were served unremittingly. Ice thickled agreeably in tall glasses. At last came dinner and more movies brought to an end a perfect day. But the women were not through. Mrs. Catt had received a steady stream of callers and later she was joined by Suffragists, some of whom brought their children.

PARTIES PLANNING TO GET WOMEN'S VOTES

Though great satisfaction was expressed at Democratic National Headquarters yesterday, over the ratification by Tennessee of the Woman Suffrage amendment, and confidence was shown that the majority of the women of the country would support Governor Cox and the Democratic Party because, as it was said, the women generally were in favor of the League of Nations, officials at the Republican National Headquarters were equally well pleased over the ratification. The Republicans scouted the Democrats claim that a majority of the newly enfranchised women would line up for the Cox ticket.

Miss Elisabeth Marbury, woman member of the Democratic National Committee from New York, who returned yesterday from a trip through the country on which she has been engaged ever since the nomination of Governor Cox, said she was certain that the enfranchisement of 26,000,000 women meant success for the Democratic candidates.

"I have yet to meet a woman who is not for the League of Nations," said Miss Marbury. "The women want the [illegible] believe that they are going to the party that supports it. That, in my opinion, will be the big issue in this campaign."

Democrats at National Headquarters were equally optimistic.

The Woman's Bureau of the Democratic National Committee sent the following telegram to President Wilson:

"Your hearty and continued support of woman suffrage is finally crowned with success by the action of Democratic State Legislature whose members you strengthened by your personal plea of a week ago. The women of America will never cease to honor the name of the first President of their country who, while President, took action in favor of their enfranchisement. The women of the Democratic Party are proud of their political relationship with you, and will go confidently forward into a campaign in which their ideals for world peace may at last find full expression. Congratulations and grateful appreciation."

Will H. Hays, Republican National Chairman, left the city yesterday, but his associates at Republican National Headquarters scouted the suggestion that the enfranchisement of the 26,000,000 women of the country by the ratification of the Susan B. Anthony amendment would be of advantage to the Democratic party.

A statement issued by the Republican National Committee called attention to the fact that Republican women have co-ordinate powers with Republican men in the national, State, county and precinct organizations, and that in appointing women as co-chairmen of these committees, the Republican National Committee merely put into practice the principle set forth in the national platform welcoming women into full participation in party politics. It was stated that this step was taken before there was any definite idea as to whether the women of the country would receive the franchise in time to take part in the Presidential election.

Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore, who is Vice Chairman of the New York State Committee in addition to being a member of the National Executive Committee, said that the Republican women already have an organization to facilitate the registration of Republican women voters in the States where they are newly enfranchised. Women's motor corps to take women to the polls to register have already been organized in many parts of the country, Mrs. Livermore said. A telephone corps to furnish a follow-up system for the usual postal card notification has been devised by the Republican women to remind women to register and to vote.

States. They are its custodians. It does not belong to a group consisting of a Senate oligarchy.

"This is a progressive age and the seat of power rests in every home of America. As a candidate of a great party I come here to the seat of Government. I thank God as a candidate for the Presidency that I am a free man. I thank God that as your President I will be a free man.

Not Tied to Front Porch.

"I am not tied to my front porch," he shouted amid laughter and applause. "I am not tied there by a Senate ring or any other kind of a ring. I deny the right of censorship over my voice to the Senate ring or any kind of a ring, and when you have elected me as your President I will not be controlled by any kind of a ring."

A man in the audience asked the Governor about his attitude toward labor interests.

"Before I am through, if my answer is not satisfactory, ask me again," he replied.

"I ask you to forget that you are of any party," he continued. "Let the fact pass out of your mind that I am a candidate of any party. The issues are supreme and rise above any party. I don't want the voters of Indiana to vote for me because I am the candidate of a party. I repeat that the issues at stake are not political questions; they involve the salvation of the world, the civilization of the earth.

"The first thing that we must do is to bring about tranquility in our internal affairs. There cannot be economic adjustment until our foreign exchange is adjusted."

Here the Governor alluded to some of the Senators who, he alleged, controlled the affairs of the Republican Party in the interests of reaction.

"Some say," he continued, "that the President should not have gone to France. His thought was this: Our boys fought honorably in France. The Commander-in-Chief of the American forces should go to France to prevent the consummation of a dishonorable peace. Who should have gone? Should the President have sent the present Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, Senator Lodge? Should he have sent Boies Penrose, or Reed, or Smoot, or the present Republican candidate for President of the United States?

"If there is any man in the audience who believes that they should have gone, then I ask you if you know where any one of those men stands today on the issue."

The Senate clique in control of the Republican Party did not know what they wanted, he said. They would know what the people wanted after the election.

"We have learned," he went on, "that under the old order war came overnight. Therefore we sought to establish a new arrangement which would make war impossible."

Taking up the claim of Republican Senators that the integrity of the nation was threatened by the League of Nations, Governor Cox shouted:

"Now that's all moonshine, and there isn't a man who says it who can turn his face to the Almighty God and say he's sure he's not telling an untruth. Twenty-nine nations sat down at the peace table and signed the same thing. If they all surrendered their sovereignty where, in the name of conscience, does it go?"

Ex-President Taft, said the Governor, had expressed sympathy for him [Cox] on the League issue and opposition to Senator Harding's stand. But Senator Harding was a Republican and therefore Mr. Taft would vote for him.

"If there are any of you who think that Harding is right on the League and that Cox is wrong, then you vote for Harding and not for Cox," said the Governor. "They say that your sons will be sent overseas. That's not right and they know it's not right. While the President is Commander in Chief of the army and navy he can't order one of your boys into war unless Congress give's him the right to do so. No treaty made can run counter to the Constitution of the United States.

"Therefore, there is not the slightest chance of your boys being ordered into war unless Congress orders it.

Declares Women Will Prevent War.

"War is more improbable than ever. And why? Because the mothers of America can now say when it shall be and when it shall not be.

"Senators Lodge, Harding, Johnson, Borah, Brandegee, Watson—the whole crowd of them," the Governor asserted, "were ready to sacrifice the League of Nations to obtain the spoils of a political battle.

"I won't insult 2,000,000 American soldiers by making a separate peace with Germany," he shouted. A man in the audience yelled:

"That's a good one, Jimmy."

"And that's only one barrel," retorted the Governor.

He then discussed the reduction of armament in relation to the League of Nations. No matter whether the voter was of English, Irish, German, Polish or Russian extraction, it was the worker who had paid the expenses of armament.

"I am for the League of Nations," declared Governor Cox, "because it puts an end to that sort of thing."

Says $15,000,000 Is Demanded.

He added that he was in favor of preparing all war taxes practically as early as possible after March 4, 1921. "Such a task would be impossible," he added, "if the League of Nations was rejected and heavy armament continued.

"The task of the next four years," he went on, "is readjustment, economic and governmental. Both systems were carried away, more or less, from the peace basis by the necessities of war. It must be a fair readjustment, and it can be so made only by honest methods. Millions of dollars are being contributed to the Republican campaign fund for a selfish, greedy purpose of procuring a preferential readjustment. The Republican leaders well know just how close I am to the truth when I say that the minimum fund which is demanded is $15,000,000. This will not be scattered generally over the country, but it will be used in certain close and pivotal States, and it will be put to the uses which cannot be defined in ethics. Meetings are being held now in the cities; quotas are allocated and contributions coming in. While the sums of money that are being collected are enormous, they are a mere bagatelle in comparison with what the contributors will get back.

"Let us concretely illustrate this and show just how it will work out. Certain banking interests fought the Federal Reserve act when it was passed. They recognized that their power over the public resources was threatened by this progressive legislation. The song which reactionaries sing whenever justice invades the domain which they have controlled was heard all over the country when public desire, with reference to fiscal reform, was being given statutory expression. Panics were predicted, the evils of inflation were elaborated upon and the attempt was made, in the first instance, to prevent the passage of the law, and when that was unsuccessful these selfish interested persons attempted to give it the form they desired, but they were unsuccessful.

"What blessings have come to the country under the operations of this act need not be spoken of. There is a well-planned movement under way now to change the law to make only bankers eligible to membership on Federal Reserve boards and to reform the policies as to credits and interest rates. Therefore many bankers in writing their checks to the Republican National Committee are simply making an investment, and for every dollar they give they expect many more in return.

"We can always trust to Holy Writ for the explanation of the emotions of man. It fits in here perfectly, because we are reminded by it that 'where a man's treasure is, there is his heart also.'

Accuses Woolen Industry.

"In this part of the country you were enabled to know something about farm production and city consumption, and you have observed the ingenius methods of holding foodstuffs in storage in order that the consumer might be made to pay the price exacted. The Republicans have been in control of the Congress for two years. They should tell the country why legislation proposed for the control of cold storage plants was not pressed. How simple it is under existing conditions to make money by buying at a low price and selling at a high price!

"Take the great woolen industry, which is pretty well under trust control. Mills are being closed now, in the face of a sustained demand. Why is it done? First, to drive the price of wool down. Second, to reduce the wage scale. Third, to increase the cost by decreased production. These interests know perfectly well that they have been protected in the past by reactionary administrations. They know that progressive government gathers its inspirations from public desire and necessity. There must be an understanding between these interests and the Senatorial oligarchy which is now attempting to elect one of its members President of these United States. They are not giving their millions without some assurance. They are not contributing to the Democratic campaign fund, and they would not be given the chance if they so desired.

Discusses Paper Shortage.

In speaking to the editors Governor Cox discussed the newsprint paper situation.

"The editors of the country," he said, "large and small, are very much interested in the supply of white print paper. It is a pressing problem. A democracy in government requires a reading public. There must be no unnatural limitations upon these facilities of information. The Government should interest itself without delay in the work of reforestation. Hundreds of thousands of acres of land can be reclaimed and planted, with ultimate economy to the Government and tremendous benefit to the public. Vast domains cannot be cultivated for crops, but they have the soil elements for timber which can be used for wood pulp. Many small publications have been compelled to suspend publication; larger ones have lived from hand to mouth. It has resulted in increased cost of advertising, which is always passed on to the consumer, and it has played some part in the high cost of living. The difficulty, as I see it, has been the manipulation of the spot market, so called.

"Ten thousand tons, for the purpose of illustration, have been passed into this market with an instantaneous demand for 100,000 tons, which has created a new high price. In too many instances, high prices have been created by a feeling of panic. The cost of sugar could have been reduced from ten to twelve cents if the Government had taken stock of the supply and allayed public feeling. Under the belief that there was not enough sugar to go round many families who were able to purchase bought more than they needed. This restricted the amount in the market and created a new level in price.

"Government should be kept out of business, except where supervision is necessary to the public welfare and where Federal intervention is essential to protect the supply of necessities and make unnecessary competition for it impossible. This holds true in regard to paper. In the past the shortage has not been as acute as represented. Not only are the publishers interested in this question: it vitally interests the business man and the householder as well, but it touches the vital elements of a democracy as well. I believe in an independent press. Nothing could be more harmful than to have the supply of white print paper pass into a combination, which, under stressful conditions, might impose certain newspaper policies as a condition precedent to supplying paper."

Governor Cox stopped for three hours in Chicago this morning on his way here. He had a chat with Larry Doyle, Captain of the New York Giants, and went over the Illinois situation with George E. Brennan and other leaders.

HARDING MAKES DEFENSE OF SENATE

eral Government. One might as well proclaim the Constitution a fraud. The Senate is in reality the security of stable, popular government. Many measures must of necessity originate in the House of Congress. Its members come from the people every two years. Sometimes the measures proposed are the ready reflex of the popular sentiment of the hour.

Would Share Power with Senate.

"I participated in a Senate session that appropriated $3,000,000,000 in twenty minutes for aircraft, which was turned over to an incompetent administration that sent hardly an airplane to the fighting front. The Senate has never failed the country in an hour of great importance, but it has saved to the country the inheritance for which heroes perished and for which the supreme sacrifices of the Republic were made.

"In cartoon, in solemn editorial, in many utterances on the platform, it has been suggested that in case of a Republican victory the incoming President proposed to permit the Senate to have some say in determining the policy of the Government. I gladly proclaim all these suggestions to be literally correct.

"I rejoice that the United States Senate is functioning again. We need it to save America. It submerged itself for the period of the war and surrendered executive because we wanted to marshal all of our forces and resources under one supreme authority, but we are at peace today, actual peace, though not formally proclaimed, and we need the restoration of a constitutional Government quite as much as we need the restoration of the stable ways of peace.

"If a Republican Administration is chosen next November, you can be very certain that the Senate, theoretically, if not actually, composed of ninety-six leading men of the Republic, will have something to say about the foreign relations as the Constitution contemplates.

"There was exceptional wisdom in the fathers providing that the Senate must sanction by a two-thirds vote every foreign covenant. The early patriots were not content that a mere majority control, which might be wholly partisan, should give to the Executive the right to enter into treaties with foreign nations. A mere majority might surrender to the personality or to the partisan aims of an Executive who happened to be in political accord, but there could be no possibility of a hasty decision when two-thirds of the Senate must give its consent. The League covenant was written and negotiated in the mistaken belief that a majority could not even amend.

"In the two-thirds vote to ratify was the supreme wisdom of the founders, because in all the previous history of the world the conflicts between nations usually had their beginning in the ambition of the ruling head of Government.

Prefers Senate Advice to Bosses.

"Still another safeguard was provided in making it necessary for all appropriations to originate in the Lower House of Congress. I do not know that there is an instance in our history where the House has declined to appropriate money to make good a contract between our own and any foreign Government, but literally, and constitutionally, the House has the power to defeat the fulfillment of any compact which involves any expenditure. There has been no failure on the part of the House, because that body joins the Senate in the abiding policy of committing this republic to fidelity of contract. If we failed to keep any covenant we should be held in contempt throughout the world.

"This thought may well be applied to the proposal that this republic can subscribe to Article X. and enter into the League of Nations and submit to the rule of a Council of Foreign Powers, on the theory that only Congress can make the declaration of war. It is true that only Congress can make the declaration, just as it is true that only Congress can make an appropriation of money to carry out a covenant with a foreign power, but if this nation agrees to accept the decision of a foreign council, then we should be guilty of a bad faith, utterly unbecoming of this republic, if Congress did not keep the compact and provide for the warfare which the Foreign Council has ordered. I would think it much better to hold aloof from international relationship than stamp that relationship with perfidy from the very beginning. If the obligation is one of contract, we will keep it; if it is a moral obligation, we must keep it.

"I want America to understand that a Republican Administration stands unalterably, avowedly and proudly for constitutional Government with the recognized and sustained powers of the legislative and judicial branches of the Government as well as that of the executive.

"I want members of the House to feel themselves a part of the Republican Administration, seeking to serve the interests of all the people of our common country. I want members of the Senate to understand, and the public to know, that the Senate has its functions to perform, in making good the plight of faith in the Republican platform and the fulfillment of promises to the American people.

"I had rather have the counsel of the Senate than all the political bosses in any part of America. Under the Constitution, the Senate must advise and consent to all important appointments made by the Executive. I don't think we have lived up to the Constitution in this matter in recent years.

"The tendency has been for the Executive to arrogate to himself all the powers of Government. Maybe it is old-fashioned to get back to the Constitution, but I can well believe it will be a wholesome change from the conditions we are experiencing at the present time.

Explains Party Sponsorship.

"I have said something heretofore about party sponsorship in government. I do not think any intelligent person can have misconstrued my meaning. When I speak of party sponsorship I mean that sponsorship which belongs to a political party for the determination of policies and the fixing of programs for the highest service to the American people. I want to have done with personal government in this country. I want to put an end to autocracy, which has been reared in the name of democracy. I want a Government of laws rather than of men.

"I want representative popular government in fact, not merely in name. I want an end to dictation in America and the resumption of the rule of dependable public

PONZI ARRAIGNED, ASSAILS BANKER

Says He Will Expose a Boston Financier Who Demanded the Lion's Share of Profits.

CROWDS ARE MORE HOSTILE

Prisoner Remanded Pending Appointment of Receiver—Alleged Partner, Dondero, Surrenders.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Charles Ponzi today promised to expose dealings he declared he had had with one of the most prominent bankers of Boston.

"This man," said Ponzi to the guards accompanying him from the East Cambridge jail to the Federal Building for arraignment on fraud charges, "while posing as a purist and public benefactor, promised to stand behind me, but refused to keep his agreement when I failed to turn over to him the lion's share of the profits. I am going to name this banker and show him up and there will be a big blow-up in a few days."

Ponzi's statement was made just previous to his appearance in court before United States Commissioner Hayes, where he waived examination and, in default of the original bail of $25,000, was turned over to Marshal Duane.

During the proceedings he stood at the attorney's table in front of Commissioner Hayes, his hands thrust carelessly into the pockets of his jacket. He glanced confidently about the court room, exchanging nods with his friends and acquaintances, and continually smiling.

When the afternoon session of the Central Municipal Court was opened Assistant Attorney General Albert Hurwitz appeared before Judge Bennett and asked that further warrants be granted in the Ponzi case. After a short conference these warrants were granted.

They were turned over to Inspector Stephen Flaherty of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation for service. While it was not disclosed for whom the warrants were issued, it was said that at least three more persons were wanted in connection with the failure and their arrests were expected soon.

Ponzi was brought from the jail at East Cambridge, where he has been since his arrest on Federal warrants charging use of the mails to defraud. His arraignment in the Federal Court occupied only a brief session and Commissioner Hayes remanded him to jail to await the September term of the court.

Before he went back to jail Ponzi reasserted his ability to make good all claims against him and to "come back" provided he could get sixty days' leeway. He said the public confidence in him was shown when the mails this morning brought $5,500 to him in his cell from persons who asked him to invest it for them.

Around the Federal Building at the time of his arraignment were jostling crowds, eager for a glimpse of the man who for several weeks has led the news. The largest courtroom in the building was used for the hearing. The moment the doors were opened, the crowd swept aside the courtroom attendants and fought for seats.

The proceedings were carried on with many standing, wedged tightly from railings to walls. The dapper little Italian was in the courtroom for nearly an hour. He sat with his counsel, Daniel H. Coakley and Daniel V. McIsaac, directly under the Judges' bench, while the arraignment of George L. Ware, a Congress Street broker charged with using the mails to defraud, was in progress. Ponzi listened attentively to every word of the Ware hearing.

When his case was finally called by Commissioner Hayes, Attorney McIsaac announced that Ponzi wished to waive examination and be held in the same bail.

Assistant United States Attorney Daniel J. Shea, appearing for the Government against Ponzi, recommended that he be held for the September term of the Federal District Court, and Commissioner Hayes acceded to the recommendation.

Before Ponzi was taken from his cell this morning he was visited by his wife, who spent two hours with him. She did not accompany him to court, but went back to their home at Lexington.

Among those in the courtroom when Ponzi was brought in were Miss Lucy Meli, secretary to Ponzi in the "million-dollar" days, and John S. Dondero, who is said to have been a partner of Ponzi. At the close of the court proceedings Dondero was served with a summons to appear at a hearing of the bankruptcy petition which has been filed against him and Ponzi jointly.

Later in the afternoon Dondero walked into Police Headquarters and surrendered himself to the State authorities.

Arrest Montreal Ex-Partner Here.

Antonio Buccini Salviati, an Italian banker, was arrested yesterday on a Montreal warrant issued in connection with the collapse of the banking firm of Zrossi & Co. of Montreal, of which Charles Ponzi of Boston was a member at the time it failed in 1909.

Ponzi served a three-year term in the St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary in Montreal, it was said, following trial on forgery and fraud charges, but Salviati is alleged to have jumped his bail and escaped prosecution. A third man, Giannetti, also connected with the management of the bank, committed suicide.

The specific charge against Salviati made by the Canadian authorities was the larceny of $944.85 from Francisco Charpaleggio, who was one of the bank's customers.

DISCLAIM SEEKING RUSSIA'S PARTITION

British Recognition of De Facto Governments of Baltic States Held to be Justified.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Considerable surprise is felt here by those well-informed as to the policy of the British Government that some idea is held at Washington, according to dispatches from America, that it is contemplating the "dismemberment of Russia."

Britain has, indeed, given de facto recognition to the existing Esthonian, Letvian and Lithuanian Governments, but this it is maintained is merely acquiescence in actual conditions and cannot be taken as committing Great Britain to any particular attitude toward the Russian problem as a whole. This de facto recognition of the three Baltic Governments was, as a matter of fact, granted only after the Esthonians, Letts and Lithuanians had held regular constituent assemblies and had established governments that were functioning regularly and with fair efficiency. They were maintaining order and making war and treaties, and to acknowledge them was merely to recognise a fait accompli.

Moreover, historically and ethnographically, the three peoples, it is believed here, have quite as good a claim to special treatment and right to self-determination as the Poles or Finns. The Esthonians, indeed, are near akin to the Finns, and all three of them have maintained their distinctive national languages, customs and identities under centuries of domination under the Teutonic Knights, Poland and Sweden, until Peter the Great finally brought them into the Russian Empire.

The desire to assert their nationalities appeared before the Great War. They sent representatives to the Imperial Duma in 1905 pledged to work for some measure of home rule, and after the revolution of 1917 Kerensky was willing to grant it to Esthonia and was negotiating about it when he fell. Latvia and Lithuania were then under German occupation, and the Germans tried to win them over by holding sham constituent conventions to establish pro-German local Governments. Since then the real voice of these people has been heard. Much more truly representative conventions have been held, and the present Governments have shown themselves opposed to both Soviets and Germans.

They had, however, to wait some time for recognition by England, as at the moment they were formed Kolchak seemed the prospective savior of Russia, and, as he objected as a representative of the old régime to the new Governments. Downing Street would not go against his wishes.

At the same time experts here will not admit that the existence of these Governments necessarily means the dismemberment of Russia. They believe that as soon as general order is restored in the old empire, Esthonia, Latvia and Lithuania will be glad to renew their connection with it. They will seek to retain a degree of autonomy, but they will cheerfully acquiesce in some kind of federal arrangement.

Indeed their commercial necessities almost make that obligatory. None of the three countries has products of importance and all three must depend on transit trade with Russia. They command Baltic ports and can grow rich on goods going to and from the Russians, so it will be all to their advantage to renew political connection with them.

Suggestions that British policy in Esthonia, Letvia and Lithuania has been dictated by commercial considerations are also declared baseless here. England has had to adapt her Baltic policy to an extraordinarily difficult and obscure series of military and political crises, and has had no time for trade Macchiavellianism. As a matter of fact the Baltic provinces are open to the commercial enterprise of all nations. British traders are there, but so also are Americans and Germans. Competition is very keen but there are no favored nation arrangements to hamper anybody.

Are you one of them?

THERE are many people who buy and hold stocks for a long period of time and then flatter themselves on taking a profit which does not even cover the interest on their money.

SEARLES WILL FIGHT OPENED BY NEPHEW

Requests Hearing on Any Move for Special Administrator for $50,000,000 Estate.

LAWYERS EXPECT CONTEST

Relatives in Maine and Missouri Engage Attorneys and May Try to Break Document.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 19.—The first move in the fight for the $50,000,000 of the late Edward F. Searles, of Methuen, has been started with the filing of a formal request with the Essex County Register of Probate by Currier & Young, State Street attorneys, representing Albert Victor Searles, the nephew who was cut off with $250,000, asking that they be heard on any application for a special administrator.

Former Senator Guy W. Currier, head of the law firm, said tonight that this move does not necessarily mean that an attempt is to be made to break the will by his client. It is an action primarily intended to protect his interests in the estate, he explained. Further action will depend upon the developments of the next few weeks, he said.

Lawyers regard the request as virtually notice of a contest of the will. Special administrators, they point out, are appointed only for estates which are in dispute, and it is known that the younger Mr. Searles is anything but satisfied with the will, which leaves him only a small share of the estate, while giving its bulk to Arthur T. Walker of New York.

Albert Victor Searles stands to lose the $250,000 left to him if he contests the will. Even assisting or co-operating with others who may wish to break the will would, according to its explicit terms, cut any of the beneficiaries off entirely. Attorney Currier, therefore, maintains that the filing of the request is only a tentative move that cannot be construed as opposition to the will.

It is hoped by Attorneys for the beneficiaries that it may not be necessary for them to file suit to break the document, for other relatives, ready and willing to fight, have appeared. Dennis F. Marr of Mechanics Falls, Me., a 17-year-old cousin of Searles, has engaged as counsel former Congressman Daniel J. McGillicuddy of Lewiston, Me. Whether he will attempt to contest the will is problematical. As he is not named in the instrument, he has nothing to lose.

Another claimant that Mr. Searles overlooked is Mrs. Susan E. Allen of 4,518 Delmar Boulevard, St. Louis. She is a cousin, and her attorneys have been active in obtaining information in Lawrence regarding the will.

Dissatisfied claimants have until Sept. 6 to file formal objections and ask for a hearing. It is believed that before that date papers will be filed for, or with the consent of, some of the claimants.

MECHANICS FALLS, Me., Aug. 19.—Dennis F. Marr of this place is confident he will receive a portion of the millions left by his cousin, Edward F. Searles of Methuen, Mass., if the will is broken.

"I am entitled to a share of the fortune as much as the other cousins," declared Mr. Marr, "and I intend to press my claim. I visited Cousin Edward when I was a child. Then my mother moved to Maine, and it is not surprising that Edward lost track of us."

Another cousin, Alonzo Marr of Durham, holds similar views.

To Build $50,000 Swimming Pool.

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 19.—John A. Harriss, Traffic Commissioner in New York City, has let a contract for the erection of a $50,000 marble swimming pool for outdoor bathing at his Summer place on Collender's Point, near here, and work on it is under way. The base will be of concrete and the exterior of three-inch Italian marble slabs. The pool will be 110 by 50 feet. Water will be pumped from Long Island Sound.

Newton Declares Rand's Bill Reasonable—Criticises Craig.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Twenty-four hours after he had mailed his reply to Controller Charles Craig of New York, relative to criticisms which the Controller had made on a bill for $15,000 presented by Colonel William H. Rand, a special Deputy Attorney General, which bill has been O. K.'d by Mr. Newton, the latter gave out a copy of the letter to newspaper men.

Colonel Rand represented the State in the presentation of evidence to the extraordinary Grand Jury investigating the activities of certain members of the Police Department and others matters. The Attorney General insists that the bill is a reasonable one. He writes to the Controller:

"I acknowledge receipt of your favor of Aug. 14, the substance of which letter appeared in the public press evidently before it was mailed. I have always questioned the good faith of a public official claiming to seek information from another public official and then publishing his inquiry in the public press before submitting it to the person interested.

"The certificates upon the vouchers presented to you are before you. The amounts certified to you by me contain my judgment of the fairness of the bills upon the facts presented and the services rendered. If they do not meet with your approval and you have any discretion in the matter, of course, you will not make payment unless the court so directs. The matter is one in which Colonel Rand and the deputies named are especially concerned, and I am transmitting your communication to Colonel Rand with a suggestion that he submit to you such additional information as he cares to touching upon the subject.

"You hardly need take your time or mine in calling attention to the fact that the salary of the Attorney General is only $10,000. I take it that the honor of being Attorney General of the State of New York, like being Controller of the great city of New York, is some compensation. You probably would concede that, so far as the salary of the Controller is concerned, it is inadequate for the tremendous responsibility and amount of labor necessary to a proper administration of that office."

SEIZES SUPPOSED RANSOM.

Coughlin Attaches Pasquale's Four Deposits Here.

PHILADELPHIA, August 19.—Four bank deposits of Augusta Pasquale, the alleged "crank" in the Coughlin kidnapping, were attached. The accounts are in New York banks.

The attachment was obtained by George H. Coughlin, of Norristown, Pa., whose fifteen months' old son Blakley was kidnapped from his home on June 2.

The writs were filed with the prothonotary at Norristown today by Major C. Townley Larzelere, counsel for Coughlin. Mr. Coughlin, who on July 14 paid a ransom of $12,000 for the return of his child, previously attached personal property of Pasquale amounting to $6,672. This makes a total of $18,626.

Police now are confident Pasquale alone received the $12,000 ransom paid by Coughlin.

MEXICO DISMISSES SPANISH CONSUL

CONSIDER CONSUL INSOLENT

Accused of Hampering Travel to Spain—Four Hurt in Strike at Vera Cruz.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 19.—The Spanish Consul's exequatur was cancelled today by the Mexican Foreign Office.

It is thought likely the Spanish Minister's passports will also be served shortly.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 19 (Associated Press). — The Mexican Government's recognition of Rafael de Soto, Vice Consul in charge of the Spanish Consulate-General at Mexico City, has been withdrawn because of "his rudeness and, in some cases, insolence" toward Mexican Consuls seeking to go to Spain, Dr. Cuthberto Hidalgo, Under Secretary of the Mexican Foreign Office, announced today.

Dr. Hidalgo added that, while the action would hamper commercial relations between Mexico and Spain, these would not be broken entirely as was reported in some quarters. The difficulty arose originally over Señor de Soto's refusal to visé passports of Mexicans going to Spain.

Transportation Strike in Vera Cruz.

VERA CRUZ, Aug. 19.—Four persons have been injured in disorders resulting from a strike called by the General Committee of the Union of Workers here yesterday. Dock workers, sailors and men employed in the railroad yards and terminals in this city have walked out, but service has been continued by a large number of men who remained at their posts.

General Guadalupe Sanchez, Chief of Operations in the State of Vera Cruz, had a narrow escape from being roughly handled by a crowd yesterday. He was riding in an automobile when the police guard accompanying him was attacked by strikers. One man drew a revolver, apparently with the intention of firing upon the General, but Sanchez advanced and hit the striker on the head with his pistol. He then was permitted to retreat from his dangerous position. A committee of strikers later went to the General, deploring the incident and declaring that they were unable to identify the man who made the attack.

FRANCE STATES TERMS TO RECOGNIZE MEXICO

Indemnities for Frenchmen Killed, Restitution of Bank Funds and Interest on Debts.

PARIS, Aug. 19 (Associated Press).—The French Government has made known to Felix F. Palavacini, the Mexican Envoy Extraordinary to France, the conditions which must be fulfilled by the present Mexican Government if it wishes to be recognized by France after the elections to be held in September.

The conditions are:

First — Indemnities for Frenchmen killed in Mexico and also reimbursement for damages done to the businesses of French nationals.

Second—Restitution of cash reserves taken from French banks.

Third—Renewal of payments of interest on the Mexican national debt to France.

DOUBTS WE WOULD INTERFERE

Mexican Foreign Minister Discredits Calderon's Message on Recognition.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 19.—Cuthberto Hidalgo, Acting Minister of Foreign Relations, commenting on a message received from Ambassador Iglesias Calderon recounting the terms on which the United States would accord recognition to Mexico, states that the third point, demanding a change in certain Mexican laws, is without precedent and that the United States is not likely to make such a demand.

"We give protection to foreigners of all nationalities without discrimination, and Mexico will meet her just obligations," he stated.

Mexico has not asked for recognition, Señor Hidalgo asserts.

STEEL MEN TO FIGHT UNIONS

Independent Manufacturers Unite Against Closed-Shop Drive.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 19.—Preparations to meet the threatened drive of the steel and iron unions in the American Federation of Labor for the closed shop in the iron and steel industry were begun here today, when representatives of seventeen independent plants organized the Hot Rolled Steel Manufacturers' Association.

E. W. Harrison of the Superior Steel Company, Pittsburgh, was elected President; H. G. Naugle of the National Pressed Steel Company, Massillon, Ohio, First Vice President; James Lippincott of the West Leechburg Steel Company, Pittsburgh, Second Vice President, and Charles M. Best, Pittsburgh, Secretary-Treasurer.

A committee was appointed to draft a constitution and by-laws and to outline a plan of campaign.

"This action is protective and precautionary," President Harrison said after the meeting. "We are not looking for trouble and we do not believe a great majority of the men in our mills want trouble any more than we do. That is why we are getting together to protect our interests and the interests of our workers against anything which may transpire."

Today's action is significant because the Executive Council of the Federation of Labor two weeks ago let it be known that a drive to bring all steel workers into the federation is to be launched in Pittsburgh and that the right to hold labor meetings and demonstrations will be made a political issue there.

SAY CHAIRS FLEW IN M'GRAW FIGHT

Various Missiles Were Hurled in Lambs Club, New Informants Declare.

SLAVIN DOES NOT MEND

Giants' Manager Now Described as a Defender of American Acting.

John C. Slavin continued in a "serious condition" in St. Luke's Hospital yesterday. Meanwhile, John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, whom Slavin and Winfield Liggett escorted home in a taxi about 8 A. M. Sunday, Aug. 8, continued in his apartment suffering from concussion of the brain, a black eye and other injuries.

The condition of Slavin and of McGraw has been a matter of concern, but the great puzzle in Broadway has been what really happened in the The Lambs before Liggett and Slavin started home.

According to the best information, when McGraw and his party entered The Lambs, a discussion was under way as to who were the better players, English or American actors. Also, the old question whether John Emerson should have beaten Wilton Lackaye for the Presidency of the Actors' Equity was receiving attention.

British Actors At Issue.

Information is that McGraw took exception to hearing the English lauded. As the argument waxed hotter McGraw and others became more and more concerned with defending American actors. William H. Boyd, who, according to club officials and McGraw, was the chief figure in the fight with McGraw, stood for the supremacy of the English actors.

McGraw has told the District Attorney's office, according to reports from there, that Boyd hit him with a water bottle, and that he doesn't remember anything that happened after that. Officials of the Lambs, in a formal statement, have said that McGraw was the aggressor in the altercation, and that no one else was to blame—that it was a peaceful party in the Lambs that morning, up to a certain point.

It was added in the official statement that Slavin acted as a peacemaker between McGraw and Boyd, and that it would have been impossible for him to have received any injuries, serious or otherwise, in the club.

The information yesterday was that not only was one water bottle thrown, but that other glassware also was tossed about, and that several chairs later were found far from their normal positions.

Argue Possibility of Slavin Trip.

Members of The Lambs, speaking unofficially, appeared to agree that glassware and furniture flew freely in The Lambs grill.

Physicians at St. Luke's have been quoted as saying it would have been impossible for Slavin to ride to McGraw's home if he had received his injuries at The Lambs. It was said in contradiction that men with fractured skulls had been known to keep up physically for some time after receiving their hurts.

In addition, it was said that neither McGraw nor Boyd could know surely whether Slavin had been struck by a hurtling missel, for others besides Boyd and McGraw were tossing things about.

William J. Fallon and Eugene F. McGee, counsel for McGraw, called on James S. Shevlin, Chief Prohibition Enforcement Officer, yesterday noon, in accordance with their promise that they would help him in his inquiry into the reported statement of McGraw that he had brought several quarts of whisky in the Lambs.

Mr. Shevlin said: "Progress is being made in the matter." Mr. Fallon said that the conference, which lasted thirty-two minutes, was confidential and that another one had been arranged for early next week. He told newspaper men that McGraw had no complaint against any one, and that although he might have got whisky at the Lambs he purchased none from the Lambs as an institution. Fallon had said previously that McGraw did not wish to be placed in the position of "informer," but that he was willing to testify to anything within his knowledge.

"We want signed and sworn statements from the officers of the Lambs, and possibly from certain members," said Mr. Shevlin. "If there is a disposition on the part of these persons to refuse to make affidavits, it probably will become necessary to invoke the power of subpoena."

DECLINES DRY NOMINATION.

Judge Dike Objects to Injecting Issue Into Judicial Campaign.

County Judge Norman S. Dike of Brooklyn, candidate for the Republican nomination for Justice of the Supreme Court in the Second Judicial District, yesterday declined the designation of the Prohibition Party for that office. In a letter to John McKee, Brooklyn leader of the Prohibitionists, Judge Dike said:

"I appreciate the compliment of your designation, but as I do not wish to have any issue injected into the coming primary campaign except as to my judicial fitness I have this day sent my declination to the Secretary of State."

Judge Dike was re-elected County Judge last year with County Judge Reuben L. Haskell, also a Republican. Judge Haskell at that time made opposition to the prohibition amendment the basis of his campaign.

THEATRICAL MANAGER FINED

Accused of Permitting Child of 12 to Take Part in Performance.

On the complaint of an agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, Thomas Rooney, a theatrical manager, of 600 West 144th Street, was fined $50 in Special Sessions yesterday, on the charge of violating Section 435 of the penal laws by permitting a child under 16 years of age to take part in a performance at the Broadway Theatre, Broadway and Forty-first Street, on July 27.

The agent, Hugh Jack, said the child was Grace Green, 12 years old, who danced and was garbed in a pair of trunks. Rooney paid the fine.

WOMAN KILLS CALLER.

Miss Lillian Smith Says Slightly Demented Man Refused to Leave.

ALBANY, Aug. 19.—James Haskins, 20 years old, of Broome Centre, was shot and killed by Miss Lillian Smith, 30 years old, of Potter Hollow, in the latter's home last night, according to word reaching county authorities here today.

Miss Smith, the authorities were advised, has admitted the shooting, saying that Haskins, who it is said was slightly demented, entered her home last night and refused to depart when ordered to do so.

MUSIC NOTES.

With tonight's concert in the Stadium, the eight weeks of Summer music at the City College will come to an end. Mr. Rothwell's last program consists of four orchestral numbers from Wagner's music dramas and three operatic airs of Gounod and Verdi, sung by Marguerite Namara and Dicie Howell.

Walter H. Rothwell was entertained at supper last night at the headquarters of the Musical Mutual Protective Union, Local 310, A. F. M., No. 206 East Eighty-fifth Street, by men of the National Symphony Orchestra whom he has conducted at the Stadium since June.

Thirty wounded marines and sailors under the chaperonage of the War Camp Community Service were the guests of Managing Director Edward Bowes at the Capitol Theatre last night.

It was amusing and instructive and gratifying at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre last evening to watch the veteran but flustered Kate Mayhew walk off with all the honors of "The Checkerboard," the new comedy by Frederic and Fanny Hatton. She was cast in a minor rôle, that of a "grand, Christian woman, but small town," the hopelessly unambitious mother of a parvenu family, and the noisy affection of the audience attended all her exits and her entrances for no other reason than because in the midst of a good deal that was foolish and a great deal that was false she was all there was that was real and human and lifelike.

The new Hatton play deals with a stranded band of Russian dancers, who, stumbling upon an ignorant social climber, pass themselves off on him as royal exiles from the land of revolution. They maintain the disguise long enough to extract an endowment for their ballet school, and then their leader—one of the "great lovers" the Hattons like to write about—goes his lonely way, too much in love with the fair daughter of the house to bear the sight of her in another's arms, too noble to take her into his own.

All this is set forth in a play that is one of those curious, indigestible messages of which the American theatre seems indefinitely capable. Rough-and-ready farce of the old Hoyt school, erotic romance, taut melodrama, specialty dancing, gunplay, indecorous clothing, lines about "satyrs who crave kisses, kisses, kisses" (this one should be said through the teeth to get the full effect); jokes such as the one where Mr. Newly-Rich says, "Oh, it's a mere bag o' tools"—all these warring ingredients are jumbled together in a play that is occasionally laughable when it wants to be funny, but never plausible when it tries to be anything else.

It has been expensively mounted and the ballet rehearsal in the last act is genuinely entertaining. Aside from Miss Mayhew, who made off with all the glory, the play enlists the services of so competent an actor as Jose Ruben, who was handicapped by having to play very, very sadly and earnestly a role in which no one could possibly believe for one minute. Abetting him were others, chiefly Zola Talma as a siren from the steppes, and Donald Macdonald, who was engaged because he could dance like a Russian even if he could not possibly look like one, and who fooled everybody by playing the emotional scenes with convincing fervor.

GET GAIETY AND ADELPHI.

Laurillard and Grossmith Take Over Well-Known London Theatres.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Two of London's best known theatres, the Gaiety and the Adelphi, changed hands this afternoon. The formalities of transference from Sir Alfred Butt to Laurillard & Grossmith involved the payment of a check for £288,424 as the final payment.

Grossmith & Laurillard control His Majesty's, the Shaftesbury, the Winter Garden and the Apollo as well. The partnership started eight years ago with £1,000. The capital now involved in the various enterprises of the firm exceeds a million. Sir Alfred Butt's apparent anxiety to divest himself of most of his theatrical enterprises has been a subject of considerable speculation.

AERIAL WEDDINGS PROPOSED

Police Field Days Afford Opportunity for Venturesome Couples.

Couples who are contemplating marriage between Aug. 21 and 28, the dates of the Police Field Day Games, at Gravesend Bay race track, may have the ceremony performed in the air, according to an announcement made yesterday by John Daly, Deputy Police Commissioner.

Commissioner Daly said he had arranged to have Michael Cruise, Deputy City Clerk, at the race track to issue licenses, and the Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce, pastor of the North Baptist Church, on West Eleventh Street, and Chaplain of the Police Reserves, ready to perform the ceremonies. Clerks at the Marriage License Bureau in the Municipal Building have been instructed to notify couples applying for licenses of their opportunity for an airplane wedding.

POLICE GUARD CHURCH RITES

Russian Orthodox Services Held Despite Bolshevist Menace.

In defiance of the Bolsheviki who tried to break up last Sunday's services in English at the Cathedral of St. Nicholas, the Russian Orthodox Church held a similar prayer service yesterday morning in the Church of the Transfiguration, near Stuyvesant Square.

A detective from the Bomb Squad stood in the vestibule throughout the service, and two more were stationed in the park across the way. The detectives were ready for anything from bombs to mobs, but nothing happened. The only untoward event occurred when a stray gray cat scampered into the church and down the broad aisle leading to the chancel, and was chased out by an attendant. Canon Irvine, who was the victim of a chalice poisoned by the Bolsheviki two weeks ago, officiated, devoting his sermon to explaining the significance of the Transfiguration.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"Immodest Violet," a comedy by David Carb, will be presented at the Forty-eighth Street Theatre on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons of next week by William A. Brady. The cast will include Maria Goff, Kenneth McKenna and John Cromwell. The play, if it is well received, will later be installed in a theatre here for a regular run.

The final two weeks of "Honey Girl" are announced to begin at the Cohan & Harris Theatre next Monday. The succeeding attraction will be Aaron Hoffman's comedy, "Welcome, Stranger."

A cable from Australia announces the production of "Irene" in that country.

The new Ziegfeld "Midnight Frolic" will open on the New Amsterdam roof on Tuesday night, Aug. 31.

"The Indian Giver," by Roy Briant, will be placed in rehearsal by Walter Hast next week. Josephine Drake is among those engaged for the cast.

Plans are being made for the early production here of the dramatization of "The Young Visitors." William A. Brady and Lee Shubert will be the producers.

Iden Payne, the stage director, has returned from London.

James K. Hackett will sail for London on the Caronia tomorrow, and will be seen in that city in "Macbeth" about the first of November. Upon his return here in the Spring he will act Sacha Guitry's play, "Pasteur."

THEATRE FIRE FAILS TO UPSET AUDIENCE

1,000 in the Rialto Ignorant of Waste-Basket Blaze That Calls Out Department.

CROWD BLOCKS STREETS

14 Pieces of Fire-Fighting Apparatus Clang Outside While Employe Extinguishes Blaze.

The signal for a fire at Seventh Avenue and Forty-second Street flashed into Fire Headquarters at 9 o'clock last night. Five minutes later twelve pieces of fire-fighting apparatus were outside the Rialto Theatre, the slight blaze was out, and the 1,000 movie patrons in the house were unaware there had been a fire.

Long lines of film fans were outside the theatre buying tickets for the 9:30 o'clock show, and the corner was maintaining its best traditions for activity, when a passerby saw smoke rising from a window on the second, or balcony, floor of the Rialto. He didn't stop to investigate; he dashed for a firebox. After the upturned hook had started Deputy Chief Ross and his apparatus toward Times Square, the alarm sounder hurried back to the theatre and notified the management.

Several employes made for a fire extinguisher; others prepared to cope with any situation that might develop among the audience; one employe ran up the stairs to the location of the fire—a washroom. This man found the door open and smoke beginning to drift into the balcony from a blazing waste-paper basket.

Instead of trying to put the small flame out he jumped inside the room and slammed the door. This confined the smoke and apparently kept the patrons entirely in ignorance of why the apparatus and sirens were outside "somewhere."

Even before Chief Ross, his four engines, two trucks, water tower, fire patrol and two Battalion Chiefs got there the fire extinguisher had ended the fire. It was all over, and even the hose run down the alleyway between the theatre and the Childs restaurant on Seventh Avenue, the throng of firemen and the crowds did not deter patrons from continuing to buy tickets.

With, however, the first screech of a siren and the rapid concentration of apparatus, the Times Square crowds began to expand. Like magic the up-and-down Broadway walkers, the big stream flowing east and west through Forty-second Street, the current of pedestrians passing in Seventh Avenue, consolidated and banked the sides of the theatre.

Traffic policemen were rushed to the scene to help the men arriving from the West Forty-seventh Street Station. Nobody seemed to know where the fire was. Then somebody caught the words "It's in a theatre." And the phrase passing up and down Broadway brought more crowd. Finally the apparatus went clanging home, and the crowd, finding that quick work had prevented even the emptying of the theatre, went home—no, went where Broadway crowds go.

HELD FOR KILLING OWN BABY

Mother for Second Time Charged with Death of New-Born Infant.

For the second time in less than three years, Mrs. Josephine Ehrlinger, 28 years old, of 645 South Eleventh Street, Newark, was arrested yesterday and charged with the murder of one of her children. She was sent to the City Hospital under guard.

Mrs. Ehrlinger's husband died three years ago, two months before the birth of a boy. Before the baby was a day old Mrs. Ehrlinger, it was charged, threw it into a snow bank, where a policeman found it. It died in the City Hospital. Mrs. Ehrlinger pleaded that she thought the child was dead when she threw it into the snowbank. She was acquitted.

Last night, Mrs. Lena Schlerf, a sister of the accused, notified the police that she had found an infant's body under the bath tub. Before detectives arrived Mrs. Ehrlinger, it is charged, took the body away in newspaper. She was arrested several blocks from her home. The police say she admitted using an apron string to choke the baby because it cried too much. The baby was born Monday, she told the police.

Yellow Fever in Guatemala.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 19.—Passenger traffic to Guatemala has been suspended and quarantine measures have been put into effect as a result of the presence of yellow fever at Quirgua and another interior town of Guatemala, according to information received here today. Yellow fever authorities from the United States Public Health Service were reported on the way to Porto Barrios.

TWO FISHERMEN ADRIFT IN DORY FOR 12 DAYS

Lost in Fog, They Live on Seaweed and Rainwater—Picked Up Unconscious.

After being exposed to the sun and wind for twelve days in an open boat, and subsisting upon rain water and seaweed, two fishermen, Thomas Constant and Raphael Coger, were picked up unconscious by the American steamship Mazama from London, which brought them to New York yesterday. Constant said that he and his comrade were members of the crew of the fishing vessel Glycine of St. Servan, France, and had gone in the dory to look after some nets off the banks of Newfoundland and lost their bearings in thick fog that lasted for four days.

They had neither provisions nor water in the boat, and lived entirely on the seaweed from the gulf stream and the tiny shellfish they found attached to it. During the twelve days the two castaways said they saw ships passing in the distance, but could not attract the attention of the crew.

The Mazama brought four of her engine-room crew into port in irons, charged with mutiny. It was alleged that the men had assaulted the assistant engineer. They were taken off the steamship by the police boat.

Planning for the Future

THERE is but one way in which the railroads could have been made ready for the peak load of commerce this summer and fall. That was by placing large orders for equipment and making heavy investments for other facilities one, two and even three years ago.

The increases in freight and passenger rates, authorized recently by the Interstate Commerce Commission, will be helpful in making possible the improvements that will restore the railroads to maximum efficiency in the future.

The increased revenue alone cannot provide for the additions and betterments that will be necessary if the roads are to catch up with the progress made by national commerce. This revenue should, however, assist in restoring the credit of the roads and thus open the way to financing their needs for the future.

Although heavy investments have been made by the New York Central Lines in the past few months, the results cannot possibly become immediately effective.

The situation of the railroads today is analogous to that in the shipyards at the beginning of the war. Before the number of ships could be increased, new shipyards necessarily had to be built. More than a year passed before the elaborate planning and enormous expenditures yielded results in the form of launchings.

SIMILARLY, it requires months to build any considerable number of cars in any factory. It takes a long time to catch up fully with current needs when the normal requirements of previous years have been disregarded.

The chief difference between railroading and merchandising enterprises is that little done today can be made quickly effective. The relatively good condition of the New York Central Lines is due to the careful planning and heavy investments of the years before the war.

The increased rates recently authorized should result in the establishment of a credit basis that will encourage investments in railroad securities and thus make possible the continued improvement of these properties.

SLIGHT EXAGGERATIONS.

"How much the greatest event it is that ever happened in the world! And how much the best!" This is not a politician's comment on the ratification of the Suffrage Amendment, though it might be. The words cited are the exclamation of CHARLES JAMES FOX when he heard of the fall of the Bastile in 1780; and they remind us that public men in all times have been tempted to exaggerated speech. Even bearing this in mind, it is a bit daunting to read some of the superlatives used about the triumph of woman suffrage. Governor Cox leaves most competitors far behind by his assertion that through the vote of the Tennessee Legislature "the civilization of the world is saved." If that were so, we had all better abandon campaigns and elections and at once order our ascension robes.

We are too used to the extravagances of political speaking to hold an orator to their exact letter. But they are calculated to do mischief, poured out as they are upon the granting to women of the right to vote. False hopes will be roused. People will expect the political millennium to dawn immediately; but it will not. Worse than that, exuberant rejoicing will tend to make the country forget the grave perils which go along with the full enfranchisement of women. It is a time for reflection, for serious study, for sober taking of counsel, not for sounding the loud timbrel.

UPS AND DOWNS IN POLAND.

The Polish counter-offensive has had sudden and startling success, but it is well not to be too optimistic. Warsaw is safe for the time being, but this year's campaign has proved that the Russians are numerous enough to beat the Poles in the long run, and that most of them are willing to fight for any Russian Government against Poland. Dispatches from Warsaw represent the Polish successes as highly important, but a few days ago the Russians were winning victories just as overwhelming. The suspicion has been expressed by military men that in this particular war whichever army gets the worst of the first hour or so quits fighting for the day. But there is a more plausible explanation of the reverse of fortune.

The Russians have been driven back from the neighborhood of Warsaw, and also along the German frontier; but they are advancing in Galicia. The Galician front stood firm while everything was in collapse further north because the best Polish troops were there. General WEYGAND insisted that Warsaw could be saved by bringing these troops up to the defense of the capital, and he seems to have been right. The menace to Warsaw has been thrust off, and with it falls a good deal of the widespread fear of a Bolshevist tidal wave that would sweep clear to the Rhine. That danger was never so great as excited persons believed during the advance on Warsaw, and a good many fears must be calmed by this proof that the Bolshevist army is not invincible.

But the campaign is not over and the Polish peace delegates ought to bear this in mind. The Poles may have saved Warsaw at the cost of losing Lemberg. In any case their victories of the last few days should not lead the peace delegates to hold out for impossible terms. If they hold out too long, more Russian reserves may come up and change the course of the fighting. The Bolsheviki are not going to be able to make peace with Warsaw in their hands, and one would think that this might suggest the advisability of moderation to them also. The Chairman of their delegation, according to an official statement in Moscow, says that "Russia must "demand from the landlords of Po- "land such guarantees against re- "newed attack as would not be nec- "essary from the workers and peas- "ants of Poland." If this is no more than a hopeful proposal of Bolshevist revolution, it will probably have no effect among the Poles. Very probably it is an explanation of the harsh terms relating to Polish disarmament, terms which the Poles will accept only under compulsion.

Even the best Polish troops can be beaten by such numbers as Russia is able to bring into the field, and Poland is not likely to get any help from outside. Our statesmen are engaged in an academic discussion of the phrase, "all available means." Mr. COLBY expresses sympathy for Poland, but says that the Executive can do nothing without action by Congress. Mr. LODGE expresses sympathy for Poland, but says Congress can do nothing unless the President calls it together. Both are right, and probably both sympathize with Poland. But the cold fact is that the United States Government is split into two hostile factions which do not and apparently will not work together, and neither of which can accomplish anything alone. There are grave difficulties connected with a special session of Congress ten weeks before election. All the issues would be in danger of being upset by new action which would create new conditions and make it necessary for a political public to forget everything it has learned this Summer; and, a still more serious objection, all members of the lower house and a third of the Senate are coming up for re-election, and no member wants to be called away from the protection of his own fences to think about Poland. Each side fears to take the initiative, so each throws the blame on the other.

A THRIFTY REVOLUTIONIST.

An amusing, or at least instructive, sequel to the Russian visit of GEORGE LANSBURY appears in the wireless dispatches from Moscow concerning him, which have just been made public. Editor of The Daily Herald, an aggressive Socialist newspaper, Mr. LANSBURY came back from Russia not at all disillusioned about the Bolsheviki, as were the other British Socialists, after seeing them face to face. But it now appears that he did not admire them for naught. Mr. LANSBURY was deeply interested in the Soviets, but was much more interested in paper. He was also awake to the advantage of getting a nice little subsidy from the Bolsheviki to help meet his weekly deficit. The reason appears in one of the telegrams. "If we do not support The Daily Herald," telegraphed LITVINOV to TCHITCHERIN, "the paper will have to turn 'right' "trade union. In Russian questions "it acts as if it were our organ. "* * * It needs 50,000 francs for "six months."

It happens that The Daily Herald has made quite a specialty of secret Russian reports. It has obtained and printed with a flourish several that reflected on WINSTON CHURCHILL. What it will do about these damaging revelations affecting its own editor it will be curious to note. Probably it will put on a bold front and merely denounce the new attempt of a wicked capitalistic society to injure a true friend of the people. After all, simply because a man is a revolutionist, need he cease to be thrifty? Mr. LANSBURY has simply given an admirable example of that "direct action" which he favors. He needed paper and money and he acted directly to get both from the Soviets.

MR. HARDING AS POET.

What subtle Republican thinker conceived the plan of dispatching to Mr. HARDING'S all-hospitable porch a delegation of American Indians from twenty-three tribes? The Indians came to ask that full rights of American citizenship be granted them. A Marion correspondent of The Sun shows us the intended partisan slant of the originators of the delegation. The eyes of the visitors, we are assured, "blazed when they told of their "wrongs and neglects of the last "seven years." In other words, HARDING is the friend of the Indians, not Cox. This is common form, politically. The Indians have been well treated in the last seven years. Both parties and Americans generally wish to do them a somewhat tardy justice. The Indian Rights Association may always be depended upon to watch their interests carefully.

Mr. HARDING declared, with the air of a discoverer, that "the American "Indian is just as much entitled to a "square deal as any one else in the "Republic." So say we all of us. But it is the decorative, poetic and emblematic implications of this interesting call that stand out. One feels that Mr. HARDING with his retrospective and reverting turn of mind must have been delighted by these old Americans, these original Native Sons. They must have reminded him in this respect, as well as by the paint and feathers of some of them, of HIRAM JOHNSON, so restless within the Republican Reservation. It is to be assumed that there were no descendants of the Iroquois among them. That name would have recalled an ancient League of Nations and have abraded Mr. HARDING'S sensitive "Americanism."

In the presence of these oldest settlers and Americans, the spirit of poesy seems to have descended upon the Senator. The rhythmic charm, the metrical form of his sentences, was remarkable. For example:

You take that message to your fellow-Americans
From me, and, whether I am elected to the Presidency
Or not, I will [shall] be a member of the Senate
A little while, and I will [shall] be happy
To join with my voice in asking for justice
To the American Indian. I am glad to have you
Call. I wish I could take you about here
And introduce you to the musical names in This section that all
Come from the Indian days.
I was raised along the banks of the old Olentangy.

The last line is a poem in itself, a worthy imaginative comrade of the "Suwanee River" and "Ole Virginia's Shore." Indeed, the gazetteer of Ohio, with its wealth of suave and sugary names, sings itself: Ottokee, Winameg, Wapakoneta, Chippewa, Muskingum, Scioto, Tuscarawas, and so on. No wonder it brought out Mr. HARDING'S poetic vein.

THE NEW APPRENTICESHIP.

The idea put forward by the National Association of Corporation Training may easily prove the most powerfully stabilizing and constructive force in the great world which is bounded by labor, capital and production. Stated briefly, it is that every steady workman with a first-class brain shall have a first-class business education.

Under modern conditions the lower rungs of the ladder are hard to climb; and when a man has mastered his trade and risen perhaps to a minor managerial position he too often finds that he lacks the education which is requisite to further advancement. He needs a thorough knowledge of the machines he is operating, of the raw materials he is using, of all the processes that lead up to and follow his own department. Without such information he is destined to spend the rest of his life at a minor post; with it he can rise steadily to whatever position his abilities command. At this point his employers step in and send him to the American Institution of Industry. Many of our great corporations have already their individual schools; the new idea is to combine these in a national college. The boy who starts life with only his own steadiness and ability will receive an education which is certainly as useful, though perhaps not as ornamental, as that of the boy whose parents send him to college. Under the old apprenticeship a boy learned at most his trade. This new apprenticeship is for young men who have proved themselves, and it leads upward to any height of managership and even to the control of industry.

From the point of view of capital the system is equally advantageous. For much of the current labor unrest there is all too real a basis in hardship. This is not necessarily the fault of the employer. Such things have always been, and it is not easy to see how they can be wholly removed from the mortal lot. But in so far as the paths of advancement are opened up to all men of energy and ability, just so far will the causes of unrest be removed and the menace of radical agitation allayed. In the past we have cited it as a triumph of free institutions and a prime cause of our industrial efficiency that so many of our corporation presidents have risen from the ranks; but that past is closing behind us. Specialized science is yearly taking a larger part in industry. If advancement is to remain free, it can only be on the basis of liberal education for the deserving worker. The firms behind the new movement are said to have an aggregate capital of $3,000,000,000. They include, among others, the Steel Corporation, the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and the International Harvester Company.

The consumer, too, has his share in the brighter prospect. One of the most unfortunate effects of the organization of labor has been to restrict efficiency. When the way is open to all talents the unwisdom of the old policy will be more than ever manifest. Competition for advancement should do much to restore a normal productivity.

FREIGHTS IN PRICES.

Greater New York consumes daily about 2,500,000 quarts of milk. The increase in freight under the Federal schedule runs up to nearly a million dollars a year for one leading distributer alone, although the increase in the price of a quart is only from 25 mills to 33 mills. As the New York Public Service Commission yesterday refused to allow the increase on milk and cream, the exact addition cannot be stated until the rate is known. As change cannot be made in mills, the distributers are saying that the price of milk is likely to be increased "1 to 2 cents," not all on account of an increase of freight rates, but "in conjunction with other added charges." Those who pay the added cent or two will rightly demand a more exact specification.

The freight rate has so often been called a tax that a hint may perhaps be taken from the manner in which the taxes are collected. Whoever pays a Federal tax on a price is told exactly what the tax is, and the sellers are careful not to add the tax to the price. In similar manner the New York City tax bills carry calculations showing what the tax is for, down to several decimals. If the milk sellers wish to protect themselves from the odium of using the increase of mills as an excuse for adding a cent or two to the quart, they will put on their bills the exact addition of the cost to the price through the freight rate. It may not be possible to split a cent on a sale of a single quart, but when sales are made in multiples of quarts there is no excuse for not making a bill to the nearest cent. Wholesale buyers will certainly not pay 1 or 2 cents a quart more for milk, and there is no reason why steady customers should do so, while the milk sellers charge it all on the railways.

The Long Island Railroad says that it will charge 4 mills more for carrying a cauliflower from the leading producers to Brooklyn, 9 mills more for a peck of potatoes which buyers pay for by the pound, and 7 cents more for a bushel of oysters which are sold in restaurants by the half dozen. On other commodities the freight tax rises by fractions of a mill, yet buyers may be asked "1 to 2 cents" more. It is the duty of the railways to see that ultimate consumers are informed about the freight tax, and it is the duty of those who really pay the freight to see that no more than the freight is collected from them. Probably the largest unit bought by ultimate consumers is coal. It is carried long distances, and even the railways admit an increase per unit ton due to freight of $1, more or less. It will be felt grievously, but if no more than the freight is added to the price it will have to be paid with what cheerfulness can be summoned. The large producers are not supplying the trade at profiteering rates. The increase in the price of coal by 100 to 200 per cent. is not on contract fuel, but on comparatively small lots disposed of to the highest bidder in open market.

The price of coal and rent has aroused almost more indignation than any other costs of living, and yet the official record shows that those prices led the rear of the procession on the rise and may be expected to lead the rear of the retreat. It is not to be forgotten that action and reaction are equal in economics as well as in physics. That is to say, while many welcome rising prices, so also many suffer through them, and it is probable that the distress through falling prices is as great as the exhilaration on the rise. It is desirable now that the fall should be moderate and regulated. It is better to walk downstairs than to jump off the roof.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Mournful Ballad of Pie Alley.

The old Boston lane made too famous of late as the capital of Mr. PONZI'S system of finance has moved a local poet, nursed on THACKERAY'S "Ballad of Bouillabaise," to pinch the lyre:

A lane there is in Boston famous,
A narrow, cobbled alleyway,
In local lore enshrined; its name is Pie Alley—still more famed today!

There, many an urchin's gayly luncheoned;
There, ere the drought was on the land,
Throve, pewter-mugged and casked and puncheoned,
An alehouse old, the Bell-in-Hand.

Alas! that the "money changers" should invade that ancient change house. There for generations hung the good old sign. In 1793—was it?—the Bell-in-Hand was founded. A queer old ken, with its shabby and rickety space distributed among two floors of different levels, its wealth of pewter tankards, its specialty of mutton pie. Many "queer Dicks" frequented it. Metaphysical Scotchmen, eternal disputers about BURNS and BYRON; reticent fogies never known to say a word; characters who seemed, like the place itself, to belong to stage-coach days and to be living illustrations drawn by "Phiz" and unaccountably left out of the "Pickwick Papers." The glory of Pie Alley departed some time ago, but students of survivals and the customs of our ancestors must regret that this hoary oracle of the bottle had to be succeeded by witchcraft finance.

A Little Bunk from Kennebunk.

Captain KENNETH L. ROBERTS, who has lately looked over conditions in Central Europe, writes to The Tribune a letter which must give great comfort to those unorthodox Republicans who still want, or profess to want, some kind of League:

The Central European nations are unfamiliar with moral force; they are familiar only with the good old strong-arm stuff. * * * All up and down through Central Europe and the Balkans Americans who occupy responsible positions are sending home a loud and ear-splitting message. "A League of Nations is all right," they are saying; "in theory it's a fine thing and we ought to be in one; but not this League of Nations. The only thing that these people know is force! Don't let our people get into any League of Nations that will make it necessary for Americans to be sent over here to fight."

The language is the language of ROBERTS, but the logic is the logic of HARDING. Let us have a League; Europe understands nothing but force; let us therefore have a League, but not a League with any force in it. Or, if you prefer, Europe understands only force: let us stay out of a League which might mean military force; let us trust in moral force—which brings Captain ROBERTS to the exact position of Mr. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, whose views he was attacking.

Captain ROBERTS, as might have been inferred from his logic, is at Kennebunk Beach.

Cheap Books Still to be Had.

The price of books has gone up, like everything else, but there is one place where publications may yet be obtained cheap. We refer to the office of the Superintendent of Documents, Washington. His latest catalogue of works on hand relating to political science contains some tempting items. Thus if you are burning to acquire an address on "Civilization," delivered at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., on Aug. 3, 1917, by WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN, you can get it for three cents. As doubtless the reading of it would make you feel like thirty cents, there would be a clear profit of 1,000 per cent. If the reader's taste and politics should be different, he could apply for a treatise on "Recent Congressional Legislation," by the Hon. HENRY CABOT LODGE. The culture of the Massachusetts Senator necessarily comes higher, and this production of his is listed at eight cents.

The secret of these low prices is revealed by the Superintendent of Documents. His office works not for profit but for "public convenience." The prices cover only paper and printing, "no charge being made for the services of the statesmen and scientists who are the authors." We are bound to add that currency forwarded will be "at sender's risk," while postage stamps and defaced coins will not be accepted, nor will uncertified checks. So there can scarcely be a rush to the Superintendent's bargain counter.

Buying by Eye and by Actual Measure.

Most people buy fruit by the eye rather than by the quart, peck or bushel, and the fact has given scope for a vast variety of dodges on the part of the corner grocer. The berry box with a subcellar almost as large as the space that is filled has long been familiar; but certain sleights disclosed by the Department of Agriculture will come as news to many.

An honest half-bushel basket holds sixteen quarts, and such are said to be the peach baskets that come from New Jersey. In New York we have a peach basket that manages to look quite as large, but contains two quarts less. Florida exports lettuce in two sizes of hamper that look alike, but one of which contains eight quarts, or about a dozen heads, less. Of round-stave baskets there are more than twenty sizes, from five quarts to two bushels, some of them of such unusual measure as five, eleven and nineteen quarts. Of splint baskets there are nearly thirty sizes.

The Department of Agriculture is trying to bring some order into this chaos of containers. Obviously there should be only standard sizes—4, 8, 16 and 24 quarts. Much more surely than a pint is a pound, a half bushel should be a half bushel. And whatever the capacity of a container, it should be stamped in the wood where the buyer can plainly see it. The laws of the various States differ widely, and are hard to amend in unison; but if the effort proves too difficult, any State could protect its own citizens by laws that would stop the importation of these vessels of deceit.

WHO WILL BE BUNCOED?

A Dispute Among Republicans About Their Candidate.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I get my first chance to vote for President this year, so you'll excuse a young voter for being a bit mixed up on his first campaign. I'm a Republican—leastways, my father was a Republican, and he guessed right more often than he guessed wrong. But I'm mixed up on account of an argument over at the plant where I work. Carlson, he's like I am, Republican mostly because his old man is. He says Harding is for the League of Nations with reservations, like The New York Tribune says. Olds, he's a Republican, too, but I don't know why; he's for Harding, too, but he says the League is N. G. and Harding's against it, like The Sun and Herald says. That seemed funny to me, so when they quit arguing I asked Carlson, "Harding ain't going to put it through and kill it, too, is he?"

"He can't do both," he said. "He's for the League with reservations, and always has been. He voted that way twice."

"Well," I said, "what makes Olds think that he's against it?"

"That's politics," he said. "Johnson and Borah would bolt if he said he was for the League, and that would ruin the party. He's got to keep Johnson and Borah with him to save the party."

"Gosh!" I said, "do you mean that he's going to get them to save the party and then after he's elected bunco 'em by passing the League?"

"Sure," he said, "that's his only chance."

That seemed funny to me, so I beat it out to where Olds was setting up a compressor, and told him how he was going to help save the party and then get buncoed, but he only said, "Huh! I won't get buncoed. Carlson's the guy that'll get buncoed. If Harding was for the League he'd a said so, wouldn't he?"

"Yeh, I guess so," I said, feeling kind of puzzled.

Well, I'm Republican, but I don't want to get buncoed on my first vote, and I'm for the League with reservations, so please tell me if Carlson or Olds is going to get buncoed, as they each say it's the other. DAN FOX.

The First Law School.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a recent issue of THE TIMES, Mr. Robert M. Hughes of Norfolk, Va., challenges that part of your editorial article on "Litchfield's Bicentennial" in which you stated that Judge Reeves's Law School, established here in 1784, was the "first American Law School."

Mr. Hughes states: "The fact is that the first American law school was at the College of William and Mary, in Virginia," and that "it antedated the Litchfield school by a full lustrum."

I had supposed that this controversy had been long ago settled, but that the matter may be made clear I take the liberty of quoting from the address delivered here by former Chief Justice and former Governor Simeon E. Baldwin, on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 1. Judge Baldwin said:

"William and Mary College, in Virginia, had indeed established a professorship in law during the Revolutionary War, in 1779. George Wythe was the first professor, and John Marshall, the great Chief Justice, one of his first pupils. But here law was taught in a college, as one of the several branches of a liberal education, not as a profession to be studied as a preparation for the bar. Bushrod Washington, afterward an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States, took his bachelor's degree at William and Mary College in 1778, but far from doenting the general education received there as a sufficient legal education went, to secure that, into the office of James Wilson, in Philadelphia."

RONDEAU TO A GOLDENROD.

O goldenrod, how tall you tower
On Autumn fields when comes your hour.
You rise, a sylph of gold to view;
You seem not crude nor parvenu,
But proud of race and ancient dower.

I often think, resplendent flower,
No Princess gracing palace bower
Presents a sight more fair than you,
O goldenrod!

And yet, at times, I seem to cower,
As one who dreads a thunder shower.
The skies turn dark; my prospects, blue;
I know not where to flee . . . Hapchew!
My head . . . Hapchew! . . . I'm in your power,
O goldenrod!

PARTY RESPONSIBILITY.

Senator Harding's View of the Presidency, Also Governor Cox's.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Not even the great international crisis treated in the leading portion of Governor Cox's speech of acceptance should distract attention from the paragraph toward the end in which he sharply challenges the conception of the Presidency which Senator Harding has put forth, making the conduct of the office a matter of party, rather than personal, responsibility. This conception he contrasts briefly and forcibly with what he describes as "the exercise by the President of his own best final judgment under the responsibility assumed by his solemn oath of office, taking into consideration the views of others, of course, in arriving at that final judgment, but recognizing no group of any kind, not sworn, as he is, to the faithful performance of the particular duties in question, and not subject to impeachment, as he is, in case of serious malfeasance of those duties."

This, he asserts, is the conception of the Presidency held by Washington, Adams and Jefferson in initiating our Government under the Constitution, and the conception of all other Presidents to whom history has assigned a significant place in the growth of our political institutions. And he is entirely right in his assertion. The editor of The Outlook, actively favorable to Senator Harding's election, has developed the conception of party, rather than personal, responsibility by stating that if Harding is elected we shall not have government by an Executive held in some control by Congress, but government by a committee, of which the President will be the chief, and that he will not be a distinguished figure in either national or international affairs. One smiles to think of the reaction which this would have produced in the former distinguished member of The Outlook's editorial staff, Theodore Roosevelt. The Outlook does not itself state how this committee is to be made up, but of course, under the theory of "party responsibility," it could only be the men who could impress the President as possessing the most valid claim to be recognized as the leaders of the party at the time. Senator Harding's own words and actions during the period since his nomination indicate that he now regards the Lodge group in the Senate, modified by the threats of the Johnson-Borah "bitter-enders," as possessing that claim. Theoretically, the National Committee of the party, working through some sub-committee on Presidential policy, might seem more logical.

Practically, to any one who stops to think, it will be evident that the conception put forward by Harding can work at all only by the route of Presidential subserviency to the party machine. And this recalls Mr. Harding's one-time public declaration of "loyalty and devotion" to the then reigning Republican machine leader of Ohio, the late George B. Cox of Cincinnati, generally known as "Boss Cox." It was by allowing that machine to dictate and paralyze the sense of personal responsibility and initiative in Governors, even of such ability and character in other respects as McKinley and Herrick, that the very raw material was piled up for those exposures of corruption in the State House at Columbus which account, more than anything else, for the fact that the Democrats have carried six out of the last seven elections for the Governorship.

If George B. Cox were living he would welcome Senator Harding's theory of government by party responsibility as instinctively as Governor James M. Cox rejects it. It furnished the meat on which he fattened at the expense, first, of the City of Cincinnati and then of the whole State. That "leaders" of this class are exceedingly tired of executive officers who persist in refusing to yield to the party machine their right of private judgment as to the application of their oath of office to their official duties is natural enough.

If it were possible, however, to get a clean-cut decision at the polls on this issue alone, the position of Governor Cox would win over that of Senator Harding in every State in the Union. It is only because they imagined themselves sure of victory without much regard to issues that the men who finally appeared as the controlling force in the Chicago Convention ventured to name a candidate under whom such a conception of the Presidency was at once natural and possible. So far as thinking voters give their attention seriously to this issue, the gain is sure to accrue to Governor Cox, who insists that the duties of a party candidate, once elected, are to the people as a whole, and that in case of success in the present contest he will retain his right of personal judgment, under oath, in the performance of those duties.

The paragraph of the Governor's speech in which the matter is discussed has evidently put the Harding front porch council to some trouble for a suitable reply, since the only thing on the subject emanating from the porch so far is the utter absurdity given out by James B. Reynolds, former Secretary of the Republican National Committee, that it means that in case of Democratic success the office would be "more or less nominally administered by Mr. Cox as a proxy for Mr. Wilson." Apparently, it is believed at Marion that even an absurd retort is better than the implied confession of silence that Governor Cox has made a strong point to which no effective rejoinder on the basis of logical reasoning is possible.

The point is of deep importance, and we hope that the Governor will find time to press it more than once as the campaign goes on. W. H. JOHNSON.

Germans and Bolsheviki in the East.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As the question is often debated in this country whether there is any connection between Germany and the surreptitious propaganda carried on by the Russian Bolsheviki in countries like Afghanistan, Persia, India and Egypt, the following incident which took place in Persia a few weeks ago may help to clear the doubts of all those who are still living in a fool's paradise and are inclined to belittle the danger.

It appears that the Persian Democrats, who are the popular party, are strongly anti-Bolshevist, and when they raided a press in Tabriz they found a large quantity of Bolshevist literature, which provided additional evidence that Wustroff, the German Consul, was guilty of directing the Bolshevist propaganda there. The Democrats then besieged the German Consulate and demanded that a number of Bolsheviki who had taken refuge in the building should be handed over to them. Wustroff refused to give the men up, and, after using bombs, brought a machine gun to bear on the Democrats. The latter in their turn brought up a gun, but the Consulate flag was now lowered to half-mast, and it was announced that Wustroff had taken his own life. The announcement proved to be true, and there was the end of a most dangerous German intriguer, who had wrought much mischief in Persia. RUSTOM RUSTOMJI,

WILL AID EXPORT TRADE.

Cox and Harding Promise Improvement in Consular Service.

The American Manufacturers' Export Association, 160 Broadway, made public yesterday letters from Senator Warren G. Harding and Governor James M. Cox in which both nominees for the Presidency express a desire for the improvement of the American diplomatic and consular services with a view to assisting foreign trade. The association recently sent letters to the rival candidates, asking for an expression of opinion on the subject and recommending that the United States own and maintain proper homes for its foreign representatives and establish graded positions with promotion as a reward for merit.

Senator Harding in his reply said that "America has been greatly remiss in this particular function of government," and added that if he is elected "America's export trade will receive immediate and deeply interested attention."

"I think that the diplomatic and consular service and the Department of Commerce should be brought together," Senator Harding stated, "in a concerted and efficient effort toward finding markets, developing trade and expediting its transportation through the service of an American merchant marine."

Governor Cox wrote: "I have long since recognized the justice of proper attention to the needs of the diplomatic and consular career. These services should demand the best we have."

SEEK TO RE-ELECT JUDGES.

Citizens Committee Backs Justices Ignored by Both Parties.

Declaring that the voters in Kings, Queens, Richmond, Nassau and Suffolk Counties are facing the same situation the voters of Manhattan and the Bronx faced a year ago, when Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany, refused a renomination to Supreme Court Justice Joseph E. Newburger, William Jay Schieffelin, Chairman of the Citizens Union, announced yesterday that the Citizens Union would co-operate with a citizens' committee, headed by Edgar M. Cullen, former Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals, to bring about the re-election of Justices Scudder, Aspinall, Jaycox and Clark, whose terms expire.

Justice Scudder has been designated for renomination by the organization Democrats and Justice Jaycox by the organization Republicans. Justices Aspinall and Clark, Republicans, were turned down by the Republican organization, but are running in the primaries.

"Tammany learned a lesson last year," said Mr. Schieffelin, "but the action of the politicians in the Long Island district in ignoring the lesson taught by the Newburger victory demands the most vigorous opposition of every citizen who believes that the judiciary should be taken out of politics and that good judges with good records should be retained in office."

ALIGNED AGAINST HARDING.

First Independent Ohio Newspaper to Choose Between Candidates.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 19.—The first Independent newspaper in Ohio to express itself on the candidates for President aligns itself against Senator Harding. It is The Coshocton Tribune and Times Age, which, asserting that it holds no brief for Governor Cox, says he has mercifully refrained from confining his speeches to sheer idiocy about American institutions, as his similar opponent, the former majority of the Government was extremely reduced and the Social Democrats, though still the strongest party of the Reichstag, fearing further to impair their influence with the workmen, did not propose to remain any longer in the Government in co-operation with the Centrists Party and the Democrats. Yet, together with the Independents, they were still in a minority and could not form a purely workers' Government.

"The Democrats and the Centrists were consequently impelled to form together with the moderate group of the Right the 'German Liberal People's Party,' a purely bourgeois Cabinet, headed by the former President of the Reichstag, Fahrenbach. This Cabinet, although not representing a majority of the Reichstag, has, for the moment at least, sufficient vitality, as the Socialist Democrats out of tactical reasons (intending to unload upon the shoulders of the bourgeois parties all responsibility for the results of the Spa conference), promised, for the time being, their assistance. Their future attitude toward the present Government remains entirely uncertain and its duration is therefore questionable.

"In the meantime everything depends upon the outcome of the Spa conference as far as Germany's future is concerned. If the Allies gain a clear conception of the impossibility to execute literally the Peace Treaty of Versailles, and realize that Germany in her hopeless financial position can only meet her indemnity obligations up to a reasonable limit, then and only then can a little hope be entertained to ever rehabilitate the country.

"Internal peace and order, so vitally important, are dependent upon the import of foodstuffs in sufficient quantities to insure better nourishment of the people, and upon the importation of raw materials to allow them to work. An adequate number of troops is absolutely required for the maintenance of order; without them the near future will witness further serious uprisings and the complete breakdown of the nation, and this certainly cannot be to the advantage of its former adversaries.

1919 Budget Is 74½ Billions.

"The ludicrous financial position of the empire found clear elucidation in the exhaustive report rendered to the Reichstag by the Secretary of Finance. It may suffice to state that the 1919 budget amounts to seventy-four and one-half billions. (A monstrous figure: just before the war the total wealth of the Empire was estimated at 330 billions). The nation owes approximately 210 billions and this debt will be increased to 285 billions by the settlements with the individual States on account of the taking over of the railroads by the empire. During the six years from 1914 to the end of 1919, nineteen and one-half billions in taxes were levied, and today more current taxes are required in a single year than were collected in all those six years by recurrent and extraordinary taxes.

"A natural result of the deplorable financial situation with its inevitable system of paper currency is the depreciation of money and the adverse exchange. This causes continuous rise in wages and almost renders impossible the importation of raw materials and food stuffs, thereby skyrocketing prices for all goods and commodities. That is why the people, even now, a year and a half after the close of the war, must of necessity be satisfied with entirely unpalatable bread (two marks for 750 grams) and do not even get glimpses of fresh meat, milk and butter. The most important foodstuffs are still rationed and as the allowances are altogether inadequate for the individual's subsistence clandestine trade and usury are encouraged and the people are being bled white.

"The state of the people's morale as influenced by these conditions can easily be imagined. This nation, formerly so active, honest and well-disciplined, is now depressed in spirits, indolent and, at least partly, demoralized. It suffered too much physically and morally, and it is fatal that the intellectual part of the people, furnishing the spiritual leaders, finds itself today exposed far more than the workingmen to great deprivations and is in no position to exert its proper influence.

"In spite of it all, hope is not yet to be given up entirely. Even with all the momentary vicissitudes, there still remains a strong and healthy core, and this will surely under auspicious conditions blossom forth in new prosperity. It is up to the former adversaries to extend in their own interest a helping hand and to lead on to a better future this nation to whom the world's civilization owes so much, by lightening the burdensome load put upon its shoulders.

(Signed) FABIAN PHILIPP."

SAYS COX REQUIRES CURB.

Would Kill Himself Speaking if Permitted, Asserts Senator Harrison.

Governor James M. Cox of Ohio, Democratic nominee for President, would "kill himself and be in the grave before the time to be inaugurated," if the Democratic National Committee permitted him to do all the speaking he wanted to during the campaign, Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi, Chairman of the Speakers' Bureau, declared yesterday, in announcing that Governor Cox will begin his Western speaking tour on Sept. 2, and will speak in every State west of the Mississippi River.

Senator Harrison, who returned yesterday from a conference with Governor Cox at Columbus, said that this would be the most extensive campaign tour ever undertaken by any Presidential candidate. "There is a contrast between the attitudes of the Democratic and Republican candidates toward their respective campaign organizations," said Senator Harrison. "It seems that the Republicans are urging Senator Harding to get out and make a campaign of it, while it requires all our efforts to restrain Governor Cox."

UNITE FOR PRIMARY WORK.

A. B. Parker and F. B. Lord Organize Republican Committee.

The first steps in organizing a committee to manage the primary campaign of the candidates for State offices indorsed by the unofficial Republican State Convention were taken yesterday at a conference between Addison B. Parker of Jefferson County, who managed Secretary of State Francis M. Hugo's pre-convention campaign, and Franklin B. Lord, representing Nathan L. Miller and Jeremiah Wood, the organization candidates for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor. Parker and Lord gave out the following statement:

"The State Committee cannot take part in the primary campaign. Hence it is necessary to organize a committee to do so, even though the candidates recommended by the convention have the overwhelming support of a united Republican party."

It is proposed that each organization candidate on the State ticket shall have a representative on the committee, the first meeting of which will be held Wednesday, Aug. 25.

I. R. T. RESTORES FREE RIDES

Police and Firemen May Pass Gates by Displaying Badges.

The fight made by Alderman Louis Zeltner to have restored to members of the Police and Fire Departments the privilege of riding free on Interborough Rapid Transit lines, even when not in uniform, has been won.

Yesterday Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough, issued the order which permits policemen and firemen to pass ticket choppers by merely displaying their badges.

Tumulty Here; Will See White.

Joseph P. Tumulty, Secretary to the President, who arrived here yesterday from Washington, stated last night that his visit here was largely in the nature of a vacation, but that he expected to call upon George White, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, today. Mr. Tumulty is stopping at the Hotel Vanderbilt, where he has made his headquarters while in New York City since the closing of the Hotel Knickerbocker.

CORA VAN NORDEN'S WEDDING A SURPRISE

Late Banker's Daughter Married Capt. Arthur P. Coppinger in Kentucky July 24.

WON WAR DECORATIONS

She Worked for Years in the Salvation Army and Established the First Canteen in A. E. F.

The marriage is announced of Miss Cora Langdon Van Norden of this city, daughter of the late Warner Van Norden, the banker, and Captain Arthur Philip Coppinger, which took place on July 24 in Kentucky. The announcement of the marriage will come as a surprise to many of the bride's friends, as no formal notification had been made of her engagement and approaching marriage.

Mrs. Coppinger is a member of the Colony Club and is a sister of Theodore L. Van Norden and Warner M. Van Norden of New York. She was in active service for the Salvation Army during the war, being one of the first American women to go overseas. She established the first canteen in the A. E. F. with the 18th Infantry. In September, 1919, the French Government honored her with the Croix de Guerre and a bronze star, the decorations being conferred upon three American women who were attached to the 1st Division. She is said to have been one of the most decorated woman of the war, having not only been decorated by France but also by Serbia and Greece. She also owns the Salonika Ribbon and the Victory Ribbon with several stars.

About thirteen years ago Mrs. Coppinger gave up a social career and entered the Salvation Army. After completing a course at the Salvation Army training school, she received a commission as captain. She did editorial work on two of the Army's publications, and was also detailed to street work in Boston, preceding the annual Thanksgiving dinner. But she gave up the work later at the request of her father, who was in failing health.

Her father died on Jan. 1, 1914. Through him she is a descendant of one of the oldest Huguenot families that have figured in the early history of New York, the Van Nordens coming here from Holland in 1640.

Captain Coppinger won distinction in the state when, as a visitor at present at Camp Zachary Taylor in Kentucky with his bride. But he is to retire from the army, and they will make their home in this city. He is a nephew of the late General John J. Coppinger, who died in November, 1909, after a distinguished career. General Coppinger served in the Roman Army, and then came to this country and took part in the civil war. In 1898 he was brevetted as Major General of Volunteers and was retired.

Whalen—Keller.

The marriage of Miss Cecilia Marie Keller of West Farms and Frank Daniel Whalen of Kingsbridge was celebrated yesterday morning in the Church of St. John Chrysotom, the Rev. Father Frank Ostermann, a college classmate of the bridegroom, officiating.

The bride was attended by Miss Margaret Giblin as maid of honor and Miss Vida Driscoll as bridesmaid. The best man was Edmund P. Supple, and the ushers were Eugene Butler and William Delaney. A wedding breakfast was served at the Hotel Marseilles.

After a tour of the Thousand Islands and a stay in Lenox, Mr. and Mrs. Whalen will make their home in this city, where Mr. Whalen is a teacher in the De Witt Clinton High School.

Brandt-Becker.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Becker of Flushing, L. I., and Peter Hubert Brandt of this city took place Wednesday morning in the Municipal Building. Miss Edith Forbes of Rockaway and Paul Hinsch were the attendants.

Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Brandt left for California, where they will pass their honeymoon, after which they will make their home in this city.

MISS JULIE CAHILL WEDS.

Married to Dr. Frederick Finnegan by Mgr. Power.

The marriage of Miss Julie Isabel Cahill, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Cahill of 12 East 128th Street, and Dr. Frederick Finnegan of 376 Fifth Avenue took place at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at All Saints' Church, Mgr. J. W. Power officiating. The bride's family being in mourning, only the immediate relatives attended the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of white cloth of silver and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mae Cahill. Dr. J. Heffern served as best man. The bride is a musician, a graduate of the Institute of Musical Art. Dr. Finnegan served overseas with the American forces for eighteen months with the rank of Captain.

The couple will spend their honeymoon touring to New London, Conn.; Bretton Woods, N. H.; Saranac Lake and in the Adirondacks. They will be at home at Kew Gardens, L. I., after Oct. 1.

GUNS IN 5TH AV. AUTO CHASE

Thousands See Police Pursue Two Men in Stolen Car.

Harry Fealt, 19 years old, an automobile mechanic of 344 East Sixty-first Street, and Raymond Walsh, 18, a clerk, of 342 East Fifty-eighth Street, were locked up in the East Twenty-second Street Police Station last night on a charge of grand larceny. It is alleged that the men stole an automobile owned by Kallman Kanter, a silk merchant, of 332 Fourth Avenue, from in front of Kanter's office. Jacob Luttin, a brother-in-law of Kanter, gave chase after the automobile. Patrolmen James Cuptin and Thomas Smith also joined in the chase in a commandeered automobile.

The two men, it was said, raced north along Fourth Avenue, but were caught for a moment in a traffic jam at Twenty-third Street. Before the police could get near the stolen machine the car turned west into Fifth Avenue, followed by the two patrolmen, who stood on the running board with drawn revolvers, threatening to shoot. The chase continued along Fifth Avenue as far as Twenty-eighth Street and was witnessed by thousands. At Twenty-eighth Street the pursued car turned east toward Fourth Avenue and swung south along that thoroughfare to Twenty-fourth Street, where it crashed into an electric light pole. Both men attempted to run but were overtaken by the patrolmen.

Jacob Weisman of 227 West Thirty-eighth Street was cut about the face by flying glass as the car crashed into the pole. He refused medical aid. The automobile was wrecked and the pole loosened by the impact of the collision.

Motion Picture Star Sued.

Carlyle Blackwell, motion picture star, was named judgment debtor in the sum of $1,249 yesterday in papers filed in the County Court by Elizabeth A. Chatterton. The plaintiff alleged that Blackwell rented and occupied her cottage at Larchmont from July 1 to Oct. 1, 1916. He then vacated the premises, she says, and refused to pay for the remainder of the period covered by his lease.

CATCH 3 BOY THIEVES IN BROOKLYN HOME

Burglar Trio Confess Many Flatbush Robberies, but Can't Remember All.

Detectives Burton and Finck, who were assigned to watch vacant houses in Flatbush, where burglaries have been numerous, forced their way into the residence of Dr. M. P. Burnell, at 1,408 Albemarle Road, last night on receiving word from a neighboring gardener that burglars were there.

The detectives heard a rush of feet and the noise of a closing door inside the house. They went from room to room, finding drawers open and miscellaneous articles scattered over the floor, indicating that burglars had been there and apparently were still in the house. Searching methodically, they opened a closet door, and a white-faced boy tried to dash between them. A well-placed blow felled him, and at the same time the detectives heard the sound of two persons racing down the stairs and out to the sidewalk. Burton remained in charge of the prisoner as Finck pursued the fleeing housebreakers.

Blowing his whistle as he ran, Finck kept the fugitives in sight for six blocks, when he was joined by Detectives Jeremiah J. Murphy and Emil Geisler. They soon caught the second and third burglars, who also proved to be mere boys. Each of the three carried an automatic, but none attempted to use his weapon, which was surprising to the detectives, because the police experience has always been that criminals under 20 years are the most desperate and reckless class of pistol fighters.

The prisoner caught in the closet said he was George De Mico, 18 years old, living at 278 Dean Street. The others said they were A. N. Reed, 17 years old, of 574 Forty-eighth Street, Brooklyn, and Christian Gabrielson, 19 years old, of 642 Fifty-second Street.

They broke down and made full confessions, saying that they had robbed house after house in this section, which is one of fine residences. Among the places which they said they had entered in the last ten days were the homes of James A. Nelson, 141 Argyle Road; M. F. Tompkins, 135 Argyle Road; Dr. C. H. Whitcomb, 136 Argyle Road; Dwight E. Austin, 193 Rugby Road; William A. Porter, 1,700 Ditmas Avenue, and homes of families named Dakins at 1,206 Albemarle Road; Joffe at 156 Westminster Road, and Doehlers at 1,712 Ditmas Avenue. They said they had robbed many other places, but could not recall the names and addresses on short notice.

The three boys took the detectives into vacant lots adjoining the Precious Blood Convent at Fort Hamilton Avenue near Fifty-ninth Street, where several sacks of silverware, jewelry and miscellaneous articles of value were dug up from spots concealed in clumps of bushes, where the young burglars had buried their plunder each night.

Women to Aid Justice Clark.

Fifty Staten Island women, meeting under the auspices of the Staten Island League of Women Voters at the home of Mrs. William G. Willcox, 113 Davis Avenue, West New Brighton, pledged themselves yesterday to work for the renomination of Supreme Court Justice Lester W. Clark of New Brighton in the primaries. Justice Clark, a Republican, was denied indorsement by the Republican organization, which picked Frank Gannan, Jr., as its candidate. Justice Clark has been entered in both the Democratic and Republican primaries and the women intend to make a house to house canvass in an attempt to bring about his renomination by both parties.

DAWSON, YUKON, GETS THE TIMES BY AIRPLANE

Air Pioneers Greeted in the Yukon by Pioneers of the Klondike Trails.

By Telegraph to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DAWSON, Yukon, Aug. 17.

Airplanes 2 and 4 of the New York-Nome expedition arrived at Dawson 6:15 o'clock this afternoon, bringing a copy of THE NEW YORK TIMES of July 15 to Dawson, the first newspaper ever conveyed directly from the American metropolis to the Klondike's famous old gold fields and new silver fields, and marking an epoch in the circulation of a daily paper. The actual traveling time was 47 hours and 48 minutes.

The two other airplanes will be here tomorrow morning, then all will proceed together to Nome.

Today the airplanes arrived in the midst of the celebration of the twenty-fourth anniversary of the discovery of the Klondike gold fields. The pioneers of the air and the trails are celebrating jointly tonight.

The Dawson Daily News greets America's great daily.

STRIKERS FIND JOBS GONE.

Several Steamship Companies Plan to Keep Non-Union Men.

Union coastwise longshoremen who returned to coastwise piers yesterday found that the steamship companies, in several cases, had adhered to their announced intention of retaining the non-union men employed while the five months' strike was on. No clashes between the factions were reported last night, but T. V. O'Connor, President of the International Longshoremen's Union, declared he thought the companies soon would abandon the policy of retaining strikebreakers.

"There's a shortage of men," said the union leader, "and the companies have begun to realize, I think, that the men they put to work during the strike—mostly negroes—cannot get out the work the skilled union men can."

Mr. O'Connor said about 2,000 men already had returned to work and he expected the entire situation to be clarified within the next six weeks. Neither Mr. O'Connor nor the companies would estimate the number of union men who found themselves replaced by the non-unionists.

The vote to return to work was taken by 1,000 longshoremen who met in St. Veronica's Hall, Washington and Barrow Streets, on Tuesday night, following a conference between union leaders and steamship owners.

NO TELEPHONE INQUIRY.

P. S. Commission Won't Take Up Rate Increase at Present.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Aug. 19.—Chairman Charles B. Hill of the Public Service Commission today sent a letter to William P. Capes, Secretary of the Conference of Mayors, stating that the commission could not enter into an investigation of the reasonableness of the rate increase asked for by the New York Telephone Company until such time as the cases now pending were decided.

"Unless there is reason, after the evidence in these cases is submitted, to feel that the increases are unreasonable, the commission would not feel warranted," Chairman Hill writes, "in going to the large expense necessary to make a Statewide valuation in order to test these rates."

SAML. M. ROOSEVELT DROPS DEAD IN CLUB

Artist and Sportsman Stricken with Hemorrhage of the Brain at Knickerbocker.

COUSIN OF LATE COLONEL

President of National Association of Portrait Painters Gained Fame at His Roast Lion Dinner.

Samuel Montgomery Roosevelt, artist, portrait painter and sportsman, a cousin of the late Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, dropped dead early last evening in the hall of the Knickerbocker Club, 2 East Sixty-second Street. He was 66 years old.

Mr. Roosevelt had just descended the stairs of the club. At the bottom he dropped his cigar. He was stooping to pick it up to throw it away, club members said, when he was seized suddenly. Attendants carried him to a sofa and summoned physicians. Dr. Louis F. Seaman, of 26 East Sixty-second Street, the first physician to respond, said Mr. Roosevelt died instantly of a hemorrhage of the brain.

Mr. Roosevelt's chauffeur who had been instructed to call for him at the club at 8 o'clock, said his employer had appeared in the best of health during the day.

The body was taken from the club to an undertaking establishment after Mrs. Roosevelt, at the Roosevelt Summer home at Skaneateles, N. Y., had been notified. Members of his family had not reached the city up to a late hour last night.

Mr. Roosevelt was born in this city, a son of Samuel and Mary Jane Roosevelt, in 1854. His grandfather was Nicholas I. Roosevelt. He was educated at St. John's School in Ossining, N. Y. He studied art at the Art Student's League in this city, and later at the Academy Julien, Paris. As a young man he spent considerable time in the West. He had been a cowboy for a period, his cousin, Mr. Roosevelt Schuyler, said over the telephone from his home at Nyack last night. He had painted portraits of his cousin, Theodore Roosevelt, Bishop James H. Darlington, Oliver Belmont, Hudson Maxim, Henry F. Shoemaker, the Earl of Kintare and many others.

He was an all-around sportsman, and in his early days displayed unusual skill as a fencer. He was also interested in yachting. Later he became prominent as an artist. At the time of his death he maintained a studio at 44 West Seventy-seventh Street.

Mr. Roosevelt entertained a great deal, and several years ago startled seventeen members of the artist colony, who were his guests at dinner, by serving as the piece de resistance a baby lion, roasted whole. At the conclusion of a similar dinner some months before he had promised his guests that the next occasion would be served some strange and unusual dish. He scorned suggestions of roast ostrich, crocodile steak and other delicacies, and finally the chef of a well-known local café, at a loss, sacrificed a baby lion rapidly growing too large for petting.

Mr. Roosevelt was President of the National Association of Portrait Painters, had served as a School Commissioner of this city, and was a member of the Knickerbocker, Lambs, Manhattan and New York Yacht Clubs, the Tuxedo Club, the Larchmont and the Fencers' Club of this city. He was also a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor of France. He had been the head of the National Association of Portrait Painters since 1912.

Daniel S. Jones.

Daniel S. Jones, who operated extensive coal yards on Long Island until his retirement ten years ago, died yesterday at his home, 133 Madison Avenue, Flushing. He was a descendant of one of the oldest Long Island families. He was born in Stony Brook, L. I., Sept. 27, 1841. While a resident of Long Island City Mr. Jones took an active part in politics, but never held office. He was a Director of several banks and a charter member of the Flushing Business Men's Club, and was a member of Cornucopia Lodge, F. and A. M.

Ex-Justice Lynn's Funeral Today.

MIGUEL MOYA, former President of the Association Press of Madrid, is dead at San Sebastian. He was owner of the Madrid newspapers El Liberal and El Heraldo.

THINK POISON KILLED MUTILATED WOMAN

Chemical Analysis Ordered When Autopsy Fails to Show Death Cause.

The young woman whose torso was found floating in the Hudson off Communipaw, Jersey City, on Tuesday, may have been a poison victim. This was intimated last night when a chemical analysis was ordered to determine the cause of death, something the autopsy yesterday failed to establish.

Last night the police of New York and New Jersey had joined in the hunt for the girl's slayer, and District Attorney Swann had asked that his office be kept advised of every development. The search for the murderer was admittedly proceeding slowly, for the only clue the police had was a small square of red flannel found tied to the torso.

An autopsy was performed by County Physician Bert Daly, aided by Assistant County Physician Arthur Hasking and Dr. Otto Schultze, Medical Examiner attached to Judge Swann's staff. The operation failed to disclose how the woman was killed, but indicated beyond doubt that the mutilation of the body was not the result of the torso becoming enangled in the propeller of a river craft, a theory advanced at first.

"The chances are 999 out of 1,000" declared Dr. Hasking, "that the woman's death was not normal. I am convinced that the cutting off of her arms and legs was done for the purpose of concealing identity.

"There was no mark of violence on the torso. She had not been shot or stabbed, and her organs gave every evidence of health. I shall have a chemical analysis made of the vital organs to determine the cause of death. The analysis may take two or three weeks. An inquest will be held when there is something to work on. The remains in the meantime will not be buried."

Beginning their investigation of the mystery, the Jersey City police yesterday checked up along the water front. They questioned crews of tugs and lighters and also sought information from pier watchmen. Up to last night the men had covered the territory between Black Tom and the Jersey Central ferry house, but had gleaned nothing of aid to them in their hunt. Today the detectives will continue up along the river banx and others will be sent as far north as Haverstraw to work down the river on the same task.

A young man who was said to be John R. Domowsky of 334 West 148th Street, Manhattan, came to Pryor's Morgue in Jersey City yesterday to learn if the torso might be that of his wife, who, he said, had been missing since June 23 last. He said that his missing wife had a peculiar birthmark on the left breast. Dr. Hasking said that the condition of the torso prevented any identification by birthmark, and when he suggested that the visitor view the body the caller left. Dr. Hasking said that the description of the missing wife indicated that the torso was not hers.

GIRL ROBBED AS "WARNING."

Men, Held for Taking $5,500, Told Woman to Get Insurance.

Believing a fake robbery of his friend's jewels would make her realize the advisability of taking out burglary insurance, according to his story, Donovan L. Shaw of 822 West End Avenue, a Lieutenant in the air service during the war, devised a plot in which one of his friends would remove the young woman's valuables, by force, if necessary. The alleged carefully laid plans were carried out successfully last Monday night. As a result Shaw and Harry E. Diamond, a salesman of 3,000 Broadway, were arrested yesterday and held in $5,000 bail each in West Side Court for examination Monday on charges of robbery. The jewels and money, amounting to $5,500, according to the police, have been recovered.

The victim of the alleged fake holdup was Miss Susan Duval, who told Detectives Foley and Sherry of the West 100th Street Station she had been going out with the former Lieutenant for several months. On Monday night, she said, she and Shaw returned to her home at 55 West Ninety-fifth Street. They saw a stranger in the vestibule of the house as they were entering. Soon after, she said, the stranger followed them in through the door, which Shaw had left ajar. The intruder, aiming a "revolver," demanded that Shaw and Miss Duval hold up their hands.

The stranger ordered the pair into a clothes closet, bound their hands and legs, and locked the door. Shaw later is said to have unfastened the cords and freed the woman. She notified the police. A water pistol which Shaw contended in court had been used by Diamond was found in the apartment, proving, according to the former Lieutenant, that the "robbery" was only a joke.

Detectives Foley and Sherry went to Diamond's home, where they said they found two diamond bracelets, a diamond bar pin, a string of pearls, a diamond clasp and a mesh bag containing $8 in cash, all of which were identified by Miss Duval. Diamond was thereupon placed under arrest. Miss Duval is said to have inherited a small fortune recently through the death of one of her relatives. Shaw was an aviation instructor at Mincola Field for a short time.

ROBERT PARKER STAATS DIES

Builder of Many of the Largest Piers in New York Harbor.

Special to The New York Times.

GREAT BARRINGTON, Mass., Aug. 19.—Robert Parker Staats, President of the firm of R. P. & J. K. Staats, building contractors of New York City, and a descendant of one of the first Dutch families in New Amsterdam, died last night at his summer home, Folly Farm, here in his sixty-ninth year. He had been ill two months. His home in New York was at 340 Park Avenue.

The contracting firm of which he was the head built many of the largest piers in New York harbor. Mr. Staats was a member of the Holland Society, the Union League Club, the American Society of Civil Engineers, the American Geographical Society and the Seventh Regiment. He is survived by his wife, a son, H. Philips Staats; a daughter, Mrs. Robert McNaughton Barker, a brother, John K. Staats, his associate in business, and Miss Laura B. Staats of New York, a sister. Interment will be in Woodlawn Cemetery, New York.

BATTERY PARK WALK OPENED TO VEHICLES

Drivers Bound for Staten Island Ferry Directed to Take New Route.

TO RELIEVE CONGESTION

Park Commissioner Consents to Arrangement to Which There Had Been Strong Objection.

In an attempt to lessen the street congestion along the waterfront in the lower part of Manhattan Island, a highway in Battery Park, hitherto reserved for pedestrians, was opened to vehicular traffic yesterday. Traffic policemen were on duty in what is known as the "second walkway," which runs from State Street to the west end of South Street, directly in front of the Barge Office, and directed drivers of vehicles bound for the Staten Island ferry to take this route instead of going around by way of State Street, as in the past.

State Street has been considerably congested by the large number of vehicles, but there has been strong objection in the past to the opening of any part of the park to such traffic or for the use of the park for any commercial purpose. The pathway turned over to vehicles is one that adjoins a children's playground and the women's rest room in the park.

It was learned that the pathway had been taken over by Grover A. Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, by arrangement with Park Commissioner Francis D. Gallatin. Commissioner Whalen explained that all vehicles going to Staten Island from Manhattan would use the new way through the park and line up in the marginal street in front of the Barge Office ready to enter the ferry terminal, and that all vehicles coming from Staten Island to Manhatan would leave the ferry terminal by way of Whitehall Street.

"This has been done," said Commissioner Whalen, "in order to provide a safer and more convenient approach to the Staten Island Municipal Ferry and to eliminate the delays and dangers of passing conflicting lines of vehicle traffic and trolley cars through the narrow throttle at the junction of Whitehall and State Streets.

"This improvement has long been urged by the people of Staten Island and I am able to grant their oft repeated request through the co-operation of Park Commissioner Gallatin, who has given to the Department of Plant and Structures temporary permission to use this cross walk for vehicle traffic, pending the preparation of plans for rearrangement of the eastern end of Battery Park and the building of a permanent roadway."

RUTH'S BLOW FAILS TO RESCUE YANKS

Babe Makes His 43d Circuit Smash, but Indians Gain Verdict by Score of 3 to 2.

EXCITEMENT CAUSES DEATH

Ray Caldwell Has a Bit the Better of Bob Shawkey in Interesting Battle of Twirlers.

His Royal Nibs, Babe Ruth, the Bazoo of Bang, edified a crowd of 18,000 spectators at the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon with his forty-third home run of the season. It was a splendiferous spank and came in the fourth inning off Ray Caldwell. The ball disappeared over the roof of the right field stand and landed somewhere in Manhattan Field. Mighty as the whang was it wasn't enough to win for the Yanks and Cleveland took the ball game, 3 to 2.

It is some time since Babe promulgated one of his excursion wallops on the home terrace and the overjoyed crowd sent forth great volumes of vocal approval. Hats went up in the air, cheers echoed over Harlem and there was a riot of noise which lasted several minutes.

So great was the excitement following the home run that it killed Theodore Sturm of Bellrose, L. I., who was sitting in the box back of third base. He succumbed to heart disease.

Bob Shawkey lost a pitching battle to the former Yankee, Ray Caldwell. The Yanks were powerless before Caldwell when hits were necessary and many of the home crew didn't even have the distinction of getting on first base. Ward and Peck, the two batsmen at the head of the batting order, never saw first base and each time that Ruth came to the bat the sacks were deserted. The Yanks made five hits off Caldwell and the Indians got seven off Shawkey.

Manager Miller Huggins of the Yanks, through the umpires thoughtfulness, missed the agony of seeing his team defeated. In the second inning, Huggins outraged the ethics of the diamond by presuming to speak to Umpire Tommy Connelly. For this faux pas Huggins was ruthlessly torn away from his ball club and spent the rest of the afternoon in exile. If the scene had been ancient Russia instead of modern Harlem, Huggins would probably have been sent to Siberia.

Couldn't Field O'Neill's Bat.

The little matter about which Huggins wanted to speak to Connelly appertained to Steve O'Neill throwing his bat out into the diamond after he had hit the ball to the lawn. The tap rolled down to the left of the pitcher's box, and Shawkey ran over to pick it up. O'Neill's bat landed near Shawkey's feet as he was running and he had to stop. Bob was prevented from fielding the ball and getting a possible out at second. By inserting his bat between Shawkey and the ball O'Neill got himself a hit. Shawkey protested to Connelly and claimed interference with his play, but his argument carried no weight, so Attorney Miller Huggins came out to argue the cause. Before he could open his argument the umpire gave Huggins explicit directions to the clubhouse.

Social usages in the American League now require a player who wishes to speak to an umpire to have a letter from his pastor and the recommendation of at least five leading citizens.

The Cleveland club played fast, snappy ball yesterday, and the work of Lunte at short brought much favorable comment. Lunte not only got a couple of hits, but he fielded the short field like a veteran and made several rifle ball pegs to first which retired runners.

The Indians would have had a couple more runs on their string if it had not been for the circus catch made by Pink Bodie in the seventh inning. Caldwell and Graney were on the bases at the time and two were out, when Jamieson soaked a terrific crack between right and centre fields. Bodie started after it on the gallop. He had to run fast backword, and just as the pill was about to wave him a merry good-bye the illustrious Latin rose into the air, grabbed the soaring ball and then came down on the turf on his left ear. He did a headspin, a double somersault and a handspring, and came up with the ball still tightly clutched. One pippin of a catch!

The Indians started out by annexing a brace of runs in the first. Graney walked and Wamby sent him down on a sacrifice. Jamison whacked a three-bagger to deep right centre and Graney counted. While Pratt was tossing Smith out at first Jamison scored. Gardner fanned and ended the run business for the time being.

Babe Starts with Two-Bagger.

There were two down in the Yanks' first when Ruth surprised the Cleveland outfielders by pasting a two-bagger against the left-field fence. This is about the second time this season that Babe has hit in that direction, his other wallop to left being a home run in Boston earlier in the season. Ruth went to second as Caldwell retired Pratt at first for the final out.

O'Neill hit a grounder to the infield in the second and his bat went along with the ball. Shawkey was unable to field it because the bat was in his way and Steve got a base hit. At this stage the argument occurred which resulted in Huggins's removal from the picture. After Johnston had fouled to Ruel, Lunte singled to right and sent Steve to third. Shawkey fanned Caldwell and Graney walked, filling the bases. The Yanks pulled out of this ominous predicament when Wamby hoisted a fly to Bodie.

Ruth was the first Yankee up in the fourth and he made his mammoth clout over the right field stand for his forty-third home run.

The Yanks had a beautiful chance to tie the score in the fifth, but fell down. Bodie was the first Yankee up and he rapped a three-bagger between centre and right. Lunte threw Ruel out at first and held Bodie at third. Shawkey rolled a grounder to Larry Gardner and Bodie raced home only to find the ball waiting for him when he arrived.

Cleveland added another run in the sixth which marked the margin of victory. It was a home run into the lower right-field stand by Elmer Smith, his second in two days.

The Yanks made an attempt to even up matters in their half of the sixth. After Lunte had thrown Peck out at first on a pretty play Ruth drew a pass. Pratt singled to left and Ruth went to third, scoring while Wamby was tossing Lewis out at first. Pipp failed in the pinch and hoisted to Jamieson for the third out.

Bodie made a valiant effort to even up matters in the seventh when he opened the inning with a terrific clout to right field which Smith gathered as it was about to kiss the concrete wall. Another few feet and the ball would have nestled in the stand.

ON READING SHAKESPEARE

Brander Matthews, in The New York Times Book Review and Magazine next Sunday, answers comprehensively a correspondent who says: "I have reached middle age without having read Shakespeare. I have bought several editions and I need assistance. There is not one page of Shakespeare on which I do not find at least two instances of either an obsolete word, an obsolete meaning of a word still used but differently, a reference to an obsolete custom, or the like."—Advt.

BAKER MAY RETURN.

Yankees' Old Third Baseman Anxious to Get Back in Game.

It is not unlikely that J. Franklin Baker, who retired from baseball this year, may be back with the Yankees again in a short time. Baker was at yesterday's game as the guest of Colonel T. L. Huston and appeared to be in fine shape. Baker says he has been playing ball twice a week with the Upland Club in Maryland, and did not deny that he was anxious to get back with the Yankees.

The former third baseman stated that he did not believe the club needed him, and he praised the work of the Yankee players. Baker said that his children needed his care at his Maryland home, and if it were not for this he would gladly come back to the Yanks.

Colonel Huston and Baker had a long talk last night, and it is believed that the former third baseman may consent to come back for the remaining weeks of the season. The Yankee players were all glad to see him, and all told him that they would be glad to see him back. An announcement that Baker will be back in the Yankee lineup may be expected at any time.

PHILLIES WIN IN TWELFTH.

Williams's Triple Starts Rally That Beats Pittsburgh, 5-2.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 19.—Philadelphia defeated Pittsburgh in a twelve-inning game today, 5 to 2. Williams led off the twelfth with a three-bagger and scored on Hamilton's wild pitch. A pass, a single and a double followed, which, aided by Haeffner's wild throw, scored two more runs.

Curves and Bingles

Today is an off day at the Polo Grounds and the Yankees will take a rest. Detroit will open a three days' series with the Yankees on Saturday.

Wamby got a two-bagger in the fifth. Duffy Lewis being able to get only one fin against the ball.

The folks who feared that Babe Ruth was in a batting slump were again forced to deny the rumor.

The Yankee-Cleveland series now stands 12 games to 8 in favor of the Yanks.

New York missed a good chance to jump in the league race yesterday. The White Sox game was called off on account of rain and victory would have put the Yanks in second place, a mere lota behind the leaders.

When Steve O'Neill was at the bat in the eighth, one of Shawkey's curves came sailing toward the inside of the plate and Steve dropped to duck the ball.

If Bodie makes many more catches like that grab of Jamieson's rocket in centre field in the seventh, they will change his first name to Tris.

Ruth and Bodie were the only Yanks who could solve Caldwell's twists. Ray had the rest of them thoroughly tamed.

When Bodie got a single in the second with two out he did a fine bit of base running and made second safely when Jamieson momentarily fumbled the ball.

It looked for a moment in the first inning as if Babe Ruth had injured his right knee again. He took such a terrific swing at the ball that he whirled all the way around and his right leg folded up under him, as he doubled up on the ground. He gave it a few thumps and it was all right again.

CINCINNATI WINS ON WINGO'S TRIPLE

With Sicking on Base Ivy's Swat Takes Game from Dodgers in Thirteenth, 3-2.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 19.—Ivy Wingo's triple with Sicking on base enabled Cincinnati to win today's ball game from the Dodgers in the thirteenth inning and gain ground in the National League pennant pursuit. Cincinnati had a two-point lead in the percentage table before the game started and increased this to practically a full-game margin by this afternoon's work. The struggle was worthy of the league leaders, and the crowd of about 8,000 was kept on the anxious seat during every minute of the thirteen innings. It was anybody's game any time until Wingo put the seal on it in the thirteenth.

The players of both teams wore mourning bands on their left arms and all the flags in the park were at half-mast in honor of the memory of Ray Chapman.

The first seven innings of the game developed into a pitchers' battle, with honors even between Burleigh Grimes and Walter Ruether. Then the Brooklyns started off in a short-lived lead with a couple of runs, only to have the Reds tie it up in their half of the eighth. Grimes lasted through ten innings, but the extreme heat finally affected him so much that he had to give way in favor of Cadore, who took up the burden in the eleventh in time to have the ultimate defeat chalked up against him. Ruether was taken out in the eighth to allow See to bat for him, and Sallee and Ring finished the game for the clan of Moran.

Lay-off Did No Harm.

This was the first game since Sunday for the Dodgers. Apparently their lay-off has done them no harm, for, in spite of the fact that they lost today, they were full of the old pep and played weren't quite so impressive when it a bang-up game in the field. They came to a question of the slapstick, but in this connection it is always to be taken into consideration that Cincinnati was getting some unusually high-grade pitching.

The Dodgers scored a safe hit in each of the first three innings, but couldn't come within shooting distance of the home plate. In the fourth they made motions that resembled a run, but failed to complete the picture. Hy Myers walked and reached second on a passed ball and then tried to score on Konetchy's infield hit. It didn't work, however. Daubert's throw erased Myers at the plate. From the fifth to the eighth the Dodgers didn't get a hit, but they had the champions worried in the eighth. It looked for a while as if they meant to end the old ball game right there.

Otto Miller started the eighth for the Robins with a two-bagger to left field. Lamar took his place on the sacks. Grimes laid down a neat bunt for an intended sacrifice, but Ruether's throw was too late to catch Lamar going to third, Grimes, of course, being safe at first. Burleigh stole second. Johnston then hit Ruether where it would do the most harm, poling the ball out safely to centre, Lamar and Grimes reporting at the home station on the blow. Neis grounded out to Kopf and Wheat struck out.

Fun Was Short-Lived.

The Reds didn't let the Dodgers have their fun for long. They proceeded to knot the game all up in their half of the same frame. Kilduff threw out both Sicking and Wingo for a starter, and it looked then as though Grimes would continue the path that had led him unscathed through seven innings. However, See and Groh soon changed the complexion of affairs. See took Ruether's place at the bat and planted a single in right field. He scored on Groh's double to right, Heinie taking third on the throw to catch See at the plate. Groh was wide awake and scored on a short passed ball. Daubert was the third out on a pop fly to Johnston.

For a few moments in the ninth the Dodgers seemed to have the victory in their hands, but Sallee, who was in the box for the Reds, held them safely. Petey Kilduff tripled handsomely to left with two men out, and was left when Elliott popped to Kopf. The Reds, too, looked dangerous in the ninth, after Roush had started the inning with a single. Elliott mishandled Duncan's bunt, with the result that both Roush and Duncan were safe. Roush was caught off the bag by Elliott, however, and Kopf forced Duncan. Kopf was thrown out trying to steal. It was a good piece of work for Rowdy Elliott.

Ring replaced Sallee in the box for the Reds in the tenth after Grimes had started the inning with a single. Olson forced Grimes, and Johnston hit into a double play. In the eleventh the Dodgers bunched a couple of singles, but couldn't score. Wheat and Myers hit safely, with one out, but Konetchy popped up and Kilduff fanned.

The finish came quickly in the Reds' half of the thirteenth. Sicking, first to face Cadore in this inning, was walked, and then along came Ivy Wingo with a terrific blow for three bases that sent Sicking across with the third and winning run. The score:

Ariel Leading in Greenwich Cup Race When It Is Called Off.

Special to The New York Times.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., Aug. 19.—The second of the races for the Greenwich Cup was called off at 6:40 tonight because there was not enough wind to carry the four boats around the eighteen and one-half mile course within the four-hour time limit.

The Ariel was slightly in the lead when the day's racing was declared off. The challenger, owned by A. G. Hanan, was about two and three-quarters miles from the finish line at the time. In the race, which was the second for the "R" boats from New York and Boston, there was not time except for a few minutes at the very start when the southeast breeze was blowing at a speed of more than four knots.

The air besides being light was exceedingly streaky, but in it the New York boats, Ariel and Rogue, showed considerably the more speed. Had the wind been only a little stronger the New York racers doubtless would have beaten the defenders, Ruweida and Alastor.

The race will be resailed tomorrow morning, the first signal being set at 9:30 o'clock.

Bender Turns Opponents Back Without Hit or Run

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 19.—Chief Bender, one-time star pitcher of the Philadelphia Americans, and now manager of the New Haven Club of the Eastern League, pitched a no-hit-no-run game against Bridgeport here today. Only twenty-seven men faced the tall Indian in nine innings, the one man who got on base being put out stealing. New Haven won the game, 3 to 0.

SKEETERS TROUNCE ROCHESTER TWICE

Win First Game, 3 to 1, and Take Second in Seven Innings by 7 to 3.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Jersey City slipped a double beating to Rochester here today, winning the first game, 3 to 1, and taking the closing contest, a seven-inning affair, by a score of 7 to 3. The first game was decided in the opening stanza, when Frank Kane hit a home run to right centre with Mooers on base. The Skeeters ground out another run in the second frame, and after that were unable to do much against Barnes. Harscher kept the locals away from the plate except in the third, when a combination on hits and errors enabled the Colts to score one run.

Rochester broke away in front in the second game, but could not hold the lead. The game was a fairly even affair until the sixth, when the Jerseymen rushed four runs over the pan and sewed up the contest beyond doubt. Snyder was derricked with the bases filled and none out in the sixth, and Beck took over the pitching job. Zimmerman greeted the relief hurler with a two-base hit, the blow sending home three runs. Gill was steady in the pinches, and the Colts, who outhit their opponents in both games, were unable to deliver with men on bases.

DAVIS AND ROBERTS LONGWOOD VICTORS

Western Tennis Team Overwhelms Williams and Harte in National Doubles.

THREE SETS SCORED 6—2

Hard Hitting of Coast Stars Brings About Decided Upset—Johnson and Pearson Advance.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—There were two surprises today in the tennis tournament for the national doubles championship at the Longwood Cricket Club. The greatest was the overwhelming defeat of Richard Norris Williams, 2d, and Richard Harte at the hands of the California sluggers, Willis Davis and Roland Roberts, the match going in three straight sets, all scored 6—2. This was a terrible blow to Eastern and particularly Bostonian hopes.

There was some balm in the other upset. Wallace F. Johnson and Stanley W. Pearson of Philadelphia, eliminating the Western champions, Walter Hayes and Ralph Burdick, in a great five-set match scored 3—6, 6—1, 4—6, 6—4, 8—6. William M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin won the remaining encounter of the day from Lyle E. Mahan and Arthur Yencken, dropping the third set, 6—2, but winning the other three, 6—4, 6—2, 6—2. Tomorrow's semi-finals bring the former national title-holders against Johnston and Pearson, with William T. Tilden, 2d, and Charles S. Garland meeting Davis and Roberts in the lower half.

On the strength of their showing today, the scratch California combination is being favored by many to win the championship, but such an opinion seems on closer analysis a bit hasty. It is true that Davis and Roberts gave this afternoon as fine an exhibition of serving and free overhead hitting as one could wish to see, a tremendous succession of wallops that literally beat their opponents into submission. Yet Williams and Harte gave them every advantage by their constant contribution of errors, adding mechanical mistakes without number to consistently poor headwork.

Williams Plays Recklessly.

The Bostonians fed their rivals exactly the kind of shots they like best, fast, low drives, which both Davis and Roberts simply ate up at the net. When Williams and Harte tried lobbing, the ball usually fell so short that it was easily killed, and, as the Californians gathered confidence, they hit more and more freely overhead from all parts of the court. Such terrific smashing was enough to take the heart out of any team, but the former intercollegiate champions kept on trying to the bitter end. The trouble was that they tried only with their racquets and their bodies, quite forgetting to mix in a little brain work. If they had ever discovered a way to draw their opponents into errors of the kind they themselves were constantly making, the match might have resulted in at least a close battle. As it was, they merely whaled away at the ball blindly, scarcely ever changing their pace or the style of their shots, and walking into a more unmerciful drubbing with every rally.

It was Williams who was the chief offender today. Not only did he fail to use his head, but the stubborn recklessness of his strokes made it practically impossible for his side ever to get into the running. He missed countless opportunities to get the ball into play off service, an exceedingly important point in first-class doubles, and even more often he closed a rally with a free gift, after no particular effort had been made by the opposition to force an opening. He made nearly twice as many errors as any one else in the match and he earned only one-third as many points to balance them. His chief weakness was driving and volleying into the net, twenty-three of his thirty-nine errors being of this type, a sure sign of trying to cut the placements too fine.

Errs at Critical Moments.

Harte, on the other hand, was inclined to hit the ball out of court, although he did this less often than his partner and had only seven nets charged against him altogether. While Harte's error column was no greater than that of either of his opponents, He had only eleven earned points to show in his favor, and five of these were service aces. He was far steadier than Williams, but he did not handle so many chances, and a few of his mistakes came at crucial moments, when a good shot, or even an average return, might have made a real difference. He worked hard all the way, but his tennis was almost altogether a matter of physical effort, and Williams gave him practically no assistance mentally or spiritually.

On the winning side there was little to choose between the two players, both of whom showed better form than at any time since they came East this season. Davis has the better record in the individual stroke analysis, and, on the whole, he was perhaps the more valuable to his side. He earned twenty points, only two less than his total of errors, and by far the biggest number in the match. His service was always a terror, and never failed to win. But his best work was done in correctly anticipating his rivals' shots, and in finding unexpected openings for accurate ground strokes. Several times Davis eased the ball down the alleys, backhand or forehand, in a way that was a revelation to the spectators. He was probably the hardest worker on the court, and his defense never faltered in the face of the severest smashing.

Roberts Also Hits Hard.

Roberts was almost on a par with Davis in general effectiveness. He made some marvellous gets, particularly in jumping for volleys close to the net, and he drove the ball with a speed which often carried it right through the opposing racquets. His service lost only once in the three sets, and then this did no particular harm, as his team was already far in the lead. Overhead he was quite as fegocious as his partner, and between them they missed very little by the aerial route.

Williams was the first to serve, and he threw away the opening game by netting three times. Roberts gave an indication of what was to follow when he won a love game on his opening service, and this encouraged the Californian to go after Harte's delivery as well, getting a lead of 3—0 with another easy victory. Davis made it 4—0 with a well-served game which ended in a clean ace. Then Williams came to life and took a love game on his rival's errors. The tide seemed to have turned when Roberts lost his next delivery, contributing a double fault, and being caught out of position for the final point on a good shot to his feet by Williams. But Harte lost a love game ending in a double fault, and the match was decided right there. Davis served out the set, 6—2, with another whitewash, making eight points in a row for the finish.

A One-Sided Set.

The second set was one-sided. Williams again lost his service at the start, and the Californians quickly advanced to 3—1 on games. Here they once more broke through Williams, Davis killing a weak lob from Harte and the server losing the last point in attempting a difficult backhand half-volley. It was 5—1 after a long deuce game, and, although Harte won his service with a clean ace and two fine volleys by Williams, the set again ended at 6—2.

Williams began the final session by losing his delivery for the fourth time and Roberts came through with a love game for 2—0. Harte also lost in spite of serving three aces, and Davis sent the score to 4—0 for his side, practically putting the match on ice. Williams and Roberts won in turn, the latter ending his game with a great volleying duel close up. Then Harte scored with a centre-line ace for a finisher, and it was up to Davis to end the argument.

The match point came up at 40—30, with Williams netting again, but Roberts returned the favor, crossing to the centre of the net in correct anticipation of the return of service.

Deuce was called once more, and then Roberts made one of the most startling shots of the entire match, a stop volley that dropped dead in the alley. Williams netted the next service back hand and it was all over at 6—2, an amazing defeat of a supposedly irresistible team.

A Wonderful Uphill Fight.

Wallace Johnson and Pearson surprised even their admirers by the quality of tennis they showed against Hayes and Burdick. They made a wonderful uphill fight after trailing by one set to two and 2—4 in the fourth set. A break through Hayes equalized the count, and they upset the same player again for the odd game at 5—4, Johnson cleaning up with a love game on service which squared the match.

The rubber was sensational, Johnson's remarkable gets causing a break through Hayes at the start, and giving the winners an advantage which they kept up to 5—3. Then, after Hayes had won his service, Johnson failed to deliver in the pinch. Although within two points of the match, Burdick sent his team into the lead, 6—5, but Pearson caught up after trailing at 0—30. Then Hayes was upset once more, chiefly through errors overhead, and this time Johnson was equal to the task of finishing the job. The final rally ended with Hayes netting, giving the Middle States champions the match at 8—6.

Mahan and Yencken did well to take a set against Johnston and Griffin, as the former national champions were going far better than in their earlier matches, and showed signs of the form that should make them real contenders for the title, no matter who may come through in the lower half.

The summaries:

National Doubles Championship—Third Round—Clarence J. Griffin and William M. Johnston, San Francisco, defeated Arthur Yencken, Australia, and Lyle E. Mahan, New York, 6—4, 6—2, 2—6, 6—2; Wallace F. Johnson and Stanley Pearson, Philadelphia, defeated Walter T. Hayes and Ralph H. Burdick, Chicago, 3—6, 6—1, 4—6, 6—4, 8—6; Willis E. Davis and Roland E. Roberts, San Francisco, defeated R. Norris Williams, 2d, and Richard Harte, Boston, 6—2, 6—2, 6—2.

ARMOUR REACHES FINAL.

Will Play N. A. Dempsey for Shennecosset Golf Title Today.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Aug. 19.—Tommy Armour of Scotland and N. A. Dempsey of Macon, Ga., will meet in the final for the Shennecosset amateur golf title tomorrow. It is the match that the golf enthusiasts here have been looking for. Both earned their way to the final today, but Dempsey had a close call at the hands of Harold Lake, the Hartford star, who is captain of the Harvard team. Lake was one up at the sixteenth, but Dempsey won two holes and then secured a half on the last hole by a brilliant recovery from a sand trap near the green.

Armour had no trouble in getting the decision over C. A. Griscom of Philadelphia by the one-sided margin of 8 and 7. He was out in 35 and then followed this up with two pars and clinched the match. It was the best golf that he has played here, and the experts pronounce him fit enough to make a showing that will be hard to stop at the Engineers Club. Armour's long driving was again in evidence and was very useful when he backed it up with perfect iron plays.

BRASSILL RETAINS MEDAL.

Beats W. A. Rounds for Van Wickle Trophy in Roque Tourney.

NORWICH, Conn., Aug. 19.—By defeating W. A. Rounds of Cleveland, the challenger, four straight games at the annual tournament of the National Roque Association here Gerald Brassill of this city retains the first Van Wickle medal another year unless it is wrested from him by a second challenger before the tournament ends Saturday. The final two games in the contest were played on the local courts tonight.

C. G. Williams of Washington, a former national champion, is tied with National Champion Eddie Clark of Springfield, Mass., in the race for the 1920 championship title. Williams and Clark have both won five straight victories. Both have six more men to play before the end of the tournament.

EIGHT GAMES FOR BOWDOIN.

Interesting Gridiron Schedule Announced for Eleven.

BRUNSWICK, Me., Aug. 19.—Manager Lawrence Willson tonight announced the following schedule for the Bowdoin football team:

Sept. 25, Springfield Y. M. C. A. College, at Springfield.

Oct. 2, Tufts, at Medford; 9, Amherst, at Amherst; 16, Trinity, at Brunswick; 23, Colby, at Waterville; 30, Bates, at Lewiston.

Nov. 6, University of Maine, at Brunswick; 13, West Point, at West Point.

Cobb May Take Up Tennis To Show He's Really Fast

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Among the interested spectators at the national tennis doubles championship today was Tyrus Raymond Cobb, a gentleman whose athletic activities have heretofore been largely confined to the baseball diamond but who threatens to turn into a rabid tennis fan. The "Georgia Peach" concentrated his attention on the play of the world's champion, William T. Tilden, 2d, who staged some exhibition singles with Arthur Yencken for his special benefit. The great outfielder admitted that he had tried his hand at tennis once or twice, but thought he was too old to learn the game. This heresy was immediately reported to Samuel Hardy, Frederick B. Alexander and other veterans, and Cobb was made the recipient of expert advice for the rest of the afternoon.

M'LEAN PULLS GOLF MATCH FROM FIRE

Comes from Far Behind to Beat O'Hara on 38th Hole in Great Tilt at Flossmoor.

SEMI-FINALS ARE REACHED

Other Survivors in Tournament for P. G. A. Championship Are Edgar, Hampton and Hutchison.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Good men and true stumbled today on the hills and dales of the Flossmoor Country Club. It was the day of the great divide, the occasion in every golf tournament when the honor of gaining the semi-final looms up as a goal, but the task proves just a wee bit too much for half the field.

The matches today in the third round of the professional championship were with one exception the matches expected of the country's greatest paid linksmen. J. Douglas Edgar of Atlanta, the Canadian open champion, met the giant Scot, Bob MacDonald of Chicago and came off with the spoils, by 5 and 4. "Sandy" Harry Hampton, another Scottie, who is beginning to say "reckon" with a true Southern accent because he has been at Richmond, Va., for so long, trounced that other Highlander, Clarence Hackney, of Atlantic City, winner over Jim Barnes yesterday, by 4 and 3. Happy Jock Hutchison gained the semi-final bracket at the expense of Louis Tellier of Boston, by 6 and 5.

The exception to this straightaway, regulation golf demonstrated by these three victors on the dried, browned prairie course at Flossmoor was the sensational game put up by George McLean of Great Neck, L. I., who is the sole metropolitan district player left in the tournament. McLean, an American home-bred product, with the golf of Scotch-Irish forefathers born in him, came from behind today with a most extraordinary burst of courage and pluck, caught Peter O'Hara, the jovial Irishman from Shackamaxon, N. J., on the thirty-sixth hole, halved the first extra hole and then beat him on the thirty-eighth.

Great Climb by McLean.

The wonder of McLean's victory was not embodied so much in his triumph over O'Hara, although in itself that was considerable of a feat since O'Hara had been victor over Pat Doyle and Alex Cunningham in previous rounds. More remarkable, however, was McLean's sensational comeback. At the end of the morning round he was one down to O'Hara, but throughout the first nine holes of the afternoon circuit he got steadily worse. How he managed to beat out O'Hara will go down in golf history as justifying that adage that a man may be down, but is never out. At the sixth hole in the afternoon, or actually the twenty-fourth of the match, McLean was 5 down to O'Hara. He was still four down at the final turn for home, and actually four down even as late as the thirtieth hole, with only six more to play.

Thenceforth it was a story of battling for every point, with now and then a faint trace of luck thrown in, but certainly McLean deserved it since several of his lost holes had been true heart-breakers. these last six holes McLean won the thirty-first, thirty-second, thirty-fourth and thirty-sixth to square the tussle. As the two New Yorkers, trailed by the typical clubhouse gallery of spectators who had been waiting for something in the nature of an extra-hole match to rouse them from their plazza siestas, teed up for the first extra hole O'Hara and everyone else knew he was beaten.

Off His Game in Early Stages.

Georgie McLean did not play his best golf until the last part of the match. Earlier he was both nervous and off his game. His tee shots were never straight and sure. Rather, he appeared to be pressing and taking a three-quarter chop instead of a full swing. On the very first hole of the morning he topped his first and second shots, taking a 6 to O'Hara's 5. McLean got this hole back when Pete was trapped on his second shot in the fifth but went back to 1 down when he sliced his drive to the sixth far off the line and lost the hole.

O'Hara's missed putt on the ninth gave McLean this hole, squaring the match, and the latter went to 1 up for the first time when he sank a twelve-footer for a birdie 3 on the rigidly trapped, tricky fourteenth hole. O'Hara wound up this morning with a grand burst by winning the seventeenth when McLean slammed his second with a slight hook, the ball rolling to an almost unplayable lie under a tree, and the eighteenth when he got on in two, McLean taking three to get home.

It looked like a cinch for O'Hara in the afternoon, for his putting was so uniformly true that it seemed mechanical. He won the first hole in a birdie 4, barely missing an eagle 3 for his chip shot from off the green hit the back of the cup. He took the short second in par figures, McLean being trapped on his tee shot, and he won the fourth with a fifteen-foot putt, going to 4 up. An eight-foot putt gave him a half on the next, and he won the sixth because McLean lost a shot when his approach carromed off the branch of a tree.

O'Hara's Penalty Costs Hole.

The Long Islander managed to win the pond hole, the seventh, which O'Hara played his first into the muddy bank and had to drop another for a penalty stroke.

A sample of the luck against McLean at this stage came at the ninth. He was on the green in two and down for a par four. O'Hara's second was trapped to the right of the green, but he chipped out to four feet from the cup and sank this for the half. After this break even McLean himself was about willing to concede victory.

Things began to happen right here, however. McLean won the tenth in a birdie 4, after having reached the green on his second, but went back to four down on the twelfth, when his approach overran the pin by a good twenty feet. He won the short thirteenth by sinking a twelve-footer for an eagle 2, won the fourteenth with another eagle after having been hole high and only slightly to the right on his tremendous drive.

McLean ought to have won the fifteenth, but only halved it. O'Hara's second, played with wood, was a low grass-cutter and would have gone into a brook except for the wooden footbridge over it. As it was it hit the bridge, bounded fifty feet in the air and landed well over.

Another birdie gave McLean the long uphill sixteenth. He was certainly deserving of this, for he had to play his second with the ball lying in a half-inch crack in the hard, sunburned clayey ground. Although permitted to lift and drop, McLean refused this because of his excellent sportsmanship. He recalled that O'Hara had had a similar bad lie on the morning round and had not lifted.

Both Play Poorly on Next.

Both played the seventeenth disgracefully, although they halved it in par fives. McLean's drive was sliced into a trap and O'Hara's second was pulled far off to rough grass. Both were short of the eighteenth green on their seconds, but McLean was the nearer. He chipped to less than four feet away and holed a downhill putt for the birdie 4, squaring the match.

To be yanked from 5 up to all even is too much for any golfer, and as they started for the extra holes O'Hara showed the wear and tear. It was on his nerves, and, besides, Pete is not as slender amidships as he was once, and he was tiring under the heat of an Illinois sun.

Both played their seconds on the first extra hole to bunkers and halved it in fives. The end came on the short second hole. O'Hara lacked the crispness which usually characterizes his iron play, and with a bit of a slice and a bit of an unlucky kick-off his mashie pitch to the green flubbed over into a trap. He was forced to take a four here, McLean having gained the green on his first and taken his three.

The cards follow:

O'Hara	5	3	4	3	5	4	5	5	5	—39	—75

Extra holes:
McLean 5-3, O'Hara 5-4.

Gales a Belated Admission.

A strange coincidence is that despite McLean's failure to qualify this year and last he has in each tourney reached the semi-finals. A year ago he did not gain entrance in the metropolitan district quota of twelve at the try-outs at Shackamaxon and last month was left out in the cold at the qualification on Staten Island. In both tourneys he has been admitted through the defaults of absentees.

Tomorrow McLean will play Edgar in the semi-final, and the Southerner is picked to win by reason of his brilliant performances so far. Today, for instance, in putting out Bob MacDonald Edgar gave a sensational demonstration of putting, which, as he afterward said, he wished he could have saved for next week, when he must defend his Canadian open title at Ottawa at medal play. The final hole, the thirty-second, was won by Edgar with a thirty-footer from the edge of the green, and two holes previous he sank one twenty-five feet long for a birdie 2.

In the lower half tomorrow Hampton will meet a brother Scot, Jock Hutchison.

The scores of matches in today's third round follow:

George McLean, Great Neck, L. I., defeated Peter O'Hara, Shackamaxon, Westfield, N. J., 1 up (38 holes); J. Douglas Edgar, Druid Hills, Atlanta, Ga., defeated Bob MacDonald, Bob o' Link, Chicago, 5 and 4; Harry Hampton, Richmond, Va., defeated Clarence Hackney, Atlantic City, 4 and 3; Jock Hutchison, Glen View, Chicago, defeated Louis Tellier, Brae Burn, Boston, 6 and 5.

JUNIOR TITLE AT STAKE.

Jersey Golf Championship to be Contested at Hackensack.

Rules and regulations for the New Jersey junior State golf championship tournament on the links of the Hackensack Golf Club, Sept. 2 and 3, have been issued by the New Jersey State Golf Association, under whose direction the title play will be held. The struggle will consist of a qualifying round of eighteen hole medal play, the thirty-two players making the lowest scores to compete in the tournament proper.

The various competitions in the tournament will be as follows: Play for the championship golf medal, with a silver medal for the runner-up and a silver medal for the best score in the qualifying round, and silver medal play for the second, third and fourth eights. In each of these events there will be a preliminary round of eighteen holes and finals at eighteen holes match play.

Accompanying the junior State championship competition there will be a New Jersey State Golf Association handicap, of eighteen holes medal play, the handicaps to be limited to eighteen strokes. There will be prizes for the best gross score and the best net score. Each player in the handicap must have an official rating in the handicap list of either the Metropolitan Golf Association or the Philadelphia Golf Association, or a letter from his club Secretary, as provided for under the rules for post entries. The entries will close on Aug. 31 with Charles P. Eddy, 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City, the Secretary of the association.

Those eligible to play in both competitions are boys not yet 19 years old, who live in New Jersey and who are members or junior members of golf clubs belonging to the New Jersey association and all non-resident boys not 19 who belong to no other than such clubs.

The program for the tournament is as follows:

Thursday, Sept. 2—9 A. M., qualifying round; 2:30 P. M., first round for the junior championships and first round for second, third and fourth eights. All eighteen holes, match play.

Friday, Sept. 3—9 A. M., semi-finals for second, third and fourth eights, eighteen holes, match play; 9:30 A. M., semi-finals for championship, eighteen holes, match play; 2:30 P. M., final for the four groups, eighteen holes, match play; 2 P. M., medal play handicap, eighteen holes.

TO HOLD ANNUAL TOURNEY.

Midlothian Golf Club Will Stage Father-and-Son Medal Play.

The seventeenth annual Pater-Filius golf tournament of the Midlothian Country Club, Midlothian, Ill., will be held on Aug. 25 on the club links. The tournament will consist of thirty-six holes medal play, handicap, two-ball foursome. Gold medals will be awarded the players who have the low net score for thirty-six holes, and their home club will have custody of the Pater-Filius Trophy for one year. The runners-up will receive silver medals.

All fathers and sons associated with the United States Golf Association or the Western Golf Association will be eligible. Entries will be accepted as late as at the tee on the morning of the event, where pairings will be made at the convenience of the players. Teams for several States are expected to enter the annual competition this year.

MISS ZINDERSTEIN BEATS MISS BALLIN

Reaches Semi-Finals of Longwood Women's Tennis by Straight-Set Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Aug. 19.—Miss Marion Zinderstein and Miss Leslie Bancroft, both Bostonians, joined the California stars, Miss Helen Baker and Miss Eleanor Tennant, in the semi-final round of the women's invitation tennis tournament at the old Longwood Cricket Club today. The national clay court champion took a well-played match from Miss Florence Ballin at 8—1, 6—3, while Miss Bancroft surprised the gallery with an almost equally decisive victory over Mrs. Robert Leroy—score 6—3, 6—2. The semi-final brackets in the doubles event were also filled, and the entire tournament will be brought to the final round tomorrow.

Miss Ballin made Miss Zinderstein work rather harder than the scores show, and the second set was really close, with the New York girl exchanging drives at top speed with her rival. If the loser had struck this form a little earlier, she might well have sent the struggle to three sets, for her best playing was done after the score stood 4—0 and 5—2 against her in the second session, including the achievement of twice breaking through Miss Zinderstein's service. In general, however, the Boston girl was too fast and accurate for her rival, placing beautifully in the corners, and coming in close for sharp volleys that usually went in a direction exactly opposite to that anticipated by Miss Ballin.

The winner got her first break for a lead of 3—1, chiefly on her opponent's errors, the ball going far too frequently into the net on the West Side expert's well intended drives. Trailing at 1—4, Miss Ballin led 40—0 on her own service, but lost this game in heart-breaking fashion and the set was quickly over, 6—1, on Miss Zinderstein's delivery. The latter broke through immediately for a telling advantage in the second set, and kept up an irresistible streak of hitting until she led at 4—0, with still another break in her favor. Miss Ballin then took a service game, with the help of a net-corder, and proceeded to upset the Bostonian's service with low drives which Miss Zinderstein could not volley successfully.

The latter retaliated, however, with some splendid driving on her own part, and sent the games to 5—2, spoiling a good rally. Miss Ballin, however, was still in the fight, and after saving two match points she took one more game against her opponent's service. This was her last stand, for Miss Zinderstein used the entire court in the closing rallies, running her rival back and forth without mercy, and winning at 6—3, after some remarkable getting on the part of the loser.

Miss Bancroft won from Mrs. Leroy through consistently hard hitting, especially in the second set, when she had gained confidence through the discovery that even the New Yorker's steadiness could not prevail long against her left-handed drives. Mrs. Leroy was slowed up by a twisted ankle about the middle of the match, but continued gamely, and covered the court in almost her customary style. Miss Bancroft also went slightly lame for a time, but made up for the handicap by hitting the ball all the harder. It was a good win for the tall Bostonian, who is rapidly acquiring the experience to make her a dangerous contender in any tournament.

The summaries:

Women's Singles, Third Round—Miss Eleanor Tennant defeated Mrs. F. H. Godfrey, 6—2, 6—0; Mrs. Percy Wilbourn won by default. Fourth Round—Miss Eleanor Tennant defeated Mrs. Percy Wilbourne, 6—1, 6—1; Miss Marion Zinderstein defeated Miss Florence Ballin, 6—1, 6—3; Miss Leslie Bancroft defeated Mrs. Robert Leroy, 6—3, 6—2.

Women's Doubles, Third Round—Miss Marion Zinderstein and Miss Eleanor Tennant defeated Mrs. A. Shurtleff and Mrs. B. E. Cole, 6—1, 6—4; Mrs. L. G. Morris and Mrs. Barger Wallach defeated Mrs. Anna Leachman and Mrs. Nathaniel W. Niles, 6—1, 6—1; Miss Phyllis Walsh and Miss Edith Sigourney defeated Mrs. Robert Leroy and Miss Alice Cunningham, 6—3, 6—4. Junior Girls' Singles, Semi-Final Round—Miss Brenda Hedstrom defeated Miss Anna Fuller, 6—3, 7—5; Miss Martha Bayard defeated Miss Mary Palache, 6—0, 6—4.

WORLD'S RECORD BROKEN.

Massachusetts Riflemen Get 1,735 Points—Win Herrick Trophy.

CAMP PERRY, Ohio, Aug. 19.—The Massachusetts civilian team made good today in the finish of the Herrick Trophy match. They not only landed first place but broke a world's record, having piled up a total of 1,735 out of a possible 1,800 over the 800, 900 and 1,000 yard ranges. The previous world's record was 1,732, established by the former Massachusetts team in 1914 at Sea Girt, N. J.

The members shooting on the team had individual scores as follows: James F. Loughlin, Stoneham, 221; A. V. Harrington, Stoneham, 213; M. F. Partridge, Watertown, 223; E. V. Newcomb, Wood's Hole, 209; H. A. Hallett, Wood's Hole, 215; J. Langville, Lincoln, 216; George M. Jeffs, Stoneham, 218; Frank H. Kean, Woburn, 220.

A second world's record was broken today by Captain G. L. Wotkins, Passdena, Cal., an instructor in the Small Arms Firing School, who scored 224 out of a possible 225 over the 800, 900 and 1,000 yard ranges, while shooting in the team match. This score had not previously been made over this course.

D. M. Fady of the United States Cavalry, Fort Clark, Texas, was first in the President's Match, scoring a total of 296 out of a possible 300, with 99 at 200 rapid fire, 99 at 600 slow, and 98 at 800 slow fire. Captain M. B. Humphrey, U. S. M. C., Guantanamo, Cuba, was second with 295, and Corporal E. J. Doyle, U. S. M. C., Quantico, Va., third with 294.

Caledonian Club to Hold Meet.

The New York Caledonian Club, the oldest athletic organization in the city, will hold its sixty-fourth annual games at Celtic Park, Long Island City, on Labor Day, Sept. 6. Nine track and field events will be contested and they will be open to all registered athletes. The Scottish features will consist of Highland dress, Highland dancing and bagpipe competitions. The entries will close on Monday, Aug. 30, with R. W. Kennedy, care of Dieges & Clust, 15 John Street, New York City.

CARPENTIER TO BOX LEVINSKY OCT. 12

Bout to be Held at Ebbets Field Under Auspices of International Sporting Club.

WILL MEET IN AFTERNOON

World's Series May Delay Clash Between Light Heavyweight Champions of Europe and America.

Georges Carpentier, European heavyweight champion and a prospective rival of the world's champion, Jack Dempsey, will make his first American ring appearance at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, on the afternoon of Columbus Day, Oct. 12. The French war hero, Europe's leading boxer, will on this day engage Battling Levinsky, veteran light-heavyweight, in a fifteen-round bout to a decision under the auspices of the International Sporting Club and Promoter Jack Curley virtually has been selected as Carpentier's American manager for the bouts in which the Frenchman will participate in this country. For this specific bout the International Sporting Club, according to Managing Director William A. Gavin, has assumed Curley's end of the contract with Carpentier. Curley will retain his connection with the enterprise through assistance in its promotion.

The bout will determine the world's light-heavyweight championship title. Under the terms of the contract divulged yesterday by the International Sporting Club, both principals must weigh in at 175 pounds, the legitimate cruiser-weight, or light-heavyweight poundage, three hours before the bout. Carpentier holds the European light-heavyweight title, as well as the heavyweight, and Levinsky has for years held the American title in the light-heavyweight division. Complete details of the contract signed by principals and promoters were not divulged. For this reason no definite information was forthcoming on the financial end of the matter. Director Gavin, however, announced that both boxers will be working on a percentage basis, although he declined to state the proportions of this arrangement.

Because of the fact that the bout will be held on a holiday it has been decided to start hostilities at three o'clock in the afternoon. Several reasons were advanced for the selection of the afternoon in preference to the evening for the bout, the principal one being the comparative ease with which large crowds can be properly and satisfactorily handled in the afternoon. Eagerness to avoid a repetition of the dissatisfaction and general unpleasantness attending the recent Fulton-Willis bout at Newark was reflected by Director Gavin and Matchmaker Tex O'Rourke, who personally announced the arrangement of the bout. Director Gavin made the following significant reference to this phase of the forthcoming match:

"I would rather lose my right hand than have a repetition of the events which occurred at Newark. Every possible precaution will be taken to prevent another such experience and I am sure of success in this regard."

Contract Not Interfered With.

The coming bout will not interfere with the contract said to be held by Charles A. Cochran, British boxing promoter, governing the ring activities of Carpentier. There is no possibility of conflict, according to Promoter Curley, who, in discussing this end of the match, said that Cochran's contract with Carpentier provides only for a bout between the European idol and Champion Dempsey. Carpentier, according to Curley, is free to arrange any other matches he may think advisable.

Columbus Day has been definitely selected for the bout, but nevertheless the date hinges on the outcome of the struggle for the National League baseball championship. Director Gavin said that, should Brooklyn win the pennant and participate in the world's series, the bout would be deferred, probably until Oct. 26.

Members of the International Sporting Club will receive the seats to which they are entitled under their membership privileges. Conditions will be the same as if the International Sporting Club was in full operation in its own headquarters. The membership of the organization now approaches 2,000, according to Director Gavin. No scale of prices has been adopted with regard to the tickets for public sale, but it was announced the pasteboards will be available for the general public at popular prices. This has been decided upon in order to enable the general run of fans as well as the more wealthy boxing enthusiasts to view the European champion in action against the veteran American.

Both boxers will train in this district. Carpentier will do his work publicly and will not demand an admission fee for the privilege of watching his training stunts. Levinsky is expected to follow this program.

Carpentier will leave Havre aboard La Lorraine for this country Sept. 4, Promoter Curley announced following the receipt of a letter from Francois Descamps, Carpentier's manager. The French heavyweight, previous to leaving this country, engaged transportation on La Lorraine for his return.

Great Crowd Expected.

The element of championship determination, together with the practical assurance of public interest which should guarantee a huge success for the undertaking, guided the International Sporting Club officials and representatives of the boxers in arranging the match. Curley, speaking for Carpentier, declared that the bout was originally scheduled for last July 26, to be held in Jersey City before Carpentier returned to his native land following his moving picture and exhibition tour. It developed, however, that the moving picture corporation held a contract with Carpentier which prohibited the Frenchman's appearance in a bout against any one until at least four months had expired following the release of the picture in which Carpentier starred. When this match was made the impression was that the contract forbade only a meeting with Dempsey, but Carpentier was advised by his attorney that the contract was worded to prevent bouts against any one. Gus Wilson, trainer and representative of Carpentier, indorsed Curley's reference to the latter's business relations and representations on behalf of Carpentier.

The bout is expected to attract a capacity crowd to the Brooklyn baseball field. The great popularity of Carpentier, together with the reports of his remarkable fighting qualities and the eagerness of the public to get a glimpse of the challenger of Dempsey, are circumstances which I. S. C. officials expect will cause a record attendance. Levinsky's years of good boxing, his wonderful knowledge of the game, his great experience and his competitive record are accepted as just the proper spice to add to the prospective boxing dish. Levinsky has been comparatively inactive for the last several years, but with the incentive offered in the coming match he will probably work harder than ever before to properly condition himself for the test of his career.

A decision to hold the Carpentier-Levinsky match was reached through a peculiar method adopted by the I. S. C. officials for the purpose of determining the preference of its members on this bout or one between Dempsey and Bill Brennan of Chicago. These two matches were under serious consideration as the projects with which to formally inaugurate the club's activities in promotion. Because of indecision it was agreed to submit the selection of a bout to the club members, and accordingly a mail vote was taken on the question. The returns of this vote, based on incomplete figures after the first twenty-four hours, showed 452 members in favor of a Carpentier-Levinsky match and 81 favoring a Dempsey-Brennan bout; 534 votes were received in all.

Result of Vote a Surprise.

The vote surprised Director Gavin and other officials of the club, who had generally supposed the demand would be for a Dempsey-Brennan bout, particularly in view of the champion's exoneration from draft dodging charges and the fact that he holds the world's title.

"As developments stand, we have achieved a notable success from a promotional standpoint," said Mr. Gavin in discussing the result of the vote. "But, nevertheless, I am unable to account for the result in favor of Carpentier and Levinsky. The verdict is simply amazing, particularly so in view of the fact that we were prepared to arrange a Dempsey-Brennan bout without further discussion on the supposition that it would be the popular attraction. The latter match would have been more expensive, inasmuch as prohibitive figures were asked by the boxers, but we were prepared for this as a matter of necessity.

"The result of the vote discloses that we would have made a mistake in signing Dempsey and Brennan. At the same time it is a remarkable tribute to the popularity of Carpentier, for, without detracting a bit from Levinsky's record and popularity, it is easily to be seen that the interest centres chiefly about the French heavyweight."

Elaborate plans for the accommodation of a great crowd will be undertaken by the club officials. Director Gavin expects a gate of $250,000. To handle satisfactorily the large outpouring, extensive arrangements will be made. Club officials will get into communication with transit authorities so that there may be no repetition of the confusion which attended the McFarland-Gibbons bout at Brighton Beach, when spectators, seeking to return home, were trampled and in some cases left stranded for want of traveling facilities. Special trains in Brooklyn and Manhattan probably will be engaged for the occasion. Provision will be made for proper policing of the arena and carefully instructed ushers will be assigned to the duties of seating ticket-holders. Temporary seats will be provided over the grass field, increasing the seating capacity and it is expected to arrange the seats so as to eliminate possible confusion.

Ebbets's Offer Satisfies I. S. C.

The selection of Ebbets Field for the bout was made after due consideration of the Polo Grounds. Director Gavin sent Matchmaker O'Rourke to the Polo Grounds authorities for the purpose of discussing the prospect of holding the bout at the uptown field, but when the response came in from President Charles H. Ebbets of the Brooklyn club the Polo Grounds proposition was abandoned forthwith.

Director Gavin announced that he had closed a lease of one year on Ebbets Field for the purpose of conducting bouts there under the auspices of the I. S. C. until the club's permanent headquarters are available. Ebbets Field will be utilized only in the Summer months. For Winter bouts the club plans to engage temporary quarters, possibly at an armory, for the conduct of a series of attractive and important bouts.

In the course of a speech Director Gavin announced that contracts have been signed or agreements entered into with a number of the country's prominent boxers, calling for their participation in bouts to be held under the auspices of the I. S. C., which indicates several championship matches.

The first match positively closed, after the Carpentier-Levinsky bout, will bring together Jack Britton, welterweight champion, and Ted (Kid) Lewis, former holder of the title. These two boxers have signed contracts in which they agree to box solely for the I. S. C. for the period of one year. The contracts have been so worded that the two boxers can engage inferior opponents, but are prohibited from boxing against a topnotch, dangerous boxer, Director Gavin said. The boxers with whom bouts are barred are specifically mentioned in the contract.

No date nor place has been set for this match because of the uncertainty attending the construction plans of the International Sporting Club. Shortage of steel, railroad strikes, embargoes on shipments and lack of cars have combined to retard construction work so that there is no certainty as to when the clubhouse will be completed. It was expected the work would be finished this Fall, but hope in this direction has been abandoned as a result of communications from the builders in charge of the project. Options have been held on several sites, notably the Central Park Riding Academy, but no privileges have been exercised in this direction.

Columbia Cub Tackle Gets Appointment to West Point

One of the best of Buck O'Neill's prospective linemen for the Columbia eleven this Fall was lost to the Blue and White yesterday, when it was learned that D. J. Mulligan, freshman tackle last year, had decided to enter West Point at the beginning of the coming term. Mulligan was a sensation on the Columbia cub team and was called by many veteran observers the greatest tackle that had ever played on South Field. He is over six feet, weighed more than 200 pounds, is fast on his feet and has an uncanny ability as a tackler. He is regarded as the most promising tackle that has ever come out at South Field and was being counted on for a line position by O'Neill. Mulligan's appointment to West Point was secured through the influence of Captain A. R. Edwards, Commandant of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps at Columbia, who was much impressed by Mulligan's playing on the freshman eleven.

RECORD IS BROKEN TWICE AT SARATOGA

Special to The New York Times.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Having dried out thoroughly under a warm sun, the course at Saratoga was so fast this afternoon that the track record for seven furlongs, which had stood since 1910, was twice lowered in the course of the racing. R. T. Wilson, Jr.'s, Yellow Hand first clipped a fifth of a second from the time made ten years ago by August Belmont's Priscillian, when he won the Catskill Purse and covered the distance in 1:24 1-5. This record had hardly been put on the books when Commander J. K. L. Ross's Milkmaid clipped three-fifths of a second from the new mark in the final race of the day, when she took the measure of War Marvel, Sennings Park and other good sprinters and set up a mark of 1:23 3-5. Both races were fine exhibitions of speed, but the victory of Milkmaid was remarkable not only for the time, but for the courage which this honest filly showed in racing down her field to win by a neck in the final drive, which lasted for a furlong through the stretch.

Milkmaid had been sent to the post a slight favorite over Sennings Park, but with 120 pounds up, was giving away weight to all her rivals except Lord Brighton, which had 122 pounds up. Milkmaid had none the best of the racing and had to fight her way to the front, but it was the speed at which War Marvel carried her in the last half mile that probably accounted for the record time.

The Ross filly was third in the back stretch, while Sennings Park was setting a terrific pace. The latter had plenty of speed, but tired badly as he turned into the stretch disposed of him, and War Marvel easily disposed of him. However, Milkmaid had a real battle on to defeat War Marvel. The latter finished gamely, but Sande felt so confident of the filly he was riding that he kept her under a hand ride all the way to the finish and never applied his whip. War Marvel got on even terms at one time, but Milkmaid gamely drew away again until she had her head in front, and she kept in that position until the end. Sennings Park lasted to take third, and none of the others was even a serious contender.

Yellow Hand's Fine Exhibition.

Yellow Hand had lowered the original mark by another fine exhibition, in which he took the measure of Lawrence Waterbury's Torch Bearer, which was a heavily played odds-on favorite. There were only three starters and Jadda was a bad last.

Yellow Hand was aided by the fact that he had two rivals with early speed. Torchbearer and Jadda went to the front at the start and raced head and head for a mile, while Yellow Hand was trailing about three lengths back. The efforts of the early pace told on the front runners by the time they turned into the stretch, and, while Torchbearer was able to race Jadda into submission, he had little speed left when Yellow Hand rushed up on him in the stretch, caught him at the eighth pole and drew away to win by a length.

The feat of Yellow Hand was considered rather remarkable, as the record which was reduced had stood so many years against the efforts of some high speed sprinters. However, the track is now so fast that a new record for a mile and a quarter is confidently expected when Man o' War and John P. Grier meet Saturday in the Travers Stakes, provided, of course, that it does not rain again in the meantime.

Records were not the only things that fell today. Two jockeys had a slip which for a moment appeared to be serious, but both boys escaped injury and were able to ride later in the day. The accident occurred in the second race, when Rouleau and St. Allan were caught in a jam just after the start of a mile race out of the chute. Rouleau was crowded over by Bridesman and stumbled and St. Allan bumped into him. Jockeys Johnson and Ponce, who had the mounts on Rouleau and St. Allan, were thrown, and as Johnson remained down without making a move it appeared that he had been badly hurt. He recovered quickly and it was found he had sustained no injuries beyond a shaking up.

Knot Wins Easily.

This was a race which marked the first of two victories for Samuel Ross. His six-year-old gelding moved into a long lead and just lasted to win by a head in the final drive through the stretch. Bridesman, which was away slowly, moved up gradually and was fast wearing the winner down. Lunetta was third of eight starters, of which only six finished. Knot, which won the other victory for Mr. Ross, was put to no such hard drive to win the Long Lake Handicap.

Dates Set for English Racing Season of 1921

England's flat racing season for 1921 will begin on March 14 and will end on Nov. 26, according to the dates recently made public in London by the Jockey Club. The Epsom Derby, the world's most famous turf event, will be run on June 1. The Oaks will be contested on June 2. May 4, at Newmarket, is the date set for the Two Thousand Guineas, while on May 6, at the same track, the One Thousand Guineas will be contested. The St. Leger is set for decision at Doncaster on Sept. 7. The schedule provides for ninety-one racing days in all.

THOUSAND ISLANDS LOSES POLO MATCH

Last Year's Winner Is Eliminated by Miami Valley Four in Cup Tourney.

Special to The New York Times.

ALEXANDRIA BAY, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The third match in the Thousand Islands polo tournament was played this afternoon at the Country Club polo field, when the Miami Valley team of Dayton, Ohio, was victorious over the Thousand Islands team by a score of 10 to 4. This was a surprise to many of the spectators, as the Miami team had received a handicap of two goals from the home team. The match was played for the Thousand Islands Cup, which was won in last Summer's tournament by the Thousand Islands team.

In the first period a goal was rolled by Blackwell, in the second another one was made by Blackwell for the Thousand Islands and a goal was checked by N. D. Talbott for Miami. In the third period Blackwell rolled another for his team. At the beginning of the fourth period things began to brighten for Miami. H. E. Talbot rolled another goal, while in the fifth period goals were made by H. E. Talbot and George Mead for Miami; in the sixth N. D. Talbot, Mead and Patterson each scored for Miami, while A. Graham Hiles rolled a goal for the Thousand Islands.

A hard tussel in the seventh failed to result in a goal for either side, but in the eighth Patterson made a goal for Miami. Both Talbot and Patterson played fine games for Miami and Blackwell for the Thousand Islands did good work.

The lineup:

MIAMI VALLEY.	THOUSAND ISL'DS.
1—J. H. Mead.	1—A. G. Hiles.
2—F. J. Patterson.	2—J. Sherman.
3—E. Talbott, Jr.	3—Dr. H. B. Blackwell.
Back—N. D. Talbott.	4—M. E. Metcalf, Jr.

Goals—Miami: E. Talbot 2, N. D. Talbott 2, Mead 2, Patterson 2, by handicap 2; total 10. Thousand Islands: Blackwell 3, Hiles 1; total 4.

Referee—F. N. Deardmore.

DRIVER FRACTURES ARM.

Conley Painfully Hurt in Collision at Middletown Track.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The third day of racing on the Harry Clay track here this afternoon was witnessed by a vast crowd of people, and the race lovers heartily enjoyed it. In the second heat of the first race, 2:18 class trotting, an accident happened soon after turning for the home stretch, resulting in Dickerson, who was driving Joe L., being thrown from his sulky. G. W. Conley of Goshen, who was driving The Major just behind, collided with Dickerson and was thrown in such a manner as to break his right arm and inflict severe wounds to his face. Dickerson was able to drive in the next heat. The Major was drawn, being somewhat injured.

The race was won by Brookworthy in three straight heats.

In the 2:24 class trotting J. J. A. won the first heat, but the second and third were captured by Little Peter. Both races were very exciting. There were only two starters in the 2:06 pacing. Directum J. won in three straight, in the first heat breaking the track record of 2:07¼ by winning the heat in 2:06¾. Edward P. was second.

English Do Well in Rain.

ANTWERP, Aug. 19 (By The Associated Press).—All the track and field competitions today were held in the rain, which varied from a drizzle to a downpour and gave the English athletes something of a homelike atmosphere. They scored two firsts, a second, and a sixth place for a point score total of 16, just one less than the Americans, who captured one first, two thirds and one fifth for 17 points. Sweden was third in the scoring today, taking one second, one fourth and one fifth place for 10 points.

The American rugby football team, the gymnasts and oarsmen for the double and single sculls arrived today from the United States.

The amateur Graeco wrestling championships were divided between Sweden and Finland tonight, Sweden winning two and Finland three firsts. In the finals, which drew a large, enthusiastic crowd of spectators.

Competition in the boxing events, which was to have begun tomorrow, has been postponed until Saturday.

Middleweight Class—Westergren, Sweden, defeated Lindfort, Finland, in 32 minutes. Light Heavyweight Class—Johanson, Sweden, defeated Sint, Holland, in 16 minutes. Heavyweight Class—Lindfords, Finland, was awarded decision over Ahlgren, Sweden, after 1 hour and 15 minutes.

American Athletes Increase Lead in the Olympic Games

ANTWERP, Aug. 19 (Associated Press).—The total scores in the athletic events—track and field—at the finish of today's program were:

Country.	Points.	Country.	Points.
United States	118	Canada	7
Finland	49	Norway	3
England	40	New Zealand	3
Sweden	36	Esthonia	3
France	13	Czechoslovakia	3
South Africa	7	Holland	2
Italy	7	Belgium	1

The scores for England, Holland and Belgium represent, respectively, three, two and one points won in the tug-of-war today. The American and Italian teams, which finished fourth and fifth in this event, were not entitled to any points under the scoring rules.

American athletes scored 17 points today. Finland failed to win a point. England made 16, Sweden 10, Czechoslovakia 3, Holland 2, Belgium 1, and France 1.

TO STUDY RACING SYSTEMS.

Maryland Commission Will Look Into Conditions in Other States.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 19.—The Maryland Racing Commission has decided to go to Kentucky and New York to study racing problems as they are handled in those States.

The members of the commission are anxious to get a comprehensive and first-hand outline of the system by which racing is handled elsewhere. They will go first to Lexington, where the Blue Grass State Commission makes its headquarters. There they will make a study of the system employed to keep the commission in touch with the various race tracks.

The Maryland commission is expecting to install a filing system which will give them the same information that is in possession of The Jockey Club.

Grand Circuit Races Postponed.

Erase the retailer's and wholesaler's profits on your August clothes purchases

When you buy a suit or an overcoat in the average retail store—whether ready-made or tailored-to-order—you pay two profits —the retailer's and wholesaler's.

On a $60 suit of clothes—the retailer gets at least $15—the wholesaler, $12. That's $27 tribute you are paying to this double-profit account.

During August, we're selling you that $60 value for $33, the manufacturer's price, with no taxation for jobber or retailer.

No "Ready-Mades" here!
Special for August
During August, to keep our tailor-shops humming, we will build to your special order the finest custom tailor clothes at the bone-cost of manufacture
Made to your order—always

SUIT OR OVERCOAT TO YOUR ORDER

And made to your measure, mind you! Made to your taste, your preferences, your own physique and personality!

What folly for any man in New York to buy mere ready-mades—cut in stock sizes and arbitrary styles

—when this direct-from-the-wholesale-plant service enables him to have any style or fabric of his heart's content, made up to his special order, in a real custom-tailor suit or overcoat

—for LESS money—less even than the cost of "clearance sale" ready-mades. And guaranteed by this $4,000,000 wholesale house—to please and satisfy him or money back promptly.

HOG ISLAND BIDS TO BE IN SEPT. 20

Benson Announces the Coming Sale of the 946-Acre Shipbuilding Yard.

SHIPS TO BE SOLD SOON

Total Tonnage of 976,000 Will Soon Have Been Completed at Great Yard.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Sealed bids for the Hog Island, Pa., shipyard, where nearly 1,000,000 tons of the new United States cargo carrying merchant marine were built, or are now under construction, will be received up to 5 P. M. September 20 and will be opened in the offices of the Supply and Sales Division of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, this city, at 10 o'clock the following morning, Admiral William S. Benson, President of the Shipping Board, announced today.

Several ships are still nearing completion in the yards, and when completed, within the next few weeks, Hog Island will have supplied to the merchant marine of the United States 122 cargo-carrying ships of an average tonnage of 8,000, or a total of approximately 976,000 tons, all built and equipped in a yard which came into existence after the entry of this country into the European war.

Hog Island has an area of 946 acres, a water frontage of two miles, eighty-two miles of railroad tracks, a complete sewerage and drainage system, fifty shipbuilding ways, seven steamship piers, electric, steam, oil and water lines, a complete fire protection system, shop buildings adaptable to terminal uses, twenty-one miles of modern roads and the necessary number of administration and other buildings.

The total floor space of the four-story concrete warehouse and the twenty-six wooden warehouses is more than 1,750,000 square feet, while the total floor space of all buildings is 4,065,000 square feet, which is the equivalent of 103 acres, of which 24 per cent. is fireproof. The yard railways serve every part of the yard and are equipped with modern engines and cars, while each of the piers has all modern improvements, there being between piers 226 feet of clear water space, which will permit the docking of four ships in each slip.

Of the fifty ways ten are concrete and the rest wood, while the filtration plant, sewage disposal plant and other appliances, facilities and equipment provide Hog Island with the fundamentals, the Shipping Board claims, for the best-arranged and most modernly equipped terminal and storage yard in the United States.

Bids for the purchase of the plant must be submitted in duplicate on standard proposal forms and inclosed in sealed envelope and marked "Proposal 000, to be opened Sept. 20, 1920." These proposal forms may be had at any of the sales or district offices of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. Bids must be accompanied by certified check made payable to "The United States Shipping Board, Emergency Fleet Corporation," for a percentage of the price bid, this percentage to be announced within a few days.

The period to be covered by the purchase payments will also be announced shortly, and it is intended to give possession of the property to the successful bidder on or about October next. Title will remain in the hands of the Shipping Board until the full purchase price has been paid. The board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

To Open Steel Ship Bids Sept. 1.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The Shipping Board announced today that bids would be opened Sept. 1 for the purchase of the steel ships of the Government merchant fleet.

The vessels are to be sold in accordance with the new policy recently announced by Chairman Benson, which fixed minimum prices of from $160 a ton to $185 a ton for the various types, with provision for payments over a period of ten years. When ships are taken "as is and where is" and the whole amount paid in cash, a discount of 10 per cent. will be allowed, the board stated.

PACKERS SUBMIT PLAN FOR STOCKYARDS SALE

Department of Justice to Pass on Offer Before Court Action.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—A plan under which the Big Five—Swift, Armour, Morris, Wilson and Cudahy—would dispose of their stockyard interests has been submitted to the Department of Justice for approval and probably will be filed in the District of Columbia Supreme Court by Aug. 31.

The plan was drawn up in accordance with a decree entered in the local courts early in the year and under which the packers within two years must disassociate themselves from unrelated lines of business and restrict themselves to the wholesale meat trade.

The plan for selling the stockyard interests was to have been filed today, but the court extended the time until Aug. 31 so that the Department of Justice might have time to examine it thoroughly.

The decree agreed to by the packers and the Department of Justice was the result of a compromise between the packers and the Government growing out of the anti-trust action begun by the Department of Justice last Summer by direction of President Wilson as a part of the fight on the high cost of living.

Gives Opposition to Syndicate.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Armour & Co. announced today that in obedience to the Government ruling the "Big Five" packers had today given an option to a syndicate for the purchase of the packers' interests in the Union Stockyards.

The names of the group seeking control of the yards were not divulged, but it is understood that it is not a single interest. This was indicated by the fact that Armour & Co. have already sold some of their smaller stockyard holdings in Southern cities. It is said that the yards involved in the transaction today include not only the great Chicago stockyards, but also those at Omaha, Kansas City, Denver, Sioux City and St. Paul.

An Armour official this afternoon said that the packers were particularly interested in having farmers' organizations, which have been most bitter in their criticism of the conduct of the stockyards business, obtain the yards.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The centre of the high pressure that has been over the St. Lawrence valley during the last forty-eight hours has moved southwadr to New England and the pressure remains high over the Northwest. Relatively low pressure covers the Plains States and the Southwest. It is cloudy over much of the country east of the Rocky Mountains, and during the last twenty-four hours there were rains in the Atlantic and Gulf States and in the region between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains.

The temperature has fallen over the Central Rocky Mountain region and the Plains States and it is rising again in the Far Northwest. Normal temperatures prevail throughout the Eastern and Southern States and the Middle West. Freezing temperature and frost occurred Thursday morning in the Yellowstone National Park.

In New England the weather will become cloudy Friday and be followed by showers Friday night and Saturday with moderate temperature. In the Middle Atlantic, South Atlantic and East Gulf States, Tennessee, the Ohio Valley and the lower lake region the weather will be unsettled Friday and Saturday, with showers and probably thunderstorms, and no material change in temperature. In the upper lake region there will be showers Friday and fair and cooler weather on Saturday.

FORECAST FOR TODAY AND SATURDAY.

Northern New England—Partly cloudy Friday, followed by showers Friday night and Saturday, moderate temperature.

Southern New England—Cloudy Friday, followed by showers by Friday night and on Saturday, moderate temperature.

Eastern New York, New Jersey—Showers Friday and probably Saturday, moderate temperature.

Western New York—Cloudy with probably showers Friday and Saturday, not much change in temperature.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

STATE OF RHODE ISLAND, PROVIDENCE, SC.: SUPERIOR COURT.
Contrexeville Manufacturing Company vs. Oswegatchie Textile Company, Eq. No. 3113.
DECREE

The above petition came on to be heard on this fourteenth day of August, 1920, and was argued by counsel, and thereupon upon consideration thereof, it appearing that said Oswegatchie Textile Company is insolvent in that it is unable to pay its debts in the ordinary course of business, it is ordered, adjudged and decreed as follows:—

1. That Russell H. Handy, of the Town of Lincoln, in the County of Providence, in the State of Rhode Island, be and hereby is appointed receiver of the estate and effects of said Oswegatchie Textile Company, of every kind and description, wheresoever situated within the jurisdiction of this court.

2. That said receiver is hereby authorized and directed to take charge of the estate, effects, business and affairs of said corporation and to preserve the same; to collect the outstanding debts, claims and property due and belonging to said company, with power to prosecute, adjust and compromise all claims belonging to the corporation, and to defend, adjust and compromise all claims against said corporation.

3. That said receiver is hereby authorized, in his discretion, subject to any further order of this court upon application of any party in interest, to carry on the business of said corporation pending the settlement of the estate, in such manner as will, in his judgment, best conserve the estate of said corporation; and to this end to employ, discharge and fix the compensation of all officers, managers, superintendents and other agents and employees as may be necessary.

4. That the said receiver is hereby authorized, in his discretion, from time to time, out of the funds coming into his hands to pay all taxes due or becoming due from said Oswegatchie Textile Company upon property belonging thereto or any of it, and all other current expenses incident to the administration of said receivership and the continuance and carrying on of said business, and to pay the wages and salaries of all officers, managers and other agents and employees employed or retained by said receiver, including any payrolls, salaries and wages unpaid and heretofore accrued within six months last past, but not more than One Hundred Dollars ($100.) to any one person, and to hold and retain the net revenues from carrying on said business, to the end that the same may be applied under this order and such other orders as this court may hereafter make.

5. That said receiver, subject to the consent of and upon order of this court, may borrow on the credit of said estate any necessary money to carry on such business in manner herein authorized.

6. That said receiver, within ten days after the date of this decree, shall execute a bond with surety to be approved by this court and to be filed with the clerk thereof in the sum of Fifty Thousand ($50,000) Dollars, conditioned for the faithful discharge of his duties in the premises, and to account for all funds coming into his hands according to the order of this court.

7. That said receiver be and hereby is authorized and empowered to accept the Workmen's Compensation Act and to file and post notices of such acceptance as required by law.

8. That the time for filing the itemized schedule of assets and list of creditors as provided under Sec. 22, Chapter 339 of the General Laws of Rhode Island 1909, be and hereby is extended to Sept. 15, 1920, with the privilege also reserved to request of this court a further extension of time therefor if it is found necessary.

9. That the institution of any separate suit by any creditor of said Oswegatchie Textile Company be and is hereby enjoined.

10. That notice be given of the entry of this decree by publication of a notice containing a copy of said decree by the clerk of this court in the Providence Daily Journal and the New York Times twice a week for two consecutive weeks commencing on or about August 18, 1920, and by the petitioner mailing a notice containing a copy of said decree to each of said stockholders and to each creditor of said Oswegatchie Textile Company whose address is known to it.

11. And it is further ordered that any party in interest in the premises may apply to this court for further directions with respect to the property and estate in this order referred to.

12. That the authority of said receiver hereby appointed shall continue until otherwise ordered by this court.

Entered as the decree of court this 14th day of August, 1920.

By order
DORAN, J.
Hunter C. White, Asst. Clerk.

A true copy:
Attest: HORACE G. BISSELL, Asst. Clerk.

Long Time Bonds

The amount and variety of long time bonds available at present low prices is limited, owing to the fact that most of the new issues are of short or medium duration. Corporations are unwilling to pay present burdensome rates of interest on new issues, except for a relatively short period.

Those desiring long term investments must depend largely upon old seasoned issues, and many experienced investors are now buying this class of security.

We can supply a limited amount of long time bonds at prices yielding around 7%, and we recommend the purchase of such bonds at the present time. We shall be glad to send details and circulars to those interested.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Rally in Stocks Accompanies State Freight Rate Rulings—Grain and Cotton Recede.

The speculative following of stocks found more than passing interest yesterday in the New Jersey Railroad Commission's action in accepting the Interstate Commerce Commision's blanket rate increases. Nor was the decision of the Public Service Commission of New York, which granted freight rate advances, with certain exceptions, equal to the interstate rates, overlooked. These two decisions in important freight originating territory of the East acted to lessen tension over stubborn conflicts between national and State jurisdictions, although it was realized in stock market quarters that the way had not been cleared for the smooth introduction of new freight rates on Aug. 26 in all parts of the country. It may be expected, however, that such reasoning as the New Jersey authorities advanced will receive a hearing in many other States, at least in so far as freight charges are concerned. The New Jersey Commission maintained that a basic transportation law made mandatory rates which would bring a prescribed return on invested capital and "that the chance existed of intrastate rates being lifted higher than the through rates if joint action were not taken to insure an adequate income on railroad investment."

When, after studying the decisions from the two States, the short interest in stocks attempted to cover, offerings became exceedingly light. Railroad and railroad equipment, automobile, steel and other issues advanced, scoring net gains extending from large fractions to more than 4 points. The sugar shares were still under pressure and some irregularity existed among specialties, but the broad tone was of strength. A small turnover pointed to the absence of public participation, although brokers who devote effort to the development of cash accounts reported a moderate increase of such purchases. Call money stood at 7 per cent. throughout the day.

As the State of Pennsylvania had previously granted rate increases under its control equal to those contained in the Interstate Commerce Commission's award, it seems that the Eastern traffic districts are now well represented in the movement to approve the national rate structure in its major aspects. There is material in these decisions to relieve anxiety among railroad managers lest a decided obstacle arise to postpone the general application of the new freight rates a week from today. Doubtless passenger rates will be the subject of contention for some time to come, but the revenue involved is by no means commensurate with that derived from freight and the roads will be able to afford a period of adjustments in this field if it proves necessary. Should there be rapid acceptance of State rate applications on a basis approximating those voted by the Commerce Commission, it is not beyond the realms of possibility that the stock market will reflect more than before the real import of the rate decision. But the credit situation remains steadfast as a deterrent influence for speculation for the rise. Time money is difficult to get at top quotations. The only encouraging feature of the money and credit position at the moment is contained in impressions of bankers that the crop moving strain as now visualized will not overtax available banking resources.

Wheat and other grain prices receded, and cotton continued its persistent decline, all, presumably, answering the urge provided in the tale of receding commodity prices in many directions.

The foreign exchanges were again weak, sterling dropping 3 cents further to 3.58. For the first time since the first week of May German marks got below 2 cents each. The European rates appeared to be drawing back under offerings of grain and merchandise bills which were coming upon a market of light buying power.

AMERICAN ON PERU BOARD.

Said to Represent the Harriman Steamship Interests.

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 18.—H. W. Barker of New York reported to be a representative of the Harriman interests, has been elected a member of the Board of Directors of the Peruvian Steamship Company, a Government-controlled line, according to announcement here. It is understood that this does not indicate eventual Harriman control of the company, but merely a close working arrangement.

Officers here of the firm of W. A. Harriman & Co. said yesterday that they could throw no light on the report from Lima that W. H. Barker, reported to be their representative, had been elected to the directorate of the Peruvian Steamship Company.

Mr. Barker, it was said, was employed to make certain investigations for the firm in Chili and Peru unconnected with steamship matters. It was added that the Harriman interests had no connection with the Peruvian Steamship Company.

Colorado Fuel & Iron Earnings Up.

The report of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company for the quarter ended June 30, 1920, shows gross receipts of $14,230,347 as compared with $10,529,415 in the corresponding period in 1919, while net earnings from operation increased to 2,130,272 from $1,144,316 in the June, 1919, quarter. After deductions for interests, taxes and other charges balance for the quarter was $1,546,881, as compared with $627,154 in the year before.

SUES TO STOP DEAL IN PREFERRED STOCK

Shareholder Obtains Temporary Injunction Against the American Cyanamid Company.

ASSAILS THE DIRECTORS

Asserts They Are Trying to Acquire Stock at 50 Cents on the Dollar —Two Suits Pending.

Further difficulties between the American Cyanamid Company and Charles H. Baker, of Mohegan Lake, a large stockholder and formerly Vice President, have developed it was learned yesterday. Mr. Baker having applied for an injunction restraining the company from buying in 30 per cent. of the outstanding preferred stock until such time as two suits which he has pending against the company have been decided. A temporary injunction was granted several days ago by Supreme Court Justice Tompkins at White Plains and arguments on making this permanent until the suits are decided will be heard today.

In his affidavit asking the injunction Mr. Baker asserts that it is his belief that the plan to convert the available surplus of the company to the purchase of the preferred stock is nothing more than a part of a plan to deprive the common stockholders of their rights to a dividend on such common stock, thereby depressing the value of the common stock as well as the preferred, which it is alleged the Directors are endeavoring to acquire at 50 per cent. on the dollar as against the price of $120 a share as provided in the by-laws of the corporation. The circular of the company announcing the proposal to retire the preferred states that the purchase price will be $80 a share.

This circular reads as follows:

To the Stockholders American Cyanamid Company:

For your information I inclose copy of resolutions this day unanimously passed by the Board of Directors of American Cyanamid Company, authorizing its Treasurer to purchase 30 per cent. of the outstanding preferred stock from its front record on Aug. 16, 1920, at 60 per share, plus accrued and unpaid dividends, payable in New York Exchange. Formal offer will be mailed as soon after Aug. 16, 1920, as practicable.

Yours very truly,
C. M. GRANT, Secretary.

The difficulty between the Cyanamid Company and Mr. Baker dates back to early last year when two suits were filed, one to cause the return of bonuses paid by the company to certain of its officers, and the second to force the company to pay dividends on the common stock. It is contended in the affidavit by Mr. Baker that the retirement of the preferred stock would eliminate the liquid assets which should be available to the common stockholders, thereby tending to prevent the payment of dividends. It is further stated that to retire the amount of preferred contemplated would require such a large amount of money that bonds would have to be sacrificed by the company. It is alleged that bonuses of $288,000 were paid to officers of the company during 1918 and 1919 in addition to their regular salaries. The President of the company, Frank S. Washburn, is said to have a salary of $25,000 a year, but that in 1919 he received a bonus of $49,657. The first suit by Mr. Baker is to force a return of all the money paid out in bonuses. The total of the bonuses, it is said, would be the equivalent of about 5 per cent. on the common stock of the company. The present surplus of the company is $2,748,390, and the retirement of 30 per cent. of the preferred, it is said, would require $1,438,980. Elijah N. Zoline is attorney for Mr. Baker, and the Cyanamid Company is represented by Hughes, Rounds, Schurman & Dwight.

Inquiry made at the offices of the Cyanamid Company yesterday disclosed the fact that none of the officers of the company was in the city. The President of the company, Mr. Washburn, it was said, was in Europe.

CHANDLER MOTOR DIVIDEND.

President Thinks Present Rate of $2.50 Quarterly Will Continue.

The Chandler Motor Car Company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $2.50 a share, payable Oct. 1 to stock of record Sept. 10. F. C. Chandler, President of the company, spoke of the future of the automobile industry with optimism. He thought the present dividend rate could be maintained indefinitely. "Our July earnings," he said, "were $1,193,000 and our seven months' earnings (both figures before taxes) were $6,414,000, which compares with $5,621,000 for the entire year 1919.

"We have on hand cash and Government securities of $4,500,000 and have no banking or other indebtedness except current bills rendered since Aug. 1. We should earn this year in excess of $10,000,000, which is $36 a share on our capital stock.

"The automobile business generally is in a healthy condition. Up to recently sales have been largely in excess of production, and with tightening of money everywhere, of course, less money is being spent for automobiles, just the same as practically every other line of merchandise.

"I believe that we are going to have a good Fall business, for there are a lot of people who might have bought cars in the last couple of months that have not done so, and a great many will undoubtedly buy during the next three or four months."

CENTRAL LOAN OPENS TODAY

Subscription Books Ready at J. P. Morgan & Co. Office.

Formal announcement was made yesterday that subscription books will be opened at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. today for $25,000,000 ten-year 7 per cent. collateral trust gold bonds of the New York Central Railroad Company, which are being offered by a syndicate composed of that firm, the First National Bank, the National City Company, the Guaranty Trust Company, the Bankers Trust company and Harris, Forbes & Co.

Proceeds from the sale of the issue will be used to retire $15,000,000 of the company's notes maturing Sept. 15, and $8,000,000 of bank loans. Collateral behind the issue consists of $25,000,000 New York Central refunding and improvement mortgage 6 per cent. bonds Series B, $3,750,000 par value Reading Company first preferred stock and $5,500,000 par value Reading Company second preferred stock.

It was reported in authoritative quarters yesterday that the demand for the bonds was excellent.

CREDIT STRINGENCY PARTLY RELIEVED

National Bank of Commerce Says Autumn Agricultural Demands Will Be Supplied.

BUSINESS ON SOUNDER BASIS

Many Concerns Abandon Policy of Abnormal Profits for Conservative Methods.

The National Bank of Commerce, in a statement issued yesterday, asserts, discussing money and markets, that while the credit requirements of the new crop movement will not reach their maximum volume for some time, and easier credit cannot be expected until the peak of the movement has been passed, the situation has improved enough to make clear that the Autumn agricultural credit demands will not be too great for the banks to supply. Continuing the statement reads:

"There are indications also that many commercial borrowers, in response to expectations of a credit stringency during the Fall which have prevailed for many months, have at least to some extent anticipated their Autumn requirements for credit. This factor, coupled with the continued tendency toward reduced volume of business and lower prices for many commodities, may be expected to relieve the pressure of commercial and industrial credit requirements. It must be recognized, however, that some little time will be necessary for this relief to make itself manifest, because of the interval which must elapse before a new policy in business brings results.

"Although superficially not much change is evident in the general business situation from that of July 15, nevertheless underlying intrinsic conditions are slowly and steadily making for a sounder situation. An important element is the determination of business interests to carry into effect a new policy of conducting their affairs on sane and conservative lines, looking toward stability and continuance in business rather than to the policy which until recently prevailed of doing as much business as possible at high prices on a basis of excited public buying, with resulting abnormal profits.

"With few exceptions, the wholesale markets are now in a condition of inactivity not paralleled since the period of uncertainty which followed the armistice. Normally, this is the dullest season of the year and the condition of stagnation is partially to be ascribed to that fact. To a far greater extent, however, it is the result of a widespread realization which has at last become general throughout the business community, that the present downward price movement is not a temporary tendency but a decline toward a new level applicable to postwar conditions, a level which can be found only by cautious experimentation in the market. It is possible that in some commodities this new level has already been reached.

Stock Exchange Elects Two.

Stephen M. Ames and George M. Woolsey have been elected to membership in the New York Stock Exchange, according to official announcement yesterday.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Auto Stocks Strong.

Substantial gains were made in the automobile group yesterday. This advance was, however, largely the result of short covering rather than new buying for long account. For some time it has been realized that the auto companies could not keep up their high rate of production in the face of a decreasing demand for cars, and with plants beginning to curtail operations in certain instances, there was heavy short selling of auto stocks. Short selling must eventually be followed by covering and this was just what happened yesterday. Chandler Motors was one of the leaders, gaining slightly more than four points. The rise came in conjunction with a statement by F. C. Chandler, President of the company, that the automobile industry was in a healthy condition. He predicted a good Fall business. It was this statement which undoubtedly helped to drive in the shorts.

Agwi Advances.

Atlantic Gulf and West Indies was in good demand throughout the day. The opening was well above the preceding close and the shares continued to move forward as trading advanced. The gain was a direct reflection of the announcement of the extensive plans which the company has for the development of its oil properties. Atlantic Gulf entered the oil field only a comparatively short time ago but has since then made tremendous strides. The plan to spend $50,000,000 on developments in connection with its oil properties indicates that perhaps the company may in time develop to the point where its oil interests overtop those of shipping.

Another Big Oil Well.

Word from Mexico yesterday told of the bringing in of another big gusher. This latest recruit to the list of new oil wells is controlled by the Empire Gas and Fuel Company of Mexico, which is a direct subsidiary of the Cities Service Company. The well is showing an initial flow of 65,000 barrels a day and is located in the Chijampa section, which is known as the light oil field of Mexico. The new well is in close proximity to a well recently brought in by the Texas Company. Since free drilling operations were permitted in Mexico under a decree of the late President Carranza, issued shortly before his death, a number of large wells have been opened up, and this in part accounts for the increased shipments of petroleum which are now being made from Mexican ports.

Seek Another Holiday.

Stock Exchange members set out yesterday to obtain another three-day holiday from the Board of Governors. A petition was in circulation asking that Saturday, Sept. 4, be declared a holiday. As this is the Saturday before Labor Day the granting of the petition would permit of a holiday until Tuesday, Sept. 7. The petition will go to the Board of Governors and probably be acted upon at their next meeting.

***

Equipment Orders.

Several of the trade publications in the steel industry report that the railroads are not ordering equipment on the scale that had been expected. This is natural since the problem of financing is not an easy one to solve. There is one fact clear, however, that the railroads need equipment and will order to the limit of their ability. Furthermore it seems certain that the business that will accrue will be as much as, if not more than, the equipment companies can handle. It stands to reason that with the car shortage as great as it is, there could not be a satisfying of all demands in a limited time even were the roads in shape to take care of the financial end of the situation.

Baldwin Shorts Cover.

Baldwin came forward a bit prominently in the afternoon when the shorts endeavored to cover. The shares gained some three points on the day. The Baldwin issue has been turned over more time than any other on the big board since the first of the year and has doled out some nice losses as well as some big profits among the bears.

***

Short Covering Rules.

The general improvement in prices on the Stock Exchange yesterday was due chiefly to short covering by the professionals when three distinct and constructive news items became known to the Street. First, the overnight news regarding the Polish situation took the snap out of bearish operations and there was a bulge in prices at the opening. Additional reports from the other side showed even more improvement in the Polish-Bolshevist situation and later there was further short-covering in evidence when the Public Utility Commission of New Jersey announced that it had no authority to suspend railroad rates initiated by the Interstate Commerce Commission in accordance with the provisions in the Transportation act. It had been expected in some quarters that the State authorities in New Jersey would be reactionary in the matter. Still later the decision of the Public Service Commission in New York State, which granted the I. C. C. freight rate advances, had a stimulating effect, and altogether the bears had a trying day. The resiliency imparted to the list was general and not confined to the railroad shares.

A Commission That Regulates.

In both banking and railroad circles yesterday considerable approval was expressed over the refusal of the Interstate Commerce Commission to allow a storage charge by railroads of $10 a day or for a fraction of a day on open-top and coal and coke cars. The roads in initiating such charges did so with the idea of stopping the wholesale abuse of normal demurrage charges. But the attitude yesterday in the financial district was not so much approval of the Commission's suspension of the high charge in itself, but approval of the evidence that the Commission is really a constructive regulating body. In quarters where a high demurrage charge or penalty for the holding of cars has been repeatedly urged in the past the opinion was expressed that the Commission eventually would make some ruling which would take care of the situation adequately.

New Railroad Financing.

The report yesterday in authoritative quarters that the new issue of $25,000,000 New York Central bonds was going very well led to the assertion in bond circles that offer issues which have been discussed recently might very probably follow the flotation of this latest one. It was repeated again that the bulk of future railroad offerings would be long time paper rather than the one and two year issues which the market recently has seen a good deal of.

Tel. & Tel. Financing.

Following recent official statements from the American Telephone and Telegraph Company of the continued growth of the concern's business since the end of its control by the Government, there has been considerable talk in the financial district about new financing which the company would do. Yesterday it was stated in authoritative quarters that there was little probability that the company would be in the market for any heavy borrowing this year, although there might be some financing on a moderate scale. Those familiar with the affairs of the company consider the fact that it is behind in accommodating its new subscribers as due to a lack of materials and supplies which the company kept on hand in large quantities in anti-bellum days. The natural inference was, of course, that replenishment of such supplies would mean heavy expenditures, which in turn would necessitate new financing.

More for Your Money

The only way you can get more for your money than you could a few years ago is to purchase good securities. Some of the best railroad, government and corporation bonds yield from 7% up. There are obvious opportunities which should be taken advantage of by those who have large or small funds immediately available.

SEEK COAL PEACE IN SEPARATE STATES

Central Miners, Quitting Joint Conference, Promise Effort to Curb Strikes.

SEND REPORTS TO WILSON

Operators Tell President Their Offers Were Refused—To Take Up State Agreements Monday.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 19.—Officials of the United Mine Workers of America concluded their conferences here today and departed for their homes after having failed to reach a wage agreement with the bituminous coal operators of the central competitive field.

There will be no general suspension of work, John L. Lewis, President of the mine workers, declared before boarding a train.

"I anticipate that the whole matter can be adjusted without inconvenience to the public," he said. "There may be sporadic strikes; in fact, some locals were out today when they heard the conference was not getting anywhere."

At a meeting of the miners today to discuss their policy it was decided to meet the operators separately in the four States of the central field—Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Western Pennsylvania—and make separate supplemental wage agreements.

President John Moore, of the Ohio mine workers, announced that the Ohio Executive Board will meet in Columbus on Monday afternoon to decide when and how to request a scale conference with operators of this State.

Frank Farrington, President of the Illinois miners, said that the miners of that State will meet the operators in Chicago on Monday. The original demands of $2 a day increase for day or month men, for which the Illinois miners went on strike several weeks ago, will be presented, he said.

Miners' officials believed that an agreement would be signed quickly in Illinois and that Indiana operators would follow. Ohio and Western Pennsylvania operators were expected to resist making an agreement. This action here practically disrupts the central field as a basing point.

Proposals Rejected, Say Operators.

As the joint conference now ended was called by President Wilson for the purpose of adusting inequalities in the present wage scale agreement, operators and miners sent separate telegrams to the President today advising him of their failure to reach an agreement. The operators' telegram to President Wilson was as follows:

At your request the Scale Committee of operators and miners of the central competitive field met at Cleveland to consider and attempt to adjust any inequalities in the existing contract resulting from the award of the bituminous coal commission. The miners contended that the day and monthly men had not received an equivalent advance that the award allowed the tonnage men.

In order to meet the situation in its broadest sense and in conformity with your suggestions, the operators proposed to advance this class to the equivalent of that granted the tonnage men in machine mining, this class having received the largest percentage of advance.

The miners refused to accept, and demanded an advance of $1.50 per day, which, if granted, would have created further inequality, to the disadvantage of the tonnage men.

This would lead to more serious trouble and dissatisfaction in districts in full operation under contracts entered into between operators and miners.

The operators then proposed that the question in dispute be submitted for final settlement to a commission, as suggested in the report of the bituminous coal commission. This proposition was also rejected by the miners. Finding ourselves hopelessly deadlocked, we regret to report that we were compelled to adjourn sine die.

MICHAEL GALLAGHER,
Chairman.

Miners Promise Wilson Their Aid.

The miners' telegram to the President, sent after the adjournment of this morning's supplemental meeting, was as follows:

Pursuant to the request contained in your telegram of Aug. 10, the mine workers' representatives of the central competitive field met in joint conference with the coal operators in Cleveland on Aug. 13. We have diligently applied ourselves to the task of adjusting the inequalities contained in the basic interstate agreement growing out of the award of the bituminous coal commission. We have found it impossible to reach an agreement with the coal operators of the central competitive field bearing upon the issues involved.

There is no controversy affecting any principle but merely a difference of opinion as to what constitutes an inequality and the degree to which it should be adjusted.

As a consequence, the joint interstate conference adjourned last night without decision. While this circumstance may be regarded as unfortunate, I am of the opinion that there is no necessity for any public apprehension.

There are reasonable grounds for the belief that the questions at issue between the operators and miners may yet be harmonized through the instrumentality of agreements which may be consummated in the individual coal producing districts without inconvenience to the public. The sincere efforts of the representatives of the mine workers will be promptly exercised to the application of this policy.

JOHN L. LEWIS,
President United Mine Workers of America.

While Ellis Searles of Indianapolis, one of the spokesmen for the miners, said today that there would be no strike, the operators were not so optimistic. One leading operator said: "Anything might come out of the situation."

Warns of Government Action.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 19.—President Frank Farrington of the Illinois Miners' Union, in a telegram from Cleveland to all Illinois miners' locals today, ordered all miners to stay at work pending a meeting with Illinois operators at Chicago on Aug. 23. A strike now, his message said, would result in Governmental action.

Sixty Indiana Mines Idle.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 19.—Strikes by day men in a number of mines of the Indiana coal field today resulted in the closing of several shafts. The strikes followed the failure of the wage scale conference of miners and operators at Cleveland to reach an agreement on wages asked by the day men.

Reports received this morning at headquarters of the Indiana Bituminous Coal Operators' Association at Terre Haute showed that twenty-three mines were idle at Clinton.

Thirty mines were reported idle in the Terre Haute district, and ten at Bicknell, two on account of strikes and eight because of a car shortage.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Directors of International Cement Corporation have declared an initial quarterly dividend on the 261,982 shares of stock of 62½ cents, payable Sept. 30 to stockholders of record Sept. 15.

The Automatic Straight Air Brake Company announced that M. E. Hamilton had become associated with it as field engineer.

George M. Powell, Jr., has been appointed assistant controller, and Chester N. Van Deventer assistant manager of the foreign department of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York.

Stockholders of Robert Reis & Co., It was announced yesterday, may exchange their temporary certificates for definitive ones at the Columbia Trust Company, the transfer agent.

FRENCH EXPORTS INCREASE.

Rise for Six Months 7,230,228,000 Francs—Imports Up 2,738,502,000.

PARIS, Aug. 19.—An official list of imports and exports for the period from Jan. 1 to July 31, 1920, published here today, shows increases of 2,738,502,000 francs in imports and 7,230,228,000 francs in exports over the same period last year.

The imports for the two periods, respectively, were 21,760,742,000 francs and 19,022,240,000, while the exports were 12,006,630,000 and 4,776,402,000 francs, respectively.

To Retire $1,000,000 of Stock.

Directors of the United Paperboard Company have decided to recommend to stockholders at the next annual meeting the retirement of $1,000,000 of the preferred stock. Retirement of this amount would leave $1,500,000 preferred outstanding. Part of the amount which it is proposed to retire has been bought and is in the treasury of the company. The balance to make up the $1,000,000 would be purchased upon ratification of the plan.

$75,000,000 Chilean Loan Proposed.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 19.—President San Fuentes has approved a message to Congress asking authorization for a loan of approximately $75,000,000 on behalf of the State railways, which would take up previous loans and be for the purpose of purchasing new equipment and making improvements, including electrification of the lines. Half the amount of the loan would be sought in Chile and the remainder abroad.

APPROVE NEW BROKER FEES.

245 Exchange Members Vote for Changes in Bond Commissions.

Changes in brokers' commissions on bonds on the New York Stock Exchange which went into effect yesterday were approved by the votes of 245 members, according to an announcement made yesterday afternoon. In brief, the changes are:

First, the commission has been fixed on securities of the United States, Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands, and of States, Territories and municipalities therein. To non-members at not less than $6.25 per $10,000 par value; to members on a clearance order at not less than $3.125 per $10,000 par value; to members, when a principal is given up, at not less than $2 per $10,000 par value.

Second, on railroad, public utility and industrial bonds having more than five years to run. To non-members the commission has been increased from $12.50 to $15 per $10,000 par value; to members on a clearance order at not less than $5 per $10,000 par value; to members, when a principal is given up, at not less than $3.75 per $10,000 par value.

Five votes were cast against the change and there was one defective ballot, making total votes 251.

COTTON AT NEW LOW, FALLS 79-104 POINTS

Several Options Descend to Prices Beneath Those of Last February.

SPOTS DROP TO 34.25 CENTS

The South Sells Heavily and Liverpool's Scanty Buying Aids Break.

Cotton prices moved into new low ground for the current movement, several options reaching levels lower than in the liquidating period of last February. There was heavy selling pressure throughout the list at the start of business, mainly from Southern sources, whence came a continuation of hedging operations against a falling spot market. Spot cotton declined sharply at Liverpool, and the tale of receding quotations at Southern spot markets was increased. The local spot price of 34.25 cents per pound disclosed a drop of 75 points for the day. The rallying power of future contracts was slight, not exceeding 20 to 30 points from minimum levels, but as the most pronounced recovery came at the close the market was left in a steadier position than in the midday period of liquidation.

The October option declined 79 points from Wednesday's final bid price. December 104, January 97, March 90, May 93 and a nominal bid for July disclosed a recession of 90 points. Almost as disturbing to bullish calculations as the sales of domestic origin was the lack of buying power at Liverpool. Only 4,000 bales changed hands in the British spot market, although exports here of 14,600 bales were the largest for the week.

It has been evident during the last few days that disturbed trade conditions were making their effect steadily more pronounced, both at home and abroad. The action of prices was reported to have added more uncertainty to the problems already existing in the textile market, and the bears have found fruitful material in observations from manufacturing quarters anent the reluctance of buyers to enter the market for finished goods.

It is too early yet to talk with any assurance of a 14,000,000-bale crop with weather conditions unfavorable in important sections of the growing territory, but the raw cotton trade is in a mood to give ear to such a prediction.

RAIL DEFICIT IN JUNE.

Trunk Line Losses Were $15,616,328, Commission Reports.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Trunk line railroads of the United States incurred a deficit of $15,616,328 on June operations, according to a preliminary report issued today by the Interstate Commerce Commission for the six months of 1920, including June, the report fixed net railway operating income at $13,664,120, against $154,930,908 in 1919.

Increased wage charges which the roads have been obligated to pay under the recent decision of the Wage Board were included in a part of the mileage reported on, the Commission said, but it had not been ascertained for all of the lines. A full report on the earnings deficit will be made after all of the back payments have been allowed for.

Gross operating revenue during June, the report said, was $480,949,000, while operating expenses were $464,965,000. The ratio of expenses to revenues was 96.7 per cent., while for June, 1919, it was 83.5 per cent.

In addition, taxes for the period amounted to $3,469,000, while back wages due under the increase of the Wage Board, as estimated by roads whose estimates were furnished in time for the compilation, amounted to $26,371,765.

HYLAN ATTACKS GRANITE DEALERS

Charges Propaganda to Mislead People in Court House Criticism.

ORDERS AN INVESTIGATION

LaGuardia Says Architect Stood for "Jazz" in Consenting to Change to Limestone.

A charge that criticism of the city Administration for deciding to construct the new Court House of limestone instead of granite is due to the machinations of what he calls the "granite contracting combination," was made yesterday by Mayor Hylan in a letter to Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield directing the latter to make an investigation of the matter "so that the people may know the truth."

F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, repeated his assertion that he believed the change undesirable. Mr. LaGuardia declared that this was no time to build the Court House anyway, with building material so expensive. He expressed surprise that Guy Lowell, architect of the Court House, had consented to the change, repeated the quotation that architecture is really frozen music and, to complete his musical parallel, said that in substituting limestone for granite Mr. Lowell as an architectural composer had stood for "jazz" instead of something real in the frozen music line.

In directing Commissioner Hirshfield to investigate, the Mayor called the former's attention to articles and an editorial in The New York World. The Mayor said:

"For the first time in a good many years the granite contracting combination did not secure a big city contract, and now they are circulating propaganda in an endeavor to mislead the people and make them believe that an exorbitant price is being paid for limestone.

"Any one with common sense knows they do not use limstone to build homes, and the money that is being used to build this Court House could not be used to build homes. The men that work on limestone do not lay brick and aid in the construction of homes.

"It is most amazing how the contracting rings get to some of the papers, and the papers print misleading statements for the people to read.

"The limestone contract for the construction of the Court House was $125,000 less than the lowest bid for the construction of the court house in granite, and the lowest bidder was going to secure the granite from a quarry that has not been operated in several years. The next lowest bid was from a reputable firm and was several hundred thousand dollars higher than the limestone bid. The granite contracting political crowd are very much peeved to think they did not get this contract."

Mr. LaGuardia intimated that the decision to build the Court House now was influenced by a desire to favor some Tammany contractors. He denied that organized labor had sought to hasten the erection of the building.

"It was something more powerful than labor," he said. "There is the Tweed Court House. The same condition which existed there seems to reign now."

WHEAT PRICES FIRM.

But Buying of Futures by Seaboard Connections Causes Slight Decline.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—There was a lack of pressure at the start of the wheat market today which caused initial prices to be firm. First quotations were unchanged to ¼c higher, with December 239 to 239½ and March 241. Houses with Eastern connections were in the market early, but when corn started downward there was free selling by local traders, causing prices to take a sharp dip, which caused commission houses to buy on resting orders. They soon absorbed the surplus in the pit and a rally set in and firmed the market.

Later houses with seaboard connections became good buyers of wheat futures, presumably with the idea of exchanging them for cash grain to fill old sales abroad, and the market closed weak with prices 1¾c to 2¼c net lower, December being 237 and March 239.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday were 4,817 packages. Demand was quite active for the highest grades of fresh creamery, and there was a little better call for medium grades, poor qualities still moving slowly. The quality of the arrivals continues to run off. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 56¼@57c; extras, 92 score, 56c; firsts, 90 to 91 score, 53½@55¼c; firsts, 88 to 89 score, 51½@52½c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 48½@50c; low grades, 47@48c. EGGS.—Yesterday's receipts were 11,751 cases. The supply of high-grade fresh was barely sufficient for needs. Some diversion of trade to storage eggs may relieve the scarcity somewhat in the near future. Prices were without material change. A large quantity has no value above a range of 45@48c, some inferior lots going lower. Very fancy qualities of white eggs were firm with a fair demand. Fresh gathered, extras, dozen, 57@58c; extra firsts, 54@56c; firsts, 49@53c; seconds, 45@48c; thirties, No. 1, regular packings, 42@43c; checks, fair to choice, dry, 38@39c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, 53c; firsts, 49@52c; seconds, 45@48c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby Western hennery whites, extras, 70@72c; extra firsts, 65@68c; firsts, 60@64c; gathered whites, firsts to extra firsts, 60@68c; undergrades, 56@58c; Pacific Coast, white, extras, 70@72c; extra firsts, 64@68c; firsts, 60@65c; undergrades, 54@58c; Petaluma, small, 54@56c; other Western and Southern, gathered whites, 50@62c; State, Pennsylvania and nearby Western, hennery browns, extra, 60@65c; gathered brown and mixed colors, graded, extras, 57@58c; firsts to extra firsts, 49@56c.

COAL SHORTAGE CONTINUES.

Utilities Still 100,000 Tons Below Their Normal Surplus.

A report received yesterday by Acting Public Service Commissioner Barrett showed that on Wednesday the various public utilities in the city had a total of 273,313 tons of coal, an increase of 14,000 tons over the preceding week. Mr. Barrett said that the companies were more than 100,000 tons behind their normal coal supplies and that he regarded inability to increase the surplus more rapidly as indicating a serious shortage in the Fall.

He said the Interstate Commerce Commission would be asked to extend this city's priority order until the utility coal stocks were great enough to tide them over any possible delay in deliveries.

FARM BORROWERS ORGANIZE

New Body Will Represent 4,000 Loan Associations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The National Board of Farm Organizations announced today that a national organization of the Co-operative Farm Borrowers of the United States, with headquarters in Washington, was under way. The new organization will represent 4,000 farm loan associations organized under the Federal Farm Loan act.

The movement is due to the crisis facing the Federal Farm Loan system, the activities of which, it is claimed, are paralyzed because of litigation pending in the United States Supreme Court.

The association is to be organized on a voluntary basis by local farm loan associations which are to be formed into State unions as soon as conventions can be held. A national convention will be called as soon as ten State unions have been organized.

NORWAY BARS LUXURIES.

Government Acts to Halt Declining Value of Its Money in Exchange.

CHRISTIANIA, Aug. 19.—Importation into Norway of articles of luxury such as automobiles, diamonds, laces, paintings, pianos and phonographs is forbidden by a Government order effective today. The list of forbidden imports also includes silk, jewelry, watches, furniture, furs, patent leather shoes and motor cycles.

The action was taken in order to halt the decreasing value of Norwegian money, largely caused by overwhelming imports, while exports declined. American trade is thereby restricted, as the greater part of the articles named have been imported from America.

The high dollar rate had already restricted the purchase of American goods. The rate today was 6.67 kroner to the dollar, as against the normal rate of 3.72.

ARREST T. E. WATSON AFTER HOTEL AFFRAY

Disturbed by Card Players at Buford, Ga., He Protested, Scantily Clad.

BUFORD, Ga., Aug. 19.—Thomas E. Watson, once Populist candidate for President and now a candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator from Georgia, together with his traveling companion, E. H. Miller, was released today from the Gwinnett County Jail, where they spent the night as a result of a disturbance in a hotel here.

Watson was charged with "public indecency" in having appeared in a corridor in his night clothes, while Miller was charged with carrying concealed weapons. Watson's bond was placed at $500 and that of Miller at $1,000.

Both men agreed to leave the jail after a conference with Thomas W. Hardwick, former Senator and candidate for Governor, and John I. Kelly, candidate for Congress, who arrived here today.

Mr. Watson issued a written statement in which he said that, since his nervous collapse in Florida two years ago, he had, on the advice of his physician, taken small quantities of stimulants after extraordinary exertion.

"At Winder on Wednesday I addressed an enormous crowd, speaking directly under a heavy warehouse roof," he said. "Almost all of the speakers there were overcome with the heat. Seeing this, a friend at Winder gave me a small bottle of whisky, from which I took only two drinks, one at Winder and one at Buford as I went to bed.

"The noise of the men who were playing cards in the lobby came directly into my room. I stepped out to the lobby rail and tossed a book down to attract their attention, saying that the loud conversation of the card players made it impossible for me to sleep.

"During this conversation I did not see the proprietress at any time. I returned to my room. To my utter astonishment, I was seized by two powerful policemen, with whom I struggled for my liberty, as they did not tell me of my offense and did not exhibit any warrant. I was not aware that the landlady was anywhere near.

"In the struggle with the policemen my underclothing was torn and disarranged. Of course, when I was being treated that way, I used some pretty strong language, having no knowledge of the presence of the lady. I apologize to her profusely for saying anything which she may have heard."

The Police Chief at Buford said that Mr. Watson had started the disturbance in the lobby, asserting that men paid by his political opponents were disturbing his rest. His companion, Miller, according to the police, had drawn a revolver when they sought to take the disturbers into custody.

APARTMENT HOUSE BUYERS.

Investors Will Hold East Thirtieth Street Property.

The seven-story elevator apartment building on plot 40 by 99.6 at 25 East Thirtieth Street, adjoining the northeast corner of Madison Avenue, has been purchased by the newly formed Twenty-five East Thirtieth Street Company. George Wolf, C. Fishel and C. Rosenstein are directors in the company, and will hold the realty for investment. Last December Michael Kaufman, President of the A. H. Investing Company, bought the property, together with the adjoining twelve-story apartment structure at the northeast corner of Madison Avenue and Thirtieth Street, from Benjamin Winter.

The two six-story tenements, on plot 98.4 by 99.11, at 250 to 256 West 146th Street, adjoining the southeast corner of Eighth Avenue, have been purchased by George Ellis from Eugene Weiss.

Antonio Sorge sold to Lionello Perera 2,995 First Avenue, near 107th Street, a six-story tenement, 25.2 by 100.

W. J. Huston & Son sold for Ennis & Sinnott to a client of Henry Schumacker's Sons, the five-story apartment house at 560 West 184th Street, on plot 37.6 by 75.

The four-story flat, 25 by 50.11, at 302 West 102d Street, has been bought by Theodore C. and Harriet R. Wood from May R. Remington.

Louise Davis and another sold to Antonio and Maria A. Pillitteri the southeast corner of Chrystie and Stanton Streets, three five-story tenements, 75.3 by 49.11.

The A. B. D. L. Realty Company bought from Hyman Arguinick and others the six-story flat, 37.6 by 100.11, at 320 East 103d Street.

The Ella Realty Company sold to Jennie Springer the five-story flat, 25 by 100, at 109 Goerck Street, near Stanton.

Joseph F. Seitz sold for Minnie T. Brown the five-story apartment house at 219 East Sixtieth Street, on lot 20 by 100.

Morris Florea sold for the Rev. Joseph Shestokas to a client the four-story tenement 460 East 115th Street, on lot 20 by 100.11.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday....8 per cent. for the best names
Wednesday....8 per cent. for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

***

Gowns for Little Girls.

Very gay trimmings are shown on little girls' dark wool gowns. Embroidery in wools, of the brightest tones, bands of red, with other colors ornamenting them, and even tiny red tassels are used. There are very narrow vest effects in many of them and the sleeves are always half length.

Publicity for Knitted Goods.

In a letter to manufacturers of knitted goods, S. S. Sampliner, Chairman of the Publicity Campaign Committee of the National Association of the Sweater and Knitted Textile Industry, explains that over $27,000 has been pledged for the work of keeping up consumer and buying interest in knit goods. The campaign will not be launched until $50,000 has been pledged. The payment is made of one-tenth of one per cent. of the sales of the manufacturers who contribute. The trade is being asked to co-operate more fully with the movement.

***

Leather Embroidery on Hats.

Marvelous ingenuity is shown by the manufacturer in inventing new things for the modiste. Among those which add to the gayety of chapeaux is what may be called for lack of a better name embroidery of leather on colored wool cloths. The leather is very thin, and is set on the cloth in raised effects, fruits of all kinds and, in more colors than fruits ever grew, in the form of wreaths. The cloth is a rough finish wool, some rich color, like a purple, and an entire hat can be made of it, the fruit falling into place around the crown.

Gray Goods Improve a Bit.

A slightly improved demand was noted yesterday in the local gray goods market. The improvement was not marked, but was felt in a somewhat better tone to trading. The reaction, though small, was said to extend to the market as a whole. Sales of 38½-inch, 6.25, 60-48 printcloths were made at 12½ cents. The price of 38½-inch 64-60s continued at 16 cents and the same quotation governed sales of 39-inch, 68-72s, 4.75 yard goods. The 39-inch sateen construction, 4.20 yard, 64-104, sold at 20 cents. Thirty-six-inch, 4 yard, 56-60 sheetings were taken at 16 cents.

Want Last Year's Prices.

The stumbling block to operations for the Spring woolen season is understood to be the insistence of buyers on getting prices the same as last year. Some large buyers have approached the big sellers for the purpose of sounding out the ideas of the latter on future prices. Even with values declining, it is said, the mills cannot see their way clear at present to bringing quotations down to last year's level. There has been an increase in manufacturing cost of approximately 35 per cent., and larger expenses to be met in other operation costs. These advances have more than wiped out the advantage of being able to purchase cheaper wool, the mill owners say, and for that reason prices as low as last year are not warranted.

Regarding Shoe Prices.

The most popular price range in shoes for the coming Fall will be, it is felt, between $6 and $12. For this reason, the manufacturers of high grade shoes do not see a very large demand ahead for their products. It is explained that the public has never paid the high peak of shoe prices but that this Fall, despite a wholesale decline, high grade shoes will sell for more than they ever did. Last August, the shoes being sold for this Spring jumped up about $3. That was the peak price, but it was only paid at wholesale because the retailers were forced to sacrifice goods during the backward Spring season. A decline of about $2 has been registered on the price of Fall shoes, but this still leaves a dollar advance, which will have to be considered in "regular prices" this Fall.

Mill Idleness.

Although comparative figures are not available, the recent Government report on woolen machinery that is idle is said to show practically the same stoppage as in 1907, the panic year. At that time, according to the estimate of a prominent woolen man, there was but 58 per cent. of the machinery employed, leaving 42 per cent. idle. The Government figures for July 1 placed the percentage of idleness at 42.8 per cent. This percentage will be exceeded, he said, when the figures for Aug. 1 are issued, because many shut-downs were made during July.

***

Consider Raw Silk Improved.

The local raw silk market, according to H. L. Gwalter & Co., is showing a somewhat improved tone, and prices have registered slight advances all along the line, influenced by the upward trend of the Yokohama market. There is a noticeable revival of interest in Canton new style filatures, which for some months past have been rather inactive, but which today are again attracting the attention of manufacturers who prefer this silk to Japan tram stock, when prices are in its favor. Advices from Europe report the Milan market more firm and prices firmer. It is expected that the Italian crop this year will exceed last year's by about 20 per cent.

Fur Men Against Auction Sales.

The committee appointed at the recent conference of fur interests in this city to seek the postponement of London fur auction sales in October has drawn up a resolution strongly urging that no sales be held until next January. It is the opinion of the committee which met yesterday that the public offering of furs under present conditions would be disastrous to the entire industry both in this country and in Europe, as the publication of further declines would destroy the confidence of the buying public and seriously affect the sale of manufactured furs both at wholesale and retail. The views of the trade here will be put before the London Fur Trade Association. The committee, of which Samuel Ullmann is Chairman, is composed of the following: M. Eltingon, Maynard Miller, Walter Jaeckel, G. I. Fox, Mac Cohen, John Sanditz, O. G. Becker, Fred Kaufman, J. H. Bleistein, Milton Schreiber, J. S. Loedwick, Harry Abrahams, David Steiner, Alfred Eisenbach, Fuerst and the Harris Fur Company. The American and Canadian fur companies have agreed to a postponement if London would follow suit.

HOTEL CUMBERLAND LEASE IS BOUGHT

FURNISHINGS ALSO SOLD

Twelve-Story Building, at Broadway and Fifty-fourth Street, Contains 240 Rooms.

Manger Brothers have added the Hotel Cumberland, at the southwest corner of Broadway and Fifty-fourth Street, to their chain of New York City properties. They purchased yesterday from Mrs. Mamie K. Stimson the lease on the hotel, which, it is said, has still about seven and a half years to run. The property is being operated under the terms of a twenty-year lease from the owner, the Construction Realty Company, William C. Adams President, which built it in 1902.

The furnishings in the hotel are included in the purchase. The consideration in the transaction could not be learned.

Manger Brothers have been steadily adding to their string of hotel properties within recent years. They now control, besides the Cumberland, the Netherland, the Endicott, the Grand, the Martha Washington and the Great Northern in Manhattan, the Bell apartment house in the Bronx, the Hotel Continental in Philadelphia and the Plaza in Chicago.

The Cumberland is twelve stories in height, covering a frontage of 75.10 feet on Broadway and 101.3 feet on Fifty-fourth Street. In contains 240 rooms. It was operated soon after its completion in 1902 by Edward Sweet. In 1906 it passed into the control of Robert Spencer Finney.

Mrs. Stimson is the widow of Harry P. Stimson, who became President of the Hotel Cumberland Company in 1907, and who was for many years Secretary of the New York Hotel Men's Association. Mr. Stimson died on March 8 of this year.

PRIVATE DWELLING SALES.

Chefs' Association Acquires West Forty-eighth Street House.

The Kitchen Chefs' Association of America has bought from Annie M. Martin the three-story building at 132 West Forty-eighth Street. It occupies a lot 20 by 100.4, between Sixth and Seventh Avenues. The property carries mortgages of $40,000.

David Lamb sold for F. Robert Mager to Peter F. Meyer the private dwelling at 224 West 147th Street.

Ennis & Sinnott, operators, purchased from the estate of James R. Smith 513 and 515 West 150th Street, two four-story American basement duplex dwellings, each on a lot 15 by 100. W. D. Morgan negotiated the sale.

John J. Hoeckli, Inc., sold for William Daniels the three-story private house at 441 West Forty-third Street, to be occupied by the buyer, Dr. J. Kessler; also, in conjunction with Frank Lombardi, the three-story house at 365 West Forty-sixth Street, to Mrs. Brown, which will be occupied by the purchaser.

Porter & Co. sold for Herman H. Rippe to Joseph Carney the three-story dwelling at 140 West 129th Street.

Ford T. Dabney sold 231 and 235 West 138th Street, two three-story King model dwellings, each 17 by 99.11, with facilities for garages, to buyers for occupancy.

James J. and Anna C. Nugent purchased from Charlotte A. Nelson the three-story dwelling, 20 by 100.4, at 435 Fifty-seventh Street.

Sidney W. Hughes sold to the Avalon Corporation 128 East Fifty-seventh Street, a four-story dwelling, 22.6 by 25.5.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society sold the three-story King model dwelling at 2,352 Seventh Avenue, 22 by 78. The new owner will alter the property into stores and offices.

Shaw & Co. sold for Julia E. Cameron the southwest corner of Mount Morris Park and 121st Street, known as 2 West 121st Street, a four-story dwelling, 20.11 by 100. This is the first sale of the property since 1899.

Two Skyscrapers Deeded.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has acquired title to the nineteen-story Washington Building, at 141 Broadway, southwest corner of Liberty Street, and the sixteen-story St. James Building, at the southwest corner of Broadway and Twenty-sixth Street, former holdings of the Pittsburgh Life and Trust Company, which got into financial difficulties here a few years ago. The transfers were made by Thomas B. Donaldson, as receiver of the company.

The Washington Life Building was conveyed subject to a mortgage for $3,900,000. The structure fronts 53.6 feet on Broadway and 159.7 feet on Liberty Street, extending back to Temple Street, where it fronts 82.2 feet. The transaction also included the three-story building adjoining, at 139 Broadway, 28.3 by 110. The St. James Building fronts 94.4 feet on Broadway and 109.4 feet on Twenty-sixth Street, and was conveyed subject to a mortgage for $3,000,000.

Purchase in the Bronx.

The Aronson Mercantile Company, Inc., A. C. Thomas, President, sold for an out-of-town client to Samuel Levine the two five-story apartment buildings, on plot 100 by 100, at 1,163 and 1,165 Bryant Avenue. Renting for $24,500, the houses were valued at $175,000.

S. J. Taylor sold for F. Butler the one-family residence at 2,226 University Avenue, on a plot 37.5 by 101 feet, south of West 183d Street, to Joseph Goodman for occupancy.

The Hudwill Corporation, Hudson P. Rose, President, purchased the one-family house at 1,662 Zerega Avenue, and also the three one-family houses at 536, 538 and 540 Union Avenue.

The George Goldblatt Company and Lincoln Price sold for Leo Abraham 4,273, 4,277 and 4,279 Vario Avenue, three two-story dwellings, to be occupied by the purchasers.

$700,000 Automat Lease.

A long-term lease at a rental aggregating $700,000 has been taken by the Horn & Hardart Company from Weber & Heilbroner of the basement, containing 8,000 square feet, in the building to be erected at the northeast corner of Nassau and John Streets. The lessee, which is the owner of the "Automat" restaurants in New York and Philadelphia, has engaged Frederick Putnam Platt & Brother, architects, to install the equipment and fixtures for its new restaurant. Tankoos, Smith & Co. negotiated the lease. Weber & Heilbroner, who recently obtained a 100-year lease of the property, plan the construction of the new building when the present leases expire next May.

Plans $175,000 Residence.

Merrill N. Gates, lawyer, will build a costly residence on the site of the two private dwellings at 65 and 67 East Seventy-fifth Street, northwest corner of Park Avenue. The plot measures 84.4 by 102.2, the avenue frontage taking in half the block front between Seventy-fifth and Seventy-sixth Streets. The northerly half is occupied by the thirteen-story apartment house known as 830 Park Avenue.

Plans for the residence project were filed yesterday by J. M. Hovrells, architect, who estimates the cost at $175,000. It will be four stories in height.

Commercial Leases.

Henry Shapiro & Co. leased to Mme. Rhoda, for the sale of millinery and gowns, the store and basement at 2,413 Broadway for a term.

Thomas R. Crawford leased the second floor of the Healy Building, southeast corner of 145th Street and Broadway, to a client, who will spend $10,000 on alterations. The premises will be occupied as an American Chinese restaurant. The rental for the term will approximate $140,000.

Sells East Side Garage.

Malcolm E. Smith, Inc., sold the garage at 123 East Seventy-seventh Street for the estate of Christopher Creamer to Lewis C. Ledyard. Mr. Ledyard recently sold his garage at 116 East Eighty-eighth Street through the same broker.

ANOTHER NEW PLAYHOUSE.

John Cort Leases Old Davenport Theatre Site.

The Davenport Theatre Building, a three-story structure at 22 to 26 West Sixty-third Street, which was started several years ago but never completed or used as a theatre, has been subleased by the Sixty-third Street Corporation, of which Travis H. Whitney is President, to John Cort for a term of twenty-one years.

The structure, which occupies a plot 75 by 100 feet in the rear of the Century Theatre Building, is owned by an estate represented by W. F. Clare, who recently leased the property to the Sixty-third Street Corporation for a term of twenty-one years.

The property was sold at public auction together with the adjoining ten-story building on June 14, 1918, to William F. Clare and others, trustees, for $200,000, by Henry Brady, auctioneer.

According to plans filed yesterday by Thomas W. Lamb, architect, the three-story building which has been used as a music hall is to be remodeled into a theatre at a cost of about $75,000.

Mr. Cort said yesterday that the new theatre would have a seating capacity of about 1,200 and be ready for opening during the Christmas holidays.

This and the recent Shubert deal indicate the extension of the theatrical centre northward from Times Square. Two weeks ago the Shuberts leased from E. S. and J. S. Appleby the large T-shaped plot on the westerly side of Seventh Avenue, with frontages on Central Park South and Fifty-eighth Street, until last Winter occupied by the Central Park Riding Academy.

It is the intention of the lessees to erect at once a theatre with a seating capacity of about 2,200.

The plot contains about 22,500 square feet and the lease involves about $4,000,000 for the term, which extends over a period of about sixty years.

No figures could be obtained on the lease of the old Davenport Theatre site.

DEALS IN BROOKLYN.

Instrument Corporation Acquires a Roebling Street Factory.

Samuel Peck sold to the Woolf Instrument Corporation the three-story factory building, on a plot 100 by 125, at the corner of North Seventh and Roebling Streets, held at $125,000. The broker was James B. Fisher.

E. T. Newman sold the four-story store property at 236 Seventh Avenue for A. Warner to an investor.

The Martin Company sold for Fannie Hershkowitz the four-story building at 90 Fulton Street to A. E. Rice; also, for John B. Hoecker, the four-story business building at 326 Livingston Street.

Henry Pierson & Co. sold the three-story dwelling at 175 Prospect Place, 20 by 131, for the estate of Harriet Stoutenborough.

Ross & Gretsinger, in conjunction with Simon & Mahler, sold the three business buildings, 7,603, 7,609 and 7,611 Fifth Avenue, to clients for occupancy.

The Bulkley & Horton Company sold 24 St. James Place, a three-story one-family dwelling, on a lot 20 by 100, for the Wilmington Savings and Trust Company of North Carolina to a client for occupancy.

A $500,000 Alteration.

The demand for space in the financial district has induced the Dominion Properties Company, Inc., to add four stories to its eight-story office building occupying the block front on the west side of Hanover Street between Beaver Street and Exchange Place.

Plans for the improvement have been prepared by A. F. Gilbert, architect, who estimates the cost at $500,000.

Downtown Properties Bought.

Frank H. Celschlager bought from the Fush Realty Company the five-story building at 75 Front Street, southeast corner of Old Slip, on a lot 19.7 by 54.10.

Postcham Tranit, stationer, purchased the stock of the 18 East Twenty-third Street Company, Isidore Glantz President, which owned the six-story loft building, 25 by 98.9, at 18 East Twenty-third Street. The selling company bought the property a few months ago.

Instruction.

MAKE YOURSELF A JUNIOR ACCOUNTANT

JUNIOR ACCOUNTANTS EARN $30-$50 A WEEK.

SENIOR ACCOUNTANTS EARN $50-$200 A WEEK.

If you are ambitious to become a successful accountant, our training should enable you to make yourself a junior accountant, earning from $35 to $50 a week within five months, and WITHIN TWELVE MONTHS should qualify you for a position of senior accountant, auditor or tax expert at a salary of at least $75 a week, with possibilities of double that or more.

It is only a question of industry—a fixed purpose to devote a few spare hours a week to intensive training in accordance with the most successful business training system ever devised—the La Salle Problem Method.

Thousands of ambitious men and women have doubled their incomes long before graduation through this short assured problem method of instruction.

B.R.T. STRIKE THREAT STANDS

Garrison Bars "Closed Shop" in Talk with Delaney.

The threat of a strike of B. R. T. employes remained undiminished yesterday following a conference between Transit Commissioner John H. Delaney and Lindley M. Garrison, receiver of the B. R. T. system. The meeting was sought by Commissioner Delaney, who declared that Mayor Hylan had requested him to ascertain whether the existing situation could not be changed.

The likelihood of any immediate walkout by the men, with consequent blockade of the Brooklyn lines, did not loom any nearer, however. Both Commissioner Delaney and Mr. Garrison appeared confident that the men would not act hastily and violate their contract, which still has a month to run.

The meeting was a private one and was held in the Public Service offices, 49 Lafayette Street. At its termination Mr. Garrison said that, acting under the direction of the Federal Court, he had refused to entertain any proposition for a "closed shop." He stated to Commissioner Delaney that if the demands which the employes had submitted were expurgated of all provisions looking toward the establishment of a closed shop, the other demands would be promptly taken up in the usual way for consideration.

FEDERAL SALES TAX URGED BY J. S. BACHE

Rotarians Applaud Banker's Proposal for 1 Per Cent. "Turnover" Levy.

TO REPLACE PROFITS TAX

Present System Largely to Blame for High Cost of Living and Labor's Dissatisfaction, He Says.

Adoption of a 1 per cent. "turnover" tax, paid by sellers to supersede the excess profits tax and surtax was advocated by Jules S. Bache, New York banker, in an address which was received with enthusiasm by 300 members and guests of the Rotary Club at a luncheon yesterday at the McAlpin Hotel. The keynote of his address was that bad times are coming, "but the bad times need not be so bad if we adopt a prompt remedy." This remedy, according to the banker, is a different method of taxation:

Mr. Bache said that the present discrimination against large incomes under the prevailing tax system was driving them to cover; in many instances they were hiding under "the umbrella of taxless municipal investments," and this accounted in part for the present shortage of money for development of enterprises. He predicted that the continuation of the present tax system might in a short time result in the gravest consequences.

"The taxing situation in this country," Mr. Bache said, "is at this moment exactly where the railroad situation was under Government operation, in that under Government operation, always at a loss, the loss was made up by increasing the burden of the four or five hundred thousand people who pay taxes, leaving the balance of the nation to use the railroads on unremunerative terms. The difference between the effects of the turnover or sales tax and the present excess profits tax is that the turnover tax fixes a small percentage which every one shall pay, and know that he is paying, while the excess profits tax, though seemingly paid only by those who make profits, is really added on in enlarged form, and spread over consumption of every kind.

"The turnover tax is not entirely a new departure. After the civil war in this country a sales tax was imposed for revenue requirements, and proved so successful that it was continued for a time even after the necessity for it had disappeared. Canada has recently enacted a form of sales tax, and the new French tax law includes a tax on practically all turnover, similar in its incidence, to the sales tax which I am speaking in favor of.

"I recognize that there are many transactions upon which no tax can be levied. I recognize that there are many turnovers which cannot be reached by the tax-gatherer. We cannot expect the newsboy, the peanut vender or peddler to make returns, and it is as well legally to exempt them as to make them tax-dodgers.

"I should, therefore, start with the basis that all turnovers should pay a tax of 1 per cent., but where the turnovers of any one individual or other unit be less than a sum which can be fixed at, say, $300 per month exemption should be granted.

"I admit that it may be found in the final inauguration of this tax that other cases will be met with where exemption may prove necessary, but I believe that a 1 per cent. tax on turnover, no matter how great the necessary exemptions may be, will result in raising two-thirds of the money necessary for the maintenance of the Government of this country, for the paying of interest on its debt and the reasonable redemption of that debt. What is needed above that can be raised by a levy on incomes above $10,000, and without making the burden on those incomes so great as to impair their usefulness to enterprise or even drive them under the umbrella of municipal investments.

"I believe that the taxes of this country in their present form are in a great measure responsible for the high living cost, and the restiveness of labor. While it must be admitted that high prices can in the main be traced to other causes than that of taxation, yet there can be no doubt that, owing to the uncertainties and the amounts of the present taxes, the passing on of arbitrary additions to prices of commodities by each dealer in turn through whose hands the commodities pass is largely the cause of the high cost of living, since the ultimate consumer must bear the brunt of the successive additions. Labor disaffection, as a further consequence, must likewise arise from the same cause, since labor is the greatest sufferer."

E. R. BERGDOLL GETS 4 YEARS

Sentenced to Term at Hard Labor in Fort Leavenworth Prison.

The rich draft dodger Erwin Rudolph Bergdoll, brother of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the escaped slacker, has been sentenced to four years at hard labor in the United States Military Prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. He has also been dishonorably discharged from the army and all pay and allowances due or to become due him have been forfeited.

The court-martial which recently tried him for wartime desertion at Governors Island reached a decision last Thursday. Yesterday the decision of the court was approved by Major Gen. Robert Lee Bullard, Commander of the Department of the East, and made public by Lieut. Col. Charles C. Cresson, the Judge Advocate who prosecuted Bergdoll.

Erwin R. Bergdoll surrendered to the military authorities at Governors Island on July 21. He entered a plea of not guilty and maintained an attitude of bored indifference in court until Colonel Cresson submitted the questionnaire filled out by Bergdoll. As soon as the questionnaire was brought up matters changed, for the document showed that Bergdoll had gone through all the regulations of the draft up to refusing to appear for examination.

Erwin Bergdoll, who is 32 years old and a resident of Broomall, Delaware County, Pa., offered the defense that he was a farmer and that the draft board had no right to take an "experienced farmer from a necessary occupation." He was a fugitive from justice nearly two years. He was quoted as saying immediately after the conclusion of his trial that he would much rather break rock than roam about the country hunted like an animal.

Colonel Cresson said that Bergdoll would be sent immediately to Leavenworth to begin serving his sentence. He is to be escorted to prison by a special guard. Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, who escaped from the military guard that conducted him to a place where he said a large sum of money was buried, was convicted of wartime desertion and sentenced to serve five years. Nothing has been heard of him since his escape.
